ROMANCE OF A PRETTY NURSE.

A dispatch from Woodstock, Va., says: Wood and won by a graduate of the class of '99, of the Maryland University School of Medicine in Baltimore, Miss Bessie Allen, a former member of the junior class of nurses of the hospital connected with that institution, came home recently to prepare for her marriage. The bridegroom is Dr. J. N. Guerard, a son of an old wealthy and aristocratic family of Savannah, Ga. The ceremony took place yesterday morning at the home of the bride-to-be, Rev. J. C. Jett, rector of Immanuel Episcopal Church, Staunton, officiating. The couple left for an extended western tour. They will live in Savannah.

There is a delightful romance connected with Miss Allen's marriage. Several years ago when she entered the Maryland University Hospital to learn the profession of a trained nurse, she had little thought of matrimony. So it was with Guerard, who was working hard for his sheepskin until he met Miss Allen. He at once became her ardent admirer, and there was reciprocity on the young lady's side. It was planned that after his graduation the doctor was to go to Savannah and begin to practice, coming back to claim his sweetheart when she had finished her course. When graduation time came nearer the young lady decided that it was impossible for him to go back home without Miss Allen. He pleaded with her for an earlier marriage and she consented. Accordingly last week, she resigned, relinquished her duties at the hospital and came home to prepare for her nuptials. Dr. Guerard followed her yesterday.

REPEATED EVERY YEAR.—

One of the curious things that appear in the columns of the London Times is this death notice, which is published annually: "On Friday, July 16, 1839, in her thirty-third year, the very deeply-lamented Lady Flora Hastings, M. J. V." The Lady Flora in question was one of the most beautiful of the maids of honor to the Queen, and had been in attendance on her majesty for some time, when she suddenly found herself the subject of malevolent gossip, which had its origin among the ladies-in-waiting of the Queen, prominent among the number being Lady Portman. The Queen, who was unacquainted with the lady, sided with her ladies against the unfortunate girl. Inquiry fully vindicated Lady Flora and she was reinstated in the Queen's favor. But when she demanded that her traducers be excluded from court the Queen refused to comply. Soon after Lady Flora became ill and died, and her relatives, it appears, have never forgiven her majesty for refusing to grant her request. It was a sister of Lady Flora who was the mother of the present Marquis of Bute, and inasmuch as he was notoriously brought up to the belief that his lovely aunt had been most cruelly treated by her majesty, he has always manifested a very marked degree of reserve toward the court, and it is generally believed that it is by his orders that the obituary notice concerning Lady Flora's death appears each year in the London Times.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery, George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife had been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle-working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by E. L. Allen and E. S. Leadbeater & Sons.
