A Siberian Forwarding Prison.

The Tiumen prison was originally built to hold 500 prisoners, but was subsequently enlarged by means of detached barracks so that it could accommodate 800. On the day of our visit, we were informed by a small blackboard hanging beside the office door, it contained 1,741. As we approached the entrance we were stopped by an armed sentry, who, upon being informed that we desired admittance, shouted through a square port-hole in the heavy gate, "Starshch-e!" (the usual call for the officer of the day). A corporal or sergeant, with a sabre at his side and a Colt's revolver in a holster on his hip, answered the summons, carried our note to the warden, and in a moment we were admitted to the prison yard. Fifty or sixty exiles and convicts were walking aimlessly back and forth in front of the main prison building, or sitting idly in groups here and there on the ground. They were all dressed from head to foot in a costume of gray, consisting of a visorless Scotch cap, a shirt and trousers of coarse homespun linen, and a large gray overcoat with one or two diamond shaped patches of black or yellow cloth sewn upon the back between the shoulders. Nearly all of them wore leg fetters, and the air was filled with a peculiar clinking of chains which suggested the continuous jingling of innumerable bunches of keys. The first "camera" or cell that we entered was situated in a one story log barrack leaning against the wall on the left of the gate, and built evidently to receive the overflow from the crowded main building. The room was about 35 feet in length by 25 in width and 12 feet high. Its walls of hewn logs were covered with dirty whitewash; its rough plank floor was black with dried mud and hard-trodden filth; and it was lighted by three grated windows looking out into the prison yard. Down the centre of the room, and occupying about half its width, ran the sleeping-bench—a wooden platform 12 feet wide and 30 feet long, supported, at a height of 2 feet from the floor, by stout posts. Each longitudinal half of this low platform sloped a little, roof-wise, from the centre, so that when the prisoners slept upon it in two closely packed transverse rows, their heads in the middle were a few inches higher than their feet at the edges. These sleeping-platforms are known as "nares," and a Siberian prison cell contains no other furniture except a large wooden tub for excrement. The prisoners have neither pillows, blankets, nor bedclothing, and must lie on these hard plank nares with no covering but their overcoats. As we entered the cell, the convicts, with a sudden jingling of chains, sprang to their feet, removed their caps, and stood silently in a dense throng around the nares. "Zdrastvuiti rebati!" ["How do you do, boys!"] said the warden. "Zdravie zhelaimo vasha vsvioiki blagorodie!" ["We wish you health, your high nobility!"] shouted a hundred voices in a hoarse chorus. "The prison," said the warden, "is terribly over-crowded. This cell, for example, is only 35 feet long by 25 wide, and has air space for 35, or at most 40 men. "How many men slept here last night?" he inquired, turning to the prisoners. "A hundred and sixty, your high nobility," shouted half a dozen hoarse voices.—June Century.

Two Kinds of Courage.

General Horace Porter contributes an article to the June Century on "The Philosophy of Courage," from which we quote as follows:

"Indifference to danger is not always the form of courage which should entitle its possessor to the highest credit. It is a negative virtue as compared with the quality which enables one to perform a dangerous duty while realizing the full measure of the peril encountered. These two traits are best illustrated by the old story of the two soldiers whose regiment was charging up a hill to a desperate attempt to capture a battery. When half way up, one of them turned to the other and said, 'Why, you're as pale as a sheet; you look like a ghost; I believe you're afraid.' 'Yes, I am,' was the answer; 'and if you were half as much afraid as I am, you'd have run long ago.' It is something higher than physical courage, it is a species of moral courage, which recognizes the danger and yet overmasters the sense of fear. When the famous mine in front of Petersburg had been completed, and the national troops drawn up ready to charge the enemy's works as soon as the mine had done its work in creating a breach, the signal was given just before daylight, the fuse was lighted, and the command stood waiting with intense anxiety for the explosion which was to follow. But seconds, then minutes, then tens of minutes passed, and still no sound from the mine. The suspense became painful, and the gleam of disappointment overpread the anxious faces of officers and men. The fuse had been spliced about midway. It was now thought that there was a defect in the splice, and that it was at this point that the fuse was hanging fire. The day was breaking, the enemy was becoming alert at sight of our unmasked columns, there was not a moment to be lost. Lieutenant Doughty and Sergeant Rees, of the 48th Pennsylvania infantry, now volunteered to examine the fuse. They entered the long dark gallery which led to the mine, and without stopping to calculate the chances of life, calmly exposed themselves to one of the most horrible forms of death. With no excitement to lend them its intoxication, with nothing to divert their minds from the fate which seemed to await them, they followed the course of the fuse through the long subterranean passage, found the defect at which the spark had been arrested, and made a new splice. On their return the match was again applied, and the train was now prompt to do its deadly work. These men displayed even a higher order of courage than those who afterwards charged into the breach."—June Century.

AUCTION SALES.

AUCTION SALE.

Sale of the Alexandria Canal Property.

By virtue of and under the authority of a decree rendered by the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Virginia, dated on the 8th day of May, 1888, in a chancery cause entitled The United States of America vs. The Alexandria Canal Company and others, therein then and now pending, the undersigned, a commissioner appointed by said decree to make sale of the property in the said decree described, will expose for sale at public auction, in front of the Custom House Building, on St. Asaph street, in the city of Alexandria, Va., at 12 o'clock noon, on THURSDAY, THE 7th DAY OF JUNE, 1888, all and singular the right, title and interest of the Alexandria Canal Company in and to the real estate by said decree ordered to be sold, to wit:

FIRST PARCEL.

That certain parcel of ground containing thirty-eight or forty acres, more or less, situated in Alexandria county, Virginia, portions of Sections 11, 1, and 6 of Simms Carberry's plat of a part of the Mason Tract, so-called, upon which the town of Rosslyn, Virginia, is situated, excepting from said tract about five and one-quarter acres, more or less, granted by the Canal Company and others to the United States by deed dated December 18, 1886, recorded in Liber G, folio 436, Land Records of Alexandria county, Virginia, for the purposes of a free bridge.

Part of the said tract has been subdivided into about 105 lots, of which lots about forty-two are under lease running to May 16, 1905, and this sale is made subject to all the said leases, be the same more or less. The premises so to be sold as the first parcel include also the canal, its bed, banks, basins, culverts, and other works and improvements running through said tract of land to the southerly boundary of said tract, all to be sold as one parcel.

SECOND PARCEL.

The bed of the Alexandria Canal, its banks, basins, locks, water ways, culverts, conduits, bridges, tracts, pieces, and parcels of land, including the arches, masonry and improvements at Four Mile Run owned and heretofore used and occupied by the Alexandria Canal Company as a canal and for canal purposes, lying and being in the county of Alexandria, Virginia, and situate between the south boundary line of the tract described above as parcel Number 1 and the north line of lot number 23, as numbered on the plat and abstract of the property of the Alexandria Canal Company known as Cato's plat and abstract, filed in said cause and marked Exhibits J, R, C, Nos. 1 and 2, all to be sold as one parcel.

When any portion of the premises herein described above as parcel Number 1 and the north line of lot number 23, as numbered on the plat and abstract of the property of the Alexandria Canal Company known as Cato's plat and abstract, filed in said cause and marked Exhibits J, R, C, Nos. 1 and 2, all to be sold as one parcel.

When any portion of the premises herein described above as parcel Number 20, situate in Alexandria county, Virginia, lying between 1st, 2d, Washington and Columbus streets, the same to be sold as one parcel.

THIRD PARCEL.

Those certain three parcels of land numbered 22, 23 and 24, with all the rights, title, privileges, and appurtenances thereto appertaining, situate in Alexandria county, Virginia, and containing together about twelve acres, all to be sold as one parcel.

FOURTH PARCEL.

That certain lot, with the appurtenances, marked on said Cato's plat as Number 20, situate in Alexandria county, Virginia, lying between 1st, 2d, Washington and Columbus streets, the same to be sold as one parcel.

FIFTH PARCEL.

All of the bed of the Alexandria Canal, the banks, basins, lots, squares, and parts of lots and squares, and other real property belonging to the Alexandria Canal Company, with the appurtenances thereto appertaining, situate in the county of Alexandria, Virginia, and described as parcel Number 4, to the east side of the "Basin," being the lots and squares numbered 19, 18, 17, 16, 8, 9, 10 in Cato's said plat, and situate in the town of Alexandria, the said lots to constitute the fifth parcel, but to be offered for sale separately as squares and parts of squares, and the said parcel to be sold as a whole.

SIXTH PARCEL.

All of the canal, locks, banks, squares, and parts of squares lying east of parcel Number 5, to the Potomac River, said squares and parts of squares being numbered on Cato's said plat as 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15, situate in the city of Alexandria, Virginia, all of said property to be sold as one parcel.

The said parcel is subject to a lease upon a portion thereof from the Alexandria Canal, Railroad and Bridge Company, to C. M. Shelly, dated May 19, 1886, and recorded in Liber 17, page 580, Land Records of Alexandria County.

TERMS OF SALE.

One third in cash; as to the residue of the purchase money upon a credit of six and twelve months from the day of sale, in two equal installments, with interest thereon at six per cent, evidenced by negotiable notes of the purchasers, the title to be retained under the control of the court until full payment and compliance with all of the terms of sale, the property to be subject to be resold in case of default. Ten per cent of the purchase money to be paid at the time of the sale, the remainder of the cash payment to be paid on the confirmation of the sale. The purchaser not to be let into possession until the full payment of the notes for the deferred payments, nor until the sale is confirmed and an order for possession is entered, conveying to be paid at the expense of the purchasers.

JOHN S. FOWLER, Commissioner to Make Sale.
