REGULATIONS FOR A ROYAL HOUSEHOLD.
The following were the remarkable regulations to be observed by certain members of Henry VIII's household: "His highness's baker shall not put alum in the bread, nor mix rye, oat or bean flour with the same, and if detected he shall be put into the stocks. His highness's attendants are not to steal any locks or keys, tables, forms, cupboards, or other furniture of noblemen's or gentlemen's houses, where he goes to visit. Master cooks shall not employ such scullions as lie all night on the ground before the kitchen fire. No dogs to be kept in the court, but only a few spaniels for the ladies. Dinners to be at ten and suppers at four. The officers of his chamber shall be loving together—no grudging or grumbling, or talking of the king's pastime. The king's barber is enjoined to be cleanly. There shall be no romping with the maids on the staircase, by which dishes and other things are often broken. The grooms shall not steal his straw for beds, sufficient being allowed to them. Coal only to be allowed to the king's, queen's and Lady Mary's chambers. The brewers not to put any brimstone in the ale. Twenty-four leaves a day for his highness's grayhounds. Ordered—that all gentlemen and noblemen at the end of the session of Parliament depart to their several counties on pain of the royal displeasure."
Claiborne F. Jackson, a native of Kentucky, was once Governor of the State of Missouri. He joined the Southern Confederacy, and died during his term at a farm house opposite the city of Little Rock, among strangers, with no kind word of affection near to soothe his pain and rob his death bed of half its anguish. His most remarkable fact connected with his history of his life is, perhaps, the statement that he married five sisters in one of the most respectable, wealthy and distinguished families in the State; that as soon as one wife would die he would go and marry her sister in reasonable time. Of course, some of them were widows when he married them. In connection with the marriages there was a staid joke told at the expense of the Governor, which was that, when he went to ask the old gentleman's consent to marry the last one, the venerable father is reported to have said: "Yes, Claib, you can have her. You have got them all. For good news sake, don't ask me for the old woman."

PROPERTY AND INCOME.—The custom we have in the Republic of reckoning a man's means by his property, instead of his income, is as unsatisfactory as it is misleading. In the Old World we hear very little of what a man owns, though we may infer the amount from his prodigality. An Englishman has so many pounds; a Frenchman so many francs; an Italian so many lire; a German so many marks, a yeast; but the income of an American is seldom mentioned. It is always spoken of as worth a certain sum, which may be in Government securities, real estate, merchandise, defaulted railway bonds, non-paying stocks or wild lands. His annual income may be $30,000, $10,000, $5,000, $500 or nothing at all; and yet his property, in any case, is set down at a definite figure. Real value does not consist in what we own, but in what we derive from ownership, especially since every prudent man depends not on his capital, but on the interest derived from its investment.

THE TENNESSEE CONFERENCE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—The Tennessee is one of the six mixed Conferences in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Under authority of the last General Conference the colored and white preachers of Georgia and Alabama have been organized into separate Conferences on the 1st of June. At the recent session of the Tennessee Conference the white preachers voted for a division of the Conference on the ground that the presence of the colored people in the Conference embarrassed the work among the whites. The negroes silently acquiesced in the division, though preferring to meet with the white brethren.
SPLENDID EIGHTEEN.—A light-hearted, impulsive young lady, writing to a friend over the arrival of her eighteenth birthday, tells us in this joyous style:—"Darling J—, I must write to you to-day to tell that at last I am splendid eighteen? Think of it—splendid eighteen—not timid fifteen, winning sixteen, blushing seventeen or even bold nineteen, but—splendid eighteen! I shall commence to live from this day forth. I shall love everybody and everybody will love me."

TO KEEP APPLES.—It is declared by those who know that winter apples picked in "the old of the moon" in October will not decay. The juice runs to the bruises and the fruit decays when picked at any other time. But in the old of the moon the bruises will dry and the fruit be saved.
HOW IT IS DONE.—The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich." The second, how to retain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second (good health) by using GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER. Should you be a dependent sufferer from any of the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Constipation, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of August Flower will relieve you at once. Sample bottles 10 cts.; regular size 75 cts. Positively sold by all first class Druggists in the United States. sep 21-1y

Dinners to be at ten and suppers at four. The officers of his chamber shall be loving together—no grudging or grumbling, or talking of the king's pastime. The king's barber is enjoined to be cleanly. There shall be no romping with the maids on the staircase, by which dishes and other things are often broken. The grooms shall not steal his straw for beds, sufficient being allowed to them. Coal only to be allowed to the king's, queen's and Lady Mary's chambers. The brewers not to put any brimstone in the ale. Twenty-four leaves a day for his highness's grayhounds. Ordered—that all gentlemen and noblemen at the end of the session of Parliament depart to their several counties on pain of the royal displeasure."
Claiborne F. Jackson, a native of Kentucky, was once Governor of the State of Missouri. He joined the Southern Confederacy, and died during his term at a farm house opposite the city of Little Rock, among strangers, with no kind word of affection near to soothe his pain and rob his death bed of half its anguish. His most remarkable fact connected with his history of his life is, perhaps, the statement that he married five sisters in one of the most respectable, wealthy and distinguished families in the State; that as soon as one wife would die he would go and marry her sister in reasonable time. Of course, some of them were widows when he married them. In connection with the marriages there was a staid joke told at the expense of the Governor, which was that, when he went to ask the old gentleman's consent to marry the last one, the venerable father is reported to have said: "Yes, Claib, you can have her. You have got them all. For good news sake, don't ask me for the old woman."

PROPERTY AND INCOME.—The custom we have in the Republic of reckoning a man's means by his property, instead of his income, is as unsatisfactory as it is misleading. In the Old World we hear very little of what a man owns, though we may infer the amount from his prodigality. An Englishman has so many pounds; a Frenchman so many francs; an Italian so many lire; a German so many marks, a yeast; but the income of an American is seldom mentioned. It is always spoken of as worth a certain sum, which may be in Government securities, real estate, merchandise, defaulted railway bonds, non-paying stocks or wild lands. His annual income may be $30,000, $10,000, $5,000, $500 or nothing at all; and yet his property, in any case, is set down at a definite figure. Real value does not consist in what we own, but in what we derive from ownership, especially since every prudent man depends not on his capital, but on the interest derived from its investment.

THE TENNESSEE CONFERENCE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—The Tennessee is one of the six mixed Conferences in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Under authority of the last General Conference the colored and white preachers of Georgia and Alabama have been organized into separate Conferences on the 1st of June. At the recent session of the Tennessee Conference the white preachers voted for a division of the Conference on the ground that the presence of the colored people in the Conference embarrassed the work among the whites. The negroes silently acquiesced in the division, though preferring to meet with the white brethren.
SPLENDID EIGHTEEN.—A light-hearted, impulsive young lady, writing to a friend over the arrival of her eighteenth birthday, tells us in this joyous style:—"Darling J—, I must write to you to-day to tell that at last I am splendid eighteen? Think of it—splendid eighteen—not timid fifteen, winning sixteen, blushing seventeen or even bold nineteen, but—splendid eighteen! I shall commence to live from this day forth. I shall love everybody and everybody will love me."

TO KEEP APPLES.—It is declared by those who know that winter apples picked in "the old of the moon" in October will not decay. The juice runs to the bruises and the fruit decays when picked at any other time. But in the old of the moon the bruises will dry and the fruit be saved.
