

ALEXANDRIA MONDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 11.

THE WORST thing about the recent election in Virginia is the fact that the President of the whole country should have deliberately prostituted the federal government to General Mahone's vile purposes...

His disclaimer, however, does not alter the fact. It only shows that Mr. Harrison knows how to desert a friend when in need. He would have stood better before the nation if he had openly avowed the hope that Mahone would succeed and his disappointment when he met his Waterloo.

Mr. Harrison might just as well deny the fact that he issued his recent hurried proclamation admitting Montana into the Union, for the sole purpose of securing two fraudulently elected U. S. Senators...

BEFORE the election General Mahone and his followers threatened Mr. Brady, a "kicker" who, for signing his name to the famous Quay Brady compromise was appointed collector of internal revenue for the Richmond district...

SEVERAL of the most distinguished families of England are under a cloud of scandal, so hideous as to preclude the publication of the circumstances. The police raid of a house in Fitzroy square recently frequented by high officials in the army, noblemen, and others of elevated social standing...

MR. EDGAR ALLEN, better known as "Yankee Allen," one of the "kickers" who suddenly became subject to the "malign influence" of General Mahone, is so much disgusted with the result of the recent election in this State that he has avowed his intention of shaking the dust of Virginia from his feet...

A BALTIMORE correspondent of a northern paper has discovered that Mr. Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland, having "downed" his opponents in the last election in that State and considering it the most important triumph of his political career, wants to assume the role of a Warwick and dictate to the democracy the next nominee for President...

THE LATE Col. Goodloe may have been a very estimable man; but the fact that Col. Dudley, Col. Clarkson and Senator Quay were his intimate friends and associates, and sent him telegrams regretting the injuries he had received, does not tend to produce that impression upon those who did not know him.

IT IS NOW proposed to span the English channel with a bridge, the cost of which is to be $172,000,000, and have 118 piers to be built in ten years. The spans are to be from 300 to 1,500 feet long, and to be 200 feet above high water. Well, as things go, it is not impossible nor improbable.

IT IS SAID that owing to the great pressure of business traffic the city front of New York is too forbidding and dangerous for travel, and that the North River must either be bridged or tunneled to admit the ingress and egress of trains.

AT SAN FRANCISCO on Saturday Axtell was displaced as the greatest three year old trotter by Leland Stoddard's filly Sunol, who trotted a mile in 2:10, and clipped one and a half seconds from the ex-king's marvelous performance.

IT IS REPORTED that Mr. Payne will not be a candidate to succeed himself in the U. S.

Senate and that his mantle will most likely fall upon the shoulders of Mr. Calvin S. Brice.

The latest estimate of the complexion of the next Legislature is: Senate—29 democrats, 9 republicans and two districts in doubt. House of Delegates—84 democrats, 13 republicans and five counties in doubt. Scott county elected a republican to the House by 1 majority.

THE W. C. T. U. are after Vice President Morton for permitting a bar to be opened in his "data" in Washington, though the license was gotten by the man who rents the house.

PRESIDENT HARRISON had his feathers terribly ruffled by the result of the recent election and had the bad taste to show his displeasure.

THE Mary Washington monument fund, in Washington, is making haste slowly, though Mrs. Harrison has subscribed $10.

FROM WASHINGTON.

(Special Correspondence of the Alexs. Gazette)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11, 1889. So many of the employees of the government departments here were sent home to work for the republican candidates in the several States in which elections were recently held, that the business of some of those departments, especially the Treasury, has been delayed considerably, to the great inconvenience and trouble of many people.

The U. S. District Attorneyship of the Territory of New Mexico, held by Judge Smith, of Warrenton, Virginia, has been given to a republican, Major Fred. Smith, the Judge's younger brother, who has been here for several days, left this evening for his home in Arizona Territory, where he still holds a federal position.

The following is the only change in the 4th class postoffice in Virginia that was made to-day: Pemberton, Goochland county, G. P. Campbell, appointed postmaster, vice T. F. Prettyman, removed.

Representative Lehlbach of the Newark, New Jersey, district, a republican, now here, says his district gave a democratic majority last Tuesday, and that he is certain it will give three thousand democratic majority next fall. He says the republicans' support of liquor and Sunday laws has driven the Germans away from them, and that the brewers, by transferring their political contributions from the republicans to the democratic election fund, give the democrats the most money, and that that is the reason why.

Senator Voorhees, in talking at the Capitol this morning, said the next time he meets Vice President Morton he shall recommend to him several men who will make good samplers of the liquor that is sold at his new hotel here. The Senator says everybody knows that liquor is sold at the hotel referred to, and that the denial that a bar room is there reminds him of the country boy who, having been told by his mother before he went to town not to go to the theatre, disobeyed her, and when subsequently asked in her presence by some of his acquaintances if he had seen Romeo and Juliet, the piece played, neither wishing to displease her nor to have it appear to the enquirers that he had failed to avail himself of the opportunity of witnessing a play, replied that he had seen Romeo but no Juliet.

The opinion generally prevailing on the subject here, among reputable republicans as well as democrats, is that the President, in issuing his proclamation admitting Montana into the Union, did not comply with the law, and that, though he swore he would faithfully execute the laws, he deliberately broke his oath in order to have two more republican U. S. Senators. The President's own party, as represented by the republicans here, think he is a smaller, littler, meaner and narrower man even than Hayes.

Representative Houk, of Tennessee, one of General Mahone's stumblers in Virginia, who sat before the recent election in that State that General Mahone was bound to be elected unless counted out, being asked to-day what he thought of the result, replied that if the returns of the election were even an approximate representation of the political feeling of the people of Virginia, he would acknowledge that he was a fool and knew nothing about party affairs, though he had had long experience in them. When asked how it was possible he could have been so greatly deceived, he, like Senator Blair, replied that it was just as easy to steal forty-three thousand votes as five thousand.

The report of the U. S. Treasurer, just printed, shows that seventeen and a quarter million dollars were paid last year to rich bankers, corporations and individuals, as premiums, over and above the face value of bonds purchased by the government for redemption. Unquestionably this is the greatest robbery government on the face of the earth. It robs its own people, and of them, it robs the poor to increase the wealth of the rich.

POLITICAL.

General Mahone, it is said, is busily engaged preparing a paper which is to be used in the shape of an address to the republicans of the State. In it he will set forth the causes which, in his opinion, led to his defeat and that of the whole republican ticket. General Mahone says he has a good many facts to collect which are to be embodied in the circular. He will charge the democrats with the most outrageous frauds.

Gov.-elect Boies, of Iowa, in speaking of his election says he believes that a majority of the people of Iowa are tired of the workings of the prohibition law and prefer a good license law as the better method regulating the liquor traffic. He thinks that the prohibition law will be repealed. "The republican majority in the Legislature is small I don't believe there will be any difficulty in securing a majority for a satisfactory license law. If we had only known how close the Legislature was going to be we could have carried it as well as the State ticket. The tariff was, next to prohibition, the most prominent issue."

PROBABLE CANDIDATES FOR STATE OFFICES.—It is known that all the incumbents of the State offices will be candidates for reelection by the Legislature recently elected, and the following others are mentioned in connection with the positions named: Auditor of Public Accounts, James W. Marshall, of Craig; Superintendent of the Penitentiary, Thomas A. Scott, of Charlotte; Superintendent of Public Printing, A. R. Mico, of Essex; Secretary of the Commonwealth, Ham Sheppard, of Fauquier, and possibly K. C. Murray, of Norfolk.

These offices are now filed, respectively, by Morton Marry, W. W. Moses, J. H. O'Bannon, and Henry W. Flournoy.

Rev. James H. Smith died at Lexington on Saturday. He was known as an author on various church topics, and was last stationed at Harrisonburg, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. He was the youngest son of General F. H. Smith, of the Virginia Military Institute.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson left Washington to-day for Lexington, Ky., to attend the funeral of Col. Goodloe.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The President, it is said, does not contemplate appointing Attorney General Miller to the Supreme Bench.

Col. Goodloe died yesterday of the wounds received at Lexington, Ky., on Friday in the desperate encounter with Col. Swope.

The St. Paul Roller Flour Mill Company's buildings, including elevator, at St. Paul, Minn., were destroyed by fire on Saturday; loss $150,000.

George Francis Train is out of jail. Judge McKim, of the probate court at Boston, deciding that he is not sufficiently sane to be held for debt.

Elmer Labadie, a Frenchman, of Franklin, Mass., on trial for rape upon his own daughter, committed suicide in the court room on Saturday.

Edward Barrett, Washington correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution, who started to interview Rube Burrows, and about whose fears were felt on Friday, turned up all right on Saturday.

The preliminary work for the eleventh census is well in hand. Under the head of wealth, debt and tax, comprehensive labels are being prepared which will show the financial condition of every county, city, town, and village at the end of each fiscal year since 1880.

Kev. C. Hudson Smith, the eccentric pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, of Boston, whose late mysterious wanderings in the West caused him to become so widely known, committed suicide by jumping from a steamboat in Long Island Sound Saturday night.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals on Saturday affirmed the decision of the Pike County Court in the Hatfield-McCoy case. Valentine Hatfield, Pylant Mahorn, and Dock Mahorn go to the penitentiary for life for the murder of Tolbert McCoy and Ellison Mounts will hang for the murder of the girl Aina McCoy, sister of the murdered man.

Stephen O. Bridge, a clerk in the office of the Baltimore City Railway, was yesterday shot three times on Baltimore street by Miss Annie Knig, who claimed that he had ruined her. As a result of the case Dr. Charles Filler was arrested, charged with performing an abortion on the girl; he denies the charge. The girl is about 20 years of age.

It is now said that President Harrison hurriedly issued his proclamation admitting Montana as a State in order to prevent a democratic territorial judge from passing on the Silver Bow county contested election case, which, it was feared, would be favorable to the republicans; and also by his desire to secure two republican Senators from Montana, one of whom may be his son, Russell Harrison.

The fight for $5,000 between Pete Jackson the colored Australian pugilist, and Jim Smith, the English champion, took place at the Pelican Club, London, yesterday. Jackson outfought Smith for two rounds, whereupon the English fighter deliberately cross-buttocked Jackson. The referee then gave Jackson the victory. Smith was beaten at all points. He lost many friends by his display of temper, and his claims to being in champion form are exploded.

A Catholic Jubilee.

The most important events in the history of the Catholic Church in America began in Baltimore yesterday morning. It was the commencement of a triple celebration—the 100th anniversary of the appointment of the first American Catholic Bishop, the inauguration of the first Congress of Catholic laymen held in the United States and the dedication of the new National University for Catholics. Fully 10,000 strangers were in Baltimore to witness the spectacles. Promptly at the appointed hour the priests, seminarians and theological students were marshaled in Catechet Hall. They then marched to the residence of Cardinal Gibbons unaccompanied by music. At the doorway of the Cardinal's residence with sabres and polished helmets gleaming in the bright morning sunlight, were two double lines of guards. Here the Papal colors and the stars and stripes were intermingled. While the priests were opening ranks, a mass of purple enveloped figures were seen in the Cardinal's doorway. It was the gathering of nearly all the Catholic bishops and archbishops, with representatives from Mexico, Canada, England and Rome itself.

The prelates now came forth from the portico in pairs, and as each two stepped into the street their costly robes were caught up by altar boys. In the procession were Cardinals Gibbons, of Baltimore, and Ta-cheran, of Quebec. Eight acolytes upheld their long vestments, and surrounding them were their Mozarabic gowns, with the Papal D. Legates O'Connell and Sattelli, of Rome. Within the Cathedral, ten minutes later, the scene was simply magnificent. The pews were crowded to the utmost with laity. At the high altar stood the mitred celebrant of the mass, Archbishop Williams, of Boston. At the consecration of the Host the Cardinals advanced from the sides with the Monsignors and, bowing, knelt at the prie-dieu, facing the altar. As the sacred Host was held aloft by the celebrant, and with the deepest silence all through the Cathedral, every head bent low in prayer. The tinkle of a tiny bell at the altar broke the spell, and at the instant was heard outside the heavy intonation of the cathedral chimes.

The most impressive part of the mass next to the consecration was the conferring of the Papal blessing. The venerable Archbishop at the altar, turning to the congregation passed for an instant, then while the people in the church knelt he raised his hand and slowly made the sign of the cross. The mass ended with a special intercession for the Pope chanted by all the clergy. The oration of the centenary was delivered by Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, who reviewed the history of the church in America for the past 100 years. Last night the Cathedral was resplendent from basement to dome, inside and out, with electric lights. Many of the bishops in the city and a large proportion of the thousand priests, besides an immense crowd of visitors, gathered there. The orator of the evening was Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul. The conferring of the Papal benediction closed the celebration. To-day the deliberations of the Congress of Catholic Laymen begins in Concordia Hall.

The distinguished body of Catholic prelates and clergy were banqueted at St. Mary's Seminary yesterday afternoon in honor of the anniversary. Over 400 clergymen participated.

A Mystery.

A human hand protruding from the ground near Lake Johanna, near St. Paul, Minn., on Saturday led to the discovery of a mutilated corpse wrapped in a piece of old carpet. The body had been cut in two at the waist and the top of the skull sawed off. The scalp had been cut across from ear to ear, and one part stripped down over the face and the other down upon the back of the neck. In the forehead of the skull were two wounds resembling those of a bullet, and also a straight cut extending upward across the forehead. The body was evidently that of an Irishman about 30 years of age and of heavy build. Beneath the doubled-up body was a tar barrel, with five hoops upon each end, each of which had been cut, probably by the hatchet found near the hole where the body had been dumped. On the coffin the words "A Traitor" were carved in rude letters.

The generally accepted theory is that the body is that of a victim of a Clan na-Gael plot.

A story regarding the horrible discovery was current Saturday night and found some believers. It was that the body was that of Charles Kemper, a young man about twenty-three years of age, who disappeared from St. Paul under mysterious circumstances last June. The young man was the son of ex-Governor Kemper, of Virginia. Kemper was sent to Minnesota for his health early in the spring, and took apartments upon his arrival at St. Paul in a block on Wabash street, opposite the Capitol building.

He left the house for his customary walk one bright afternoon in June and was never again seen or heard of in St. Paul. His room was left as though he intended to return shortly. When he failed to do so within a few days his landlady became anxious and telegraphed to his parents in Virginia, thinking that perhaps he had taken a sudden notion to return home. Letters were then passed, but no tidings were had of the missing boy. The friends of Kemper claim that the description of the man found at Johanna tallies with that of Kemper. Efforts have also been made by the authorities to connect the mutilated body found at Lake Johanna with the missing man, but thus far the reasons are well founded for believing that the two are not identical. According to the description of Kemper on file in Pinkerton's agency, Kemper had dark hair, whereas that found on the remains is light.

C. Tyson Butcher, an attorney from Virginia, called at the morgue last night to see if the body is that of Kemper. He said that while Kemper had decayed teeth those in the corpse were unlike those of the missing man. In all other respects the description tallied with that of Kemper. In his opinion it was not Kemper.

The Recent Virginia Tragedy.

Additional particulars received from the scene of the Walker-Miller homicide at Brownsburg, Rockbridge county, state that the fatal affray was opened by Walker drawing a pistol which he attempted to shoot old man Henry Miller, but Dave—a son—quickly disarmed him, when he drew a large knife and literally carved old man Miller, killing him instantly. Dave Miller turned Walker's pistol on the owner and floored him with two mortal wounds; then the other Miller boys literally flung Walker with lead and he died on Saturday morning. Dave Miller is fatally wounded and the other three boys are in jail. It is charged but denied that one of the Millers deliberately killed Mrs. Walker, and there are fears that the friends and relations of Walker will rise up in their might and take the men from the law and lynch them. Miller had fifteen or twenty stabs in his body and the knife was broken off in his body. Mrs. Walker was shot through the head. Dr. Walker had eight balls in him. Dave Miller is shot in the groin. The coroner's jury rendered a combined verdict against Dave, James, George and William, charging them with the murder of Dr. and Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Walker was shot while kneeling over her husband's prostrate body, and it was at first believed that she had fainted.

The December number of The Season, the lady's illustrated magazine, has been received. It contains all the latest fashions and is handsomely illustrated.

Burns or wounds should be attended to carefully, especially in cold weather. We would recommend Salvation Oil for such cases. All druggists sell it for 25 cents a bottle.

DIED.

On Sunday evening, at 5:20 o'clock, OTTO REINCKER, son of Gustave and Gertrude Reincker, aged seven years. They will be done. Funerals from the German Lutheran Church to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

In Memoriam.

To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die. A month has passed since the untimely death of ALBERT PRIDEMORE HAGAN, a month of sorrow to his family and of sadness to his companions. Dutiful to his parents; affectionate to his brothers and sisters; obedient to his teachers; agreeable to his companions; he won the respect and affection of all who knew him. His sudden departure from his many friends was soon recognized by many, and the sad tidings of his sudden departure brought tears to many an eye. For his bereaved parents, in their far-off mountain home, many a mother's heart throbbed in sympathy, though she knew them not, and many a father, as he thought of his own sons, is distressed, almost forlorn, from his holiest of ties, and that they could yet assist him; and in the stillness of the early morning, the Aspirant Conference of St. John the Evangelist, of the Society of St. Vincent of Paul, knelt with bowed heads, before the altar of St. Mary's Church, while the Holy Sacrifice was offered for the eternal repose of his soul, and added at the Holy Tables their silent supplications that the Father of Mercies would pardon his imperfections and bring him to everlasting joys. May the earnest prayers of those youthful hearts be answered, and may they all meet their beloved comrade in that land where God shall wipe the tear from every eye and where death and mourning shall be no more forever.

Harry Genn, alias Jim Hood, a native of Virginia, and two companions, who murdered the superintendent and robbed the San Pedro coal company, at Carthage, in May last, were on Saturday placed in the Santa Fe, N. M., penitentiary to serve life sentences.

The war between the Brumfields and Bunyons was resumed on Saturday night, when a party of masked men broke into the home of Paris Brumfield, in Lincoln county, W. Va., and killed his wife. Broomfield's friends are armed and threaten vengeance.

Judge Brady in New York this morning denied the application of Sheriff Flack and the other defendants in the Flack conspiracy to withdraw their pleas of not guilty and to move for the dismissal of the indictments.

The President to-day appointed C. P. Lincoln, of Michigan, to be second deputy commissioner of pensions, vice J. J. Bartlett, resigned. A gigantic plot in which all the leading window glass manufacturers of this country will cooperate, is being organized in Pittsburg.

Catholic Conference.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—The twelve hundred delegates to the first Congress of the Catholic Laymen of the United States was called to order shortly before noon to-day by Hon. W. J. Osahan, of Chicago. Every seat in Concordia Hall was filled. Archbishop Ireland briefly invoked the Divine blessing. In a few remarks Mr. Osahan introduced ex-Gov. Carroll as temporary chairman. Ex-Gov. Carroll on taking the chair was warmly applauded, and made a short address. The following cablegram from Rome was read:

His Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, Baltimore: Having made known to the Holy Father the expressions of devotion conveyed to him on the part of the Catholic Congress to be held in Baltimore, His Holiness graciously bids me say that he most affectionately im parts his blessing to all the members.

M. CARD. RAMPOLLA.

Daniel Dougherty, of New York, was invited by the chairman to address the Congress, pending the appointment of committees. This he did. Father Nugent, of Liverpool, Eng., Hon. Honore Mercier, prime minister of Quebec, and ex United States Senator Kernan, of New York, followed in brief addresses, congratulating the Congress on its successful inauguration. Cardinal Gibbons entered the hall while Senator Kernan was speaking accompanied by a committee of laymen which the Congress had sent to invite him to be present. Side by side with Cardinal Gibbons was Cardinal Taschereau of Canada. The two cardinals were heartily cheered. The cardinals were formally introduced to the Congress by Chairman Carroll, and Cardinal Gibbons addressed the delegates, welcoming them in his own name and that of the people of Baltimore, irrespective of creed. The temporary organization of the Congress was made permanent and a short recess followed.

The committee on resolutions was announced on reassembling and also a committee to wait on the President of the United States. The regular work of the Congress then began by the reading of the first paper, "Catholic Congresses," by the historian, John Gilmary Shea, of New York.

FROM IOWA.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 11.—It is evidently going to be lively in the legislature. The republican majority is so small that every effort will be brought to bear for the defeat of Senator Allison and the enactment of a high license law. Already the democrats are casting about for a suitable candidate for the United States Senate for whom a few republicans can be induced to vote.

Telegraphic Brevities.

It is said that the recent interview between the Czar and Prince Bismarck during his majesty's visit to Berlin, resulted in a decision to oust Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria from the rulership of that country.

The U. S. Supreme Court to-day rendered an opinion affirming the judgment of the Supreme Court of North Carolina in the case of Cross and White, the President and Cashier respectively of the State National Bank of Raleigh, N. C. The crime with which they were charged was forgery of a promissory note and making of a false entry in the books of the bank. The Supreme Court decides against the convicted bank officers and in favor of the State.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

New York, Nov. 11.—The stock market opened with extreme activity this morning, but the weakness which appeared in the market during the last few minutes on Saturday was carried over, and first prices were generally small fractions lower than Saturday's closing figures, while further losses were sustained over the entire list in the early dealings. The market showed no strength, however, and while the trading became quiet prices receded slightly, and at 11 o'clock the market was only fairly active and steady at a shade under the opening prices in most stocks. Money 5/16.
