MONDAY EVENING, JULY 11, 1898.

FIRE AT A FUNERAL.—By an accident at the funeral of John, the infant child of Mr. Thomas Ferguson, in Phillips on Saturday evening, the child's coffin caught on fire and the little body narrowly escaped cremation. As the weeping relatives and mourners were bowing their heads in prayer, a lighted candle set fire to a lace curtain, and the cloth coverings of the little bier were caught in the blaze. In an instant the child's coffin was enveloped in flame and smoke, and the wildest consternation prevailed among the mourners. Mrs. Annie Murphy, an aunt of the dead child, retained presence of mind to extinguish the blaze around the coffin with the skirt of her dress. Then she picked up the bier and with the help of another woman carried the body to another room. In the meantime the men in the house succeeded in extinguishing the blaze in the room, but not until the arrival of fire companies. A number of women among the mourners had run screaming out of the house, and an alarm was turned in, bringing a truck A quickly to the scene from the station at Twenty-second street and Fairmount avenue. The services of the firemen were not needed. Only the curtains and part of the carpet in the room were destroyed and the window casing badly charred. After the excitement the little coffin was returned to its former place and the funeral went on without further interruption. The child was buried at Holy Cross Cemetery.
