MEDICINAL.

DR. TUTT'S
EXPECTORANT.
IN 25 CEN. AND 50 BOTTLES.
Its properties are Demulcent, Nutritive, Balsam, Soothing and Healing. Combining all these qualities, it is the most effective LUNG BALSAM ever offered to sufferers from pulmonary diseases.
Dr. J. F. HAYWOOD, of New York, voluntarily indorses it. Read what he says:
New York, Sept. 19, 1877.
Dr. Tut: Dear Sir—During the year I treated nine hundred cases of lung disease. In the lower wards of the city the cases were of a very severe type. It was there my attention was called to Tut's Expectorant, and I confess my surprise at its wonderful power. During a practice of twenty years I have never known a medicine to act so promptly and with such happy effects. It instantly subdued the most violent fits of coughing, and invariably cured the disease in a few days. I cheerfully indorse it as the best lung medicine I ever used.
J. FRANCIS HAYWOOD, M.D.

A NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER WRITES
Office Evening News, Augusta, Ga.
Dr. Tut: Dear Sir—My little son was attacked with pneumonia last winter, which left him with a violent cough that lasted till within a month since, for the cure of which I am in deb-ted to your valuable Expectorant. I had tried most everything recommended, but none did me any good till I used your Expectorant, one bottle, which removed the cough entirely.
With many thanks, I am, truly, JOHN M. WIGLE.

HAD TERRIBLE NIGHT SWEATS.
Memphis, February 11, 1871.
Dr. Tut: Sir—I have been suffering for nearly two years with a severe cough. When I commenced taking your Expectorant I was reduced to one hundred and sixteen pounds in weight. I had tried almost everything; had tried cod liver oil, I have taken half dozen bottles. The night sweats have left me. The cough has disappeared, and I have gained fifteen pounds in flesh. I recommend it to all my friends.
With great respect,
OLIVER WIGLE.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.
Reader, have you caught a cold? Are you unable to raise phlegm? Have you an irritation in the throat? A sense of oppression on the lungs, with short breath? Do you have a fit of coughing on lying down? A sharp pain now and then in a region of the chest, shoulders and back? IF SO, OUR ADVICE IS to take at once a dose of Tut's Expectorant; you will soon be able to raise the phlegm. In an hour repeat the Expectorant, place a hot brick on the feet, take two of Tut's Pills. You will soon fall into a pleasant sleep and wake up in the morning light, gone, using working freely; easy breathing and the bowels moving in a natural manner. To prevent a return of these symptoms use the Expectorant several days.

The Church of the Holy Trinity, Harlem, Nearly Destroyed.
At a little after 11 o'clock on Tuesday night, Sergeant Armstrong and Policeman Egan of the Harlem police, in passing the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity—on the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and 125th street—noticed an unusual quantity of steam escaping from the chimney, and, fearing that there was something wrong with the heating apparatus, called up the sexton, J. W. Cow-perthwaite, who lives within half a block of the church. The sexton and sexton visited the church and found the fire beneath the boiler raging furiously, and something wrong with the apparatus for feeding water into the boiler, so that there was an inadequate flow. The sexton opened the furnace doors, drew out some of the fire, and waited until he deemed it perfectly safe to re-regulate the automatic mechanism governing the feed, having done which, he and the sexton went away. They had remained there nearly two hours. In that time they thoroughly searched every part of the church, and found nowhere anything to cause alarm. There was no smell of smoke, no apparent overheating of any of the steam pipes which lay beneath the floors and in other parts of the edifice. Sexton Cowperthwaite returned to his home, and was in the act of retiring, when the fire alarm rang out the number 763.
The church was on fire.

The night watchman on the Mount Morris tower had caught sight of the first blizz breaking through a small gallery window on the 125th street side of the church. Sexton Cow-perthwaite ran back as quickly as possible, but though not more than four or five minutes could have elapsed between his hearing of the first alarm and his return to the scene of the conflagration, the whole interior of the building already seemed ablaze and fire was bursting out from windows and roof.

Engine No. 36 was on the ground within three minutes after the sounding of the alarm, and a second alarm speedily brought more help, but the engines were powerless to check the fire until it had consumed almost the entire interior of the edifice and left little more than the walls standing.

Judging from the limited evidence presented by the action of the fire as subsequently seen, it is all probability started in the east end of the church, near the southeast side, and the most tenable theory as to its cause is that it originated in the overheating of pipes charged with superheated steam, in contact with the wood work. The spectacle, when the fire was at its height, was remarkably brilliant. All the windows were of stained glass, and the fire light of the burning, gleaming through these, spread a wealth of fantastic coloring over all about—Vivid tints shined upon the snow banks in the vicinity, lights upon the faces of the anxious multitude gathered about, and even shone in mid-air as they were caught by the streams of water thrown from the engines. At one time there was a sound like a dull explosion, but whether it was caused by the burning of the organ bellows, as some averred, or by the fall of a portion of the roof or of a gallery, could not be determined. Whatever it was, it sent a huge volume of sparks dancing up to the zenith, spreading like a cloud of fire on every hand.
One by one the windows burst and fell in rattling showers of glass, revealing an interior like that of an enormous furnace. So quickly had the fire spread that nothing was saved from the body of the church, and from the vestry room in the southwest corner beneath the tower—exceptable by a small door on 125th street—approach the silver communion service, the cross Bible, and the robes of the rector, the Rev. Dr. McKim. The magnificent organ, which was given by the ladies of the congregation, at a cost of $10,000, went down with a crash in an abyss of fire, and with it went $1,500 worth of music, the private property of the organist, Mr. Ruttenber. The great memorial window in the northwest corner of the church, its chief ornament, spoken of as one of the most beautiful in this country, fell in fragments early in the progress of the fire.
Between the church proper and the chapel, on its northern side, was a screen of stained glass, in four parts, capable of being opened upon occasion, and this soon fell in ruins, admitting the flames to free course through the beautiful little chapel. By this time, however, the fire men were gaining some control of the flames, and the destruction in the chapel was less complete than in the church. Within an hour after the flames broke forth, the edifice was a mass of ruins.
