FACTS ABOUT BABIES.
 What woman doesn't want a baby—a dainty, laughing darling, dainty enough to be cradled in a snow-white lily? Every woman wants one, but she doesn't want too dainty a baby. A baby's cheeks may be too waxen-white and its body too puny, and when that's the case, baby's cheeks won't dimple or its lips laugh, and death is in its eyes.

Above all things a woman wants a healthy baby, and she may have one if she will but use the right remedy for weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs that make a baby a possible one. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all medicines for prospective or would-be mothers. It makes a woman's distinctive organism strong, healthy and vigorous. It always inflammation, soothes pain and heals ulcers. It banishes the discomforts of the waiting time and makes the little new-comer's entrance to the world easy and almost painless. It insures baby's health. In writing for advice to Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., a mother, wife or maid writes to one of the most eminent and skillful specialists in the world, at the head of a staff of physicians that has treated over 250,000 women.

"When I was taking your treatment, I sent in the names of three ladies who were sterile," writes Mrs. M. A. Scott. "One had been married seven years and had no children, and after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription she gave birth to a big girl, a month ago. The other was confined within a year and a half, after going six years without having any children. I do not know how the third one came out, for we moved away."

Torpid liver and constipation are surely and speedily cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They never gripe. They regulate, tone up and invigorate the liver, stomach and bowels. No substitute urged by medical advisers is as good.

JAPANESE PILE CURE
 A New and Complete Treatment, consisting of SUPPOSITORIES, Capsules of Ointment and two Boxes of Ointment. A never-failing cure for Piles of every nature and degree. It makes an operation with the knife, which is painful, and often results in death, unnecessary. Only guaranteed in each $1.00. No Cure, No Pay. 50c and $1.00 a box, 6 for $5. Sent by mail. Samples free.

DR. J. H. JANNEY, 714 KING STREET.

Dr. Cady's Condition Powders, are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not food but medicine and the best in use to put a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package.

For Over Fifty Years
 AN OLD AND WELL-TRIED REMEDY.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. Discovered by a Woman.
 Another great discovery has been made and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Cox." Thus writes W. C. Hammick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at E. L. Allen's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00; every bottle guaranteed.

EARLY VIRGINIA HISTORY.

THE NAME OF MT. VERNON. No. 14

While every American has heard of Mount Vernon and has read the story of the services of the renowned patriot whose dust is enshrined in its soil, not one in a hundred perhaps knows the origin of the name.

James, the unfortunate Duke of Monmouth, nephew of Algernon Sidney, but who claimed to be the son of Charles II. of England, and who by a life of intrigues sought to make himself king and in consequence lost his life on the scaffold in 1685, had a private secretary named Vernon, who after the duke's death found favor in influential quarters and under the reign of William III. became Secretary of State. He left a son, Edward, born 1684, who, much against his father's wishes and untreaties, entered the navy, and serving with distinction at the beginning of his career rose eventually to the rank of admiral of the British navy. In 1722 he was elected to the House of Commons, and having in July 1739 delivered there in a speech that Porto Rico, a coveted Spanish town on the North American coast, might be retained with six sail of the line, and that he would stake his life and his reputation on the success of such an expedition, he was accordingly despatched soon after with a squadron to make the attempt then considered a chimerical one. He was successful, and made himself exceedingly popular, at least with his men, by distributing among them generous bounties in captured Spanish doubloons, which had just arrived from Spain to pay the Spanish troops defending the city. On returning to England he was welcomed with acclamation and his prowess as a naval commander was everywhere acknowledged. He received the thanks of both houses of parliament and was voted the freedom of the city of London. From that time, however, his star declined.

An expedition which he undertook against Cartagena in 1740-42, signally failed of its purpose. Smollet, at that time a naval surgeon, accompanied the fleet and has told the story of it in "Roderic Random," one of his novels, in which he compares Vernon and General Wentworth, who at the attack commanded the auxiliary land forces, to Caesar and Pompey. "The one," he says "would not brook the authority of a superior, while the other was impatient of that of an equal, so that between the pride of the one and the insolence of the other the enterprise under Wentworth auxiliary to Vernon and at Cartagena consisted of a regiment of volunteers from Virginia in which Lawrence Washington served as a captain, and apparently he was either favorably impressed with the personal qualities of the admiral or of his abilities as a commander, for he gave his name to the new home which his father Augustine had been establishing for him on the Potomac during his absence on the seas, and so it came to pass that one of the fairest situations which ever crowned a river expanse or smiled beneath the radiance of a summer sky has been known the wide world over for a hundred and fifty years as Mount Vernon.

How this situation, the nucleus of the subsequent great "estate" of eight thousand acres became a part of the Washington possessions has already been told in a previous paper of this series, the "Old Mill at Epswasson." Lawrence Washington lived to enjoy his new home but ten years. After his death, in 1752, it became the inheritance of his brother George by the provision of his father's will, contingent on the death of Sarah, only surviving child of Lawrence and Anne Washington, which occurred very soon after that of her father.

It will be remembered that Lawrence Washington through the influence of his friend the admiral secured for his brother George an appointment as midshipman in the British navy, which he was only prevented from accepting by the earnest protestations and entreaties of his mother, which saved him from a life and career which might have given him but little public prominence for the mission which was to bring him his world-wide renown.

Vernon's popularity with the masses of the English people was so great that despite his unfortunate Cartagena expedition he was actually elected a member of parliament from three districts at the same time after his return. Probably his known hostility to the existing government has much to do with his popularity. The enemies of Walpole exalted his prizes till his heroism was made a proverb, his birthday signalized by celebrations and bonfires and his head was selected as a favorite ornament for sign posts. In 1745 he was detailed to watch with his fleet the North sea, in view of the movements of the pretender's adherents. The next year a serious quarrel ensued between him and the British government which resulted in his writing two pamphlets which so much exasperated the authorities that by the King's express command his name was stricken from the list of the admirals. He died in 1757 at his seat in Suffolk, and notwithstanding his disgrace, a handsome monument was erected to his memory in Westminster Abbey. W. H. S.
