MEDICINAL.

IT MADE MOTHER STRONG

"I am in my 64th year. Have been afflicted in several ways—did not sleep, had no appetite, no courage, low spirits. I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound, and felt better from the third day after using it. I now have a good appetite and can sleep well. My spirits and courage are almost like those of a young man."
S. C. KINKADE, D. D., Gonzales, La.

Paine's Celery Compound
Strengthens and builds up the old, and cures their infirmities. Rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness yield quickly to the curative power of Paine's Celery Compound.

A Perfect Tonic and Invigorator. It CIVES NEW LIFE.

"I am now 69 years old and have tried several remedies but none had any effect until I used Paine's Celery Compound. I feel entirely different from the short time I have used it. I can walk nearly straight, sleep sound and well, and feel as though there was new life and energy coming into my whole system."
H. MYLICE, Cleveland, Tenn.

How They Will Die

The New York Star thus describes the future manner of execution in that State: "As the cost of building a special machine would be rather high, and as none of the electrical manufacturers care to make electrical apparatus for the purpose of executions, the dynamo will be of the style of electric lighting on the converter plan, and where there are a boiler and engine already existing they will be used to drive the dynamo.

The size of the dynamo will probably be about thirty to thirty-six inches high by about twenty-four inches long. The speed will be from 1,000 to 1,000 revolutions per minute. This machine will have sufficient capacity to kill a regiment of men at one time, but as it is already on the market it will be used, though much stronger than need be for it will cost less.

Near the dynamo will be a galvanometer for measuring the electrical resistance of the criminal between the points of application of current, and a volt meter for indicating the pressure or electro-motive force of the current. This pressure can be made higher or lower by turning a circular switch or a resistance box. To insure safety of the attendants a large switch will be placed in the current of both the outgoing and incoming wires. These wires will lead to the room containing the chair, which will be built of heavy wooden plank in the shape of a reclining or steamer chair.

The criminal will probably be held in place by straps from the arms of the chair to encircle his arms near the elbow and probably clasp around the ankle. The black cap, which will be slipped over his head, will contain one of the electrodes connected to the current by a flexible cable and cushioned with a sponge of salt water. His feet will rest on a sponge covered electrode, which may be in the form of a shoe or in the form of a dish holding sufficient salt and water to prevent any chance of burning the flesh. All of these preparations can be made very quickly, almost before the person is aware of what is going on.

Some time before the criminal is brought into the room the engine and dynamo will be started in motion and the electro-motive force of the current adjusted to the required pressure of 1,000 volts. All that is necessary after the criminal has been put in position is for the official in charge to close the switches for fifteen to thirty seconds, or this may be done by clockwork. There will be a stiffening of the muscles of the criminal for the first five seconds, after which they will gradually relax. There will be no sound or struggle.

SPEAKING OF BUSTLES.—Not long since the friends of a popular Westside matron decided to give her a surprise party. Her husband was let into the secret in order that madam might be gotten out of the way while her friends took possession of the house.

"My dear," said hubby on the evening in question, after supper, "let us take a little walk."

"No, I can't," said madam, thinking at once of her perspiration. "I haven't my bustle on. Never mind," she added on second thought, "I'll just put it on over my dress and under my cloak, and no one will know the difference."

So they started on their walk. When the proper time had elapsed Mr. Husband led the way home. On arriving, Mrs. Wife was becomingly surprised and her thoughts immediately flew to the enjoyment of her guests. Apologizing for her absence, she threw off her cloak and there was the bustle. Of course everybody saw it and laughed, and the mean things never told her what they laughed at. When all had gone and the wife and the other half of the firm had gone to their room she congratulated herself on the merry time every one had had.

"Wasn't it nice?" she exclaimed. "They all enjoyed themselves so much." And then she saw the bustle.—Buffalo Express.
