

ALEXANDRIA. SATURDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 5.

THE NEW ORLEANS Times Democrat, alluding to the recent ex-Confederate demonstration at Macon, Ga., says: 'It is well, indeed, to show, in the most striking manner possible, the intention of our people not to pay the slightest attention to whatever Northern prejudice still exist on this point.'

SENATOR DANIEL, in his speech at Richmond Thursday night, admitted that there is some dissatisfaction with the present administration. This admission shows that the Senator is one of the few democrats in Congress who not only have their eyes open to what is going on around them, but have the manliness to tell what they see.

THE MAN who professes to want good government, and fails to vote for it when he has an opportunity, is more to blame for bad government than the man who votes for the latter. It would be well for Virginia if all her voters would recollect this truism next Tuesday.

GENERAL MAHONE'S ill informed Washington organ of to-day's date, says: 'Men of Virginia remember Washington's advice, 'Cherish public credit.' The most effective way to do that will be to vote the republican ticket this fall.'

FROM WASHINGTON. [Special Correspondence of the ALEX. GAZETTE.] WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 5, 1887. Mr. J. K. Tucker, last night, completed his brief of the Virginia habeas corpus case he will argue before the U. S. Supreme Court Monday week.

Col. Cab Maddox of Virginia, now here, says he came to attend the races and to recover some of the moneys stolen from the Warrenton Springs, of which he is the proprietor, by a colored woman he employed there last season.

VESSEL LOST WITH ALL ON BOARD.—The Wilmington schooner Ocean Bird, Capt. Edward C. Daniels, a passenger and mail packet running from Elizabeth City, N. C., to Roanoke Island and Nag's Head, was lost during the storm of Monday night in the mouth of Pasquotank river, and it is thought that all on board perished.

G. M. Crounch, a farmer 76 years of age, of Preston, Texas, died a few days since, literally eaten by a maggot known as the screw worm. The cattle fly lays the eggs in fresh blood. They were deposited in Crounch's nostrils while he was asleep, his nose having bled just previously.

the counties will be elected. Unless the democrats here be egregiously deceived, they will have a complete walk over in Virginia, and gain several Northern States.

According to the programme, yesterday was the last day of the races here, but the managers last night decided to continue them to day, and four days next week, commencing on Wednesday, so as not to detain here voters in adjacent States.

Hopkins, the New Hampshire man who sent a counterfeit infernal machine to Chief Justice Waite right before last, for the purpose of selling a sensational account to the newspapers, is at large on bail, and probably nothing will be done with him.

The recent visit of Mr. Saltonstall, the mugwump collector of the port of Boston, to the President, is said here to have been for the purpose of trying to induce the mugwump vote of his State to be thrown for Mr. Lovering, the democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A dispatch from Rochester, N. Y., says the strike of the printers on the daily papers is conceded to be a failure. The 275 men who are now locked out can return only on a non union basis.

A jury has been ordered by Judge Clark, of Winchester, from Shenandoah county, to try the case of T. A. Ridenour, charged with the murder of Andrew Brov. The case will be tried in December.

Yesterday afternoon two colored men, named Thompson and Gattling, became involved in a difficulty in a bar-room in Norfolk, which was ended by Gattling striking Thompson on the head with a stone, causing death within an hour. Gattling was arrested and locked up.

The Prince of Wales attended the banquet given yesterday by the United Service Club to the Duke of Cambridge, in honor of the fifth anniversary of his joining the British army. The Duke will be appointed commander-in-chief by patent. The last patent issued was to the Duke of Wellington.

Rev. John Bapst, S. J., died last Wednesday at Mount Hope Retreat, Baltimore county. He was born in Switzerland in 1815. He came to America, having been compelled to leave his country owing to the Sonderbund troubles. He completed his regular course of studies and joined the Jesuit Order in Switzerland.

The Chicago Railway Age says that during the last few months the work of railway building has been going on in the United States at a rate never before equaled. From January 1 to November 1, 274 roads have laid a total of 9,408 miles of track.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

Bears have been reported numerous in the mountains southeast of Woodstock. Several have already been killed.

The number of perkers are so limited this season, says the Outpepper Exponent, that the annual sequel will scarcely be heard, 'Spar ribs and chit'lins will be scarce.'

The Treasury Department has declined to grant the request of the Richmond authorities that a revenue cutter be stationed at the entrance of Chesapeake bay to intercept incoming cholera-infected vessels.

The Presbyterian Synod.

The Presbyterian Synod of Virginia, in session in Norfolk yesterday, recommended the faithful observance of the day of prayer for schools, colleges and seminaries on the last Thursday of January. A resolution was adopted that the Synod of Virginia urge all its congregations in the State of Virginia to contribute to the Virginia Bible Society annually.

The Sabbath school report shows the number of teachers enrolled, 2,989; number of scholars, 22,354; amount contributed for the support, 7,599; amount contributed for other purposes, $3,463.

Memorials were read of Rev. J. G. Hamner, D. D., Rev. E. T. Baird, Rev. S. R. Houston, D. D., Rev. Peyton Howison, D. D., Rev. R. Lewis and Rev. W. F. C. Gregory.

An Address from Mr. Barbour.

To the Democratic Voters of Virginia: In the closing days of the pending canvass in Virginia the democratic executive committee is unwilling to conclude its labors without making some public statement of the progress of the campaign and submitting at the same time an earnest appeal to its political friends and associates to bring out the full force of the party to the election which takes place throughout the State on Tuesday next.

The time for argument is past and the hour for action is at hand. The result of the approaching election will determine whether or not the control of the Legislature of the State is to pass from the hands of the democratic party and its policies be again dominated by that faction which a few years ago exercised almost absolute sway over the destinies of the Commonwealth.

Intelligence received by the committee from accredited sources of information in every section of the State indicates with slight exceptions, the undiminished power of the democratic party and its undoubted ability to elect a majority of the members of the next General Assembly. The only apprehension which prevails arises from the apathy which is alleged to exist in some of the counties and the apparent indifference of the voters as to going to the polls and casting their ballots on election day.

Is there any good ground for this condition of things? If it arise from too much confidence in the strength of the party to elect its candidates let it be remembered that its strength can only be manifested by the delivery of its ballots at the polls. The superior activity of a minority often overcomes the negative or less positive efforts of a majority.

And why should not the democratic party of Virginia make every possible effort to maintain its supremacy in the government of the State? Can the organization afford to give up all the valuable fruits secured by the hard earned victory in the elections of 1883-'84-'85, and surrender unconditionally to the tender mercy of its political adversaries?

What this may be can be inferred from what it has been in our past experience in the legislation of the State. To allow such result to be accomplished would violate the memories of the past antagonists the best interest of the present and destroy the brightest hopes of our future democratic society.

If any dissatisfaction has been created by discussions among ourselves, let it be subordinated to the higher and more important considerations of the public weal. Mistakes of omission and commission have doubtless been made by the representatives of our party, State and Federal, but these are incident to the conduct of all human affairs, and do not furnish proper justification for deserting our principles, and least of all for inducing co-operation with that most objectionable of political organizations which has its home seat in the Northern States of the Union, is intensely sectional in spirit, and is led and directed by the Sheremans and the Forakers, et id omne genus.

The spirit of Virginia, it is to be hoped, has not yet sunk so low as to be willing to desert the lines of the old party founded by her own Jefferson and join hands with republicans of such radical tendencies.

What possible excuse can any right minded man of Virginia present to justify him in taking ground against the democratic party and in co-operating with the extremists of the republican party, who now dominate, for the most part, the political situations at the North? The issue is simple and significant, and must be susceptible of easy appreciation by the intelligence of the people. Not only is the success of the democratic party required at the approaching election by every patriotic consideration, but it is also demanded by the obligations of Virginia to her sister democratic States of the Union to maintain her position in the democratic column.

It is also important that Virginia should indorse the wise and patriotic course of the national administration and approve its general measures of public policy. This manifestation can only be made by sustaining the democratic candidates on election day. Your political adversaries are thoroughly organized for the conflict. It is reported that large sums of money have been sent to the managers to influence public sentiment and to corrupt electors at the polls. Be this as it may, the occasion demands at the hands of the democratic voters the exercise of the utmost vigilance and the employment of all honorable means and efforts to elect their candidates.

The committee trusts that the democrats of Virginia will exert their best energies in behalf of the success of their candidates, and will look to the full delivery of the vote in every city and county of the Commonwealth. JOHN S. BARBOUR, Chairman. Alexandria, Va., Nov. 4, 1887.

BLAMED FOR TELLING THE TRUTH.—The following story serves as an illustration of the ridiculous attitude in which a man may sometimes unwittingly place himself. A few days ago a Washington newspaper correspondent called at the house of Secretary Bayard to see him about a matter of news. The bell was answered by the Secretary's man-servant, evidently a green one.

"Is Secretary Bayard in?" was asked. "Yes, sah," said John. "Will you take him this card?" "Yes, sah. Take a seat, sah." The gentleman seated himself to await Mr. Bayard's coming while John started off with the card. It so happened that the room into which he had been ushered was in close proximity to Mr. Bayard's room, and he soon became intensely amused and interested in the colloquy between the Secretary and John.

"Tell him I'm not in," was the irate response to the servant's announcement. "I can't do that now, sah, 'cause I've done already to' him you was in."

"What did you do for it? How often have I told you that you must say to all callers who ask for me, 'I'll go and see,' so as to give me a chance to be out?" "I don't know, sah, why I didn't, but I done to' him dat you is in."

There were 225 business failures in the United States the past week. Look here, upon this picture, and on that. One a happy boy, dancing and jumping with his friends. The other bent with suffering and pain. The happy child's mother uses Salvation Oil. All druggists sell it at twenty five cents a bottle.

TO-DAY'S TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

The Efforts for Clemency.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Late last night Nica Van Zandt and her mother called on Capt. Schaach and officers at the Chicago avenue station. Miss Van Zandt presented a petition to Gov. Oglesby asking for commutation of the sentence on the anarchists and requested the captain to sign it. She pleaded with him for over 20 minutes, but the doughty police official declined to attach his signature. The girl asked and obtained permission to solicit the officers in the station for their names but failed to secure a single one.

At Chick Lung, some ten miles distant from Ye Yung Kong, 32 lives were lost and three passage boats sank. The island of Hoi Ling contains some thirty thousand inhabitants.

The drummers all say that their business is picking up. It is generally understood that drummers are great at picking up, but we are sure they can't pick up a cold which they could not cure with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

BUT HE PANNED OUT WELL.—"Speaking of greenhorns," said an old Virginia conductor to a correspondent of the Railroad.

"one morning just before the war, as my train drew up at Brandy station, a chap in a butternut suit and a home-made wool hat rushed up and addressed me as I stepped to the ground: 'Is you th'r clerk er this ye'r kyar?'

"I'm the conductor; what do you want? 'I wan't er go ter Washintun on this ye'r kyar.' 'Well, get aboard,' I said. 'He climbed the steps and rapped on the door. When he rapped a second time some wag inside called out, 'Come in.' There were at least fifty passengers in the car. He began at the front seat, shaking hands with every one clear to the back end, and asking each 'How dy'r do?' and then 'How's yo'r folks?'

"A fatal flaw in the above yarn is apparent when it is remembered that the Virginia Midland (then the Orange and Alexandria) Railroad had its terminus in this city before the war, and that the passengers for Washington and the North were transferred from the cars here to the steamboat George Page. Hence the "greenhorn" spoken of could not have stepped from the train in Washington, as stated in the story.

MINERS BLOWN UP.—A terrible explosion occurred at the coal mines of the Maynard Coal Company's Works, located five miles west of the river in Ohio. Wednesday evening after the miners had quit work for the day and were preparing to retire for the night, Fritz Richter, Julius Buckholz, Jack Kessler, John Ekas and Henry Leber were gathered around the fire in the house they occupied jointly, it being a large frame structure. In it was stored a quantity of tools, some oil and a keg of mining powder. While smoking and talking, one of the men emptied the contents of his tobacco pipe on the powder keg, and some loose grains igniting, an explosion occurred, which blew the building into pieces and scattered the five men around with the debris. Richter and Buckholz were both frightfully mangled and their death is but a matter of a few hours. Kessler, Leber and Ekas were very badly burned, but all three will recover.

A SUPPOSED BOMB THROWER.—Thomas Owens, a carpenter, fell from a scaffolding in Pittsburg Thursday and was killed. He went to Pittsburg shortly after the Haymarket riot in Chicago and was in a dilapidated condition. He was nervous and fretful and the sight of an officer seemed to terrorize him. A long time after the Haymarket occurrence Owens confessed to his shopmate and room mate, a man named Piper, a somewhat startling statement. He said that there were many men in jail in Chicago accused of throwing the bombs at the Haymarket, but the police had not caught them all. He then mysteriously whispered that he himself had stood next to the man who had thrown one of the bombs. This story Owens told at the inquest under oath. He belonged to the same group of anarchists as Spies and Parsons.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The opening of the stock market was firm, most stocks being slight fractions above the closing figures of last evening. The market exhibited the same firm tone which existed yesterday afternoon, and on an active and well-distributed business prices advanced steadily, though the gains were for small fractions only. Late in the hour the list yielded, and many stocks were carried back to opening prices and in a few cases a fraction below. The business became more quiet, and at 11 o'clock the market was rather heavy at close to opening figures. Money easy at 3 3/4.
