DREYFUS ON THE STAND.

Judge: Did you say your name was Alfred or Alphonse Dreyfus? Be careful how you reply.

Dreyfus: Alfred Dreyfus is my name.

Judge: Ah, ha! Why did you say Alfred Dreyfus is my name, instead of my name is Alfred Dreyfus?

Dreyfus: Really, mon colonel, I do not know.

Judge: You hesitate. You look confused. I note the fact that you unaccountably lower your eyes when I asked you this question. That is proof of an uneasy conscience. What have you to say?

Dreyfus: I can't.

Judge: He can't. This is a confession. He is guilty. (Sensation.)

Dreyfus: No, mon colonel, I am innocent.

Judge: If you are innocent, perhaps you will tell where you were night before last at fifteen minutes past ten?

Dreyfus: In jail.

Judge: Where were you on January 11, 1896?

Dreyfus: In jail.

Judge: Where were you on the night of March 3, 1897?

Dreyfus: In jail.

Judge: Where were you when the Suburban was run in 1898?

Dreyfus: In jail.

Judge: (triumphantly) Always in jail, yet this canaille claims to be innocent. Once more, where were you on the 29th of February 1899?

Dreyfus: In jail.

Judge: Sacre bien! You convict yourself. There was no 29th of February, 1899. We shall see. You wrote the bordereau?

Dreyfus: No, mon colonel; I am innocent.

Judge: (sternly) How long have you known William Patterson?

Dreyfus: I do not know Monsieur Patterson at all.

Judge: Are not you the man who struck him?

Dreyfus: I never heard of him.

Judge: He never heard of Billie Patterson, the man who was struck. He dissembles. Do you smoke cigarettes?

Dreyfus: Yes.

Judge: Is the tariff a tax?

Dreyfus: It is.

Judge: You are a traitor to France. France imposes a tariff, and you say it is a tax. Have you ever felt like 30 cents?

Dreyfus: Yes, mon colonel. I feel like 25 cents now.

Judge: Do you still deny that you wrote "Curfew Shall Not Ring To-Night"?

Dreyfus: I never denied it, because I never heard—

Judge: You see, he claims that he wrote "Curfew Shall Not Ring To-Night."

Dreyfus: But, mon colonel, I know nothing about "Curfew" I do not claim—

Judge: But you don't deny. Perhaps you also wrote "The Beautiful Snow."

Dreyfus: Really, mon colonel, you do not allow me to explain.

Judge: Do you believe in the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 independent of any other nation on earth?

Dreyfus: I am afraid that—

Judge: He is afraid to speak. Who is opposed to sound money? Whom do you consider the greater military genius—Mercator or Esterhazy?

Dreyfus: I cannot say. Both of them, possibly.

Judge: Have you not been in correspondence with Jack Chinn and Deadhorse Jake since this trial began?

Dreyfus: I have not.

Judge: Do you deny that you received a cipher cablegram from Hinky Dink yesterday morning?

Dreyfus: I do.

Judge: You change color. Your guilt is now established. You can explain nothing. You claim the authorship of poems which were written by Mademoiselle Ella Wheeler. You are always in jail, and you can't even prove an alibi on the 29th of February. It is, therefore, established that you communicated secret documents to the German government, and that you wrote the bordereau.

Great applause in court mingled with the polite invitations to "conspire" and "bas" everything and everybody, and followed by a few cheerful assassinations on the outside.—(Memphis Commercial Appeal.)

RIOT IN A NEGRO CHURCH—Services at the Salem Baptist Church, colored, near London, Ky., concluded Sunday night in a riot, in which about two hundred persons, men, women and children, took part. Four negroes are probably fatally wounded, and a number more or less hurt. The meeting had just closed when Tom Crook and Jim Brummett became engaged in a difficulty. Some of the brethren interfered, and the scrapping soon became general. Half a dozen razors flashed and rocks and clubs were used promiscuously. Some negro women mingled and some took part in the melee. An unknown negro used a knife, and his head was almost severed from his body. Brummett's skull was fractured with a club, and a man by the name of Hubbard had a wagon spoke driven into his abdomen by a negro. Another's leg was broken. Still another negro succeeded in getting his skull fractured just as he was coming out of the church door.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtis, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. She continued its use and, after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00, every bottle guaranteed.
