CHILDREN ought to be brightened by a mother's daily care and help her to be strong, capable and cheerful. It is at right for mothers to feel the burden of the growing heavier and heavier year by year because of child-bearing and child-rearing. That shows something is wrong in the mother's physical condition. There is some unnatural weakness in her delicate organism which disqualifies her for motherhood. When this is wrong everything is wrong. A woman's physical life is wrapped up in the special organs of her sex. When these are restored to health and strength the whole woman becomes a healthy and strong.

Dr. J. C. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the most successful remedy that has ever been known for women's peculiar ailments. Its safe and certain cures of all other ailments for women. It cures the most obstinate uterine diseases. It goes directly to the internal organism which is the seat of all the troubles. It imparts vigor and health where they are most needed. A DUEL WITH CHESSMEN. William Stamper, proprietor of the "Manhattan Cafe," at the corner of Ninth street and Second avenue, does not whether his friend, Baron Eugen von Ottekrone, has really put an end to his existence or is merely playing a lover's dodge to frighten "Clara" into listening to his suit.

As the matter stands, however, the baron and his rival, Otto Erlanger, fought an "American duel" at the Manhattan Cafe on Monday night. The baron was the loser and has disappeared, leaving word that he would take his life, according to the code.

"Baron von Ottekrone and I were fellow students at Vienna," said Mr. Stamper to the Tuesday night. "He comes from an old and noble Bohemian family, and is a regular patron of my place."

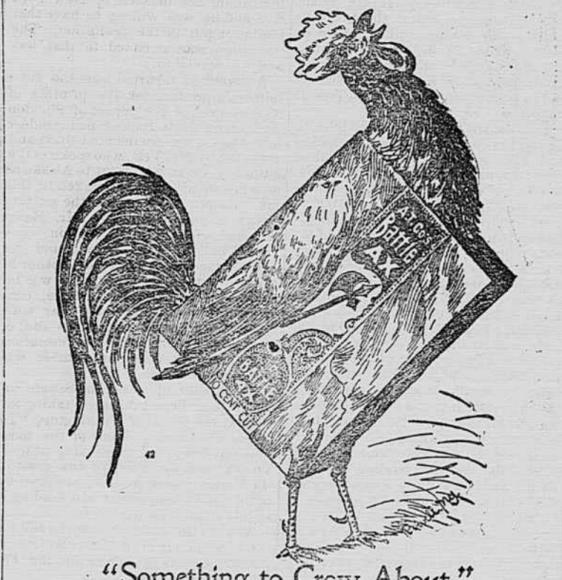

"I thought nothing of it when the baron brought his friend, Otto Erlanger, here Tuesday night and began to play chess in one of the upper rooms. But the game seemed so interminable that I asked them if it would never end. 'Don't disturb us,' said Von Ottekrone. 'This is a serious matter.'"

"Two hours later I was called up to the room where the two men had at last finished their game. The baron was white and trembling. He could scarcely speak coherently as he placed a little package in my hand.

"Perhaps you'll never see me again, old friend," he stammered. "Keep these things for me. I'll send you a letter in a day or so."

"With that he rushed from the room, without casting a glance at Erlanger, who slowly followed him. "I did not regard the affair seriously at that time, as both are impetuous and hot tempered men. But yesterday I received the promised letter from Ottekrone, and it puts quite a serious aspect on the matter, considering that it comes from a man who is advanced in the thirties."
