Having for a long time suffered from the effects of a horrible blood trouble, and after resorting to medical skill and other remedies without benefit, I tried "A. B. C. Alterative," and it afforded me pleasure to attest its virtues. It is evidently a very great tonic and alterative, and I recommend any suffering from blood trouble, to try it.

A DEISTICAL DOCTOR'S DISCOMFITURE.—A clergyman was once accused by a doctor, a professed deist, who asked him:

"Do you follow preaching to save souls?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever see a soul?"

"No."

"Did you ever hear a soul?"

"No."

"Did you ever taste a soul?"

"No."

"Did you ever smell a soul?"

"No."

"Did you ever feel a soul?"

"Yes."

"Well," said the doctor, "there are four of the five senses against one upon the question whether there is a soul."—St. Louis Republican.

"The clergyman then asked, 'are you a doctor of medicine?'"

"Yes."

"Did you ever see a pain?"

"No."

"Did you ever hear a pain?"

"No."

"Did you ever taste a pain?"

"No."

"Did you ever smell a pain?"

"No."

"Did you ever feel a pain?"

"Yes."

"Well, then," said the clergyman, "there are also four of the senses against one upon the question whether there is a pain. And yet, sir, you know that there is a pain, and I know that there is a soul."—St. Louis Republican.

AUTUMN.—The first, faint sweet breath of autumn is stirring the trees tops. The foliage has taken a rusty tinge. The fields are brown and gold. Summer flowers have had their day, and the golden rod and aster, heralds of the fall, cluster thickly by the roadside. The skies are lower and grayer. What song of birds or chirp of crickets there have a melancholy sound. The wind that rustles through the leaves is singing the swan song of the season. Before long the foliage will put on the dolphian hues of death. Then but a little while, and the leaves will seek their graves in the ever welcoming earth, always yearning to shelter its children in its bosom. There must be something peculiarly worthy in this summer to entitle it to its rest so soon. It seems but a few days ago, and few at that, when we felt the eager, querulous air of spring, and shared with all things about us the impatient expectation of the season. Now the fall feeling, half yearning, half regret, possesses us. We half yearningly seek the faint odor of dead autumn leaves—is it only fancy that fine fragrance which is prophecy? The stay of the summer seems briefer than ever before. Has it been so? or does each year hasten its flight, warning us, none so gently, of the fast nearing day when we, too, shall seek the bosom of the kindly earth, worn out by our toil or our play, and thankful for rest.—Prince George's, Md., Enquirer.

ESCAPING A MAD DOG.—"If people were only taught half so much about the way to avoid mad dogs as they are about sunstroke," said Officer Mulvihill the other day, "we would not often hear of a case of hydrophobia. A good thing to know is that a mad dog never turns aside from the course he is running to bite anybody. So if one is right in the path of a rabid animal he can get out of all danger by jumping to one side and out of the path of the dog. But if it is absolutely impossible to get out of the way, the man or woman should stand perfectly still and face the dog. He will turn aside then himself and run in a different direction, while if the person in front of him gets mad and runs away, as nine out of ten will, the dog overtake and bite the victim. Of course it requires courage to stand still and face a rabid dog, terrible as this animal always looks, but the result shows that the real danger lies in taking flight.

A MUSTANG'S QUEER BREAK.—Captain Benjamin Rocheblave, of Pensacola, Fla., owned a mustang mare which got into the water at the Pensacola navy-yard the other day and swam around for about an hour. People thought she would swim ashore when she got tired, but the mare all at once struck out zeros a mile landed on Santa Rosa Island, in the ear of the life saving station. Crossing the island to a spot near the station, she boldly plunged into the Gulf of Mexico, and when last seen was well out to sea, swimming to the southeast.

CHINAWARE, &c.

A CARD.—We are aware that a number of Alexandrians go to Washington for their CHINA and GLASSWARE, and we believe that with the proper effort and attention all or nearly all of these people can be induced to buy goods in these lines at home. We intend therefore to do all in our power to further this end, and for this purpose we have selected our stock for fall with more than usual care and foresight. Our retail department, besides, we put under the special care of our salesman, and it will be his duty to see that the stock is always full, and to attend to the wants of our Alexandria customers. We only keep "firsts" (goods selected by the manufacturer as perfect), and we buy only from the manufacturer's best goods, but at the very lowest prices. In fine French china, we will order any of Haviland's patterns at a very reasonable price. If you find our efforts may be rewarded, and thanking you for past kindness, we are very truly yours, sep27 E. J. MILLER & SON.

HANDSOME FLINT GLASSWARE.

We have just received from Messrs. Hobbs & Co., manufacturers of pure Flint Glassware, an entirely new line of their goods, which you will not find at any other house in this city, and which we invite you to call and examine. Here are some of the articles:

Leaf Pickle, Olive and Celery Dishes, Water Bottles, Catsup Cruet's, Bread Trays, Shortbread Glasses (entirely new), Cheese Dishes, Fruit and Punch Bowls.

These goods will take as high a polish as cut glass, and as good is the imitation that few can tell the real from the flint. We shall be pleased to show you this line whether you wish to purchase or not. [sep27] E. J. MILLER & SON.

AN INCREASE IN THE TARIFF.—Notwithstanding the tariff has been advanced 10 to 15 per cent. on all ENGLISH GRANITE and POBCELEAN, we continue to sell these wares at the old price, and you will do well to look at those Decorated Dinner Sets and Chamber Sets that we are selling at the old figure. We thought we had enough English Porcelain Dinner Sets to last until Christmas, and yet they are nearly all gone, and we have another order at Hanley, England, to be filled at once. See these goods, and get the prices, and find out how much you will save by not going to Washington.

E. J. MILLER & SON.
