Mrs. Fanny Lomax, of Roelyston, today celebrated her 101st birthday.

STOPS THE COUGH AND WORKS OFF THE COLD. Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, No Pay. Price 25 cents.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

After twice reversing its action, the Constitutional Convention yesterday again placed the heads of the principal educational institutions on the Board of Education.

The work done by the enemies of the university on Monday was undone by friends of that institution and other state educational institutions yesterday.

The section of the committee's report adopted provides that the board shall be composed of the Governor, a Attorney-General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, one county and one city superintendent, and three members of the faculty of the State institutions.

These latter are to be selected by the Senate from a list of six eligibles furnished by these institutions.

An effort to strike out the section of the committee's report requiring the Superintendent of Public Instruction to be elected by the people at the time the governor is elected and to provide for that officer's election by the State Board was overwhelmingly defeated.

Two efforts to provide for the popular election of county superintendents were defeated. Numerous motions bearing on this question were rejected, and Mr. Eagon declared that he would rather there should be no superintendents than that the board should have the appointment of them.

The matter of the selection of text books was the last one taken up. Judge Portlock, of Norfolk, sought in vain to have adopted the subsection allowing school boards in cities of 5,000 population or more to select their own text books. The amendment was overwhelmingly voted down, and so was one designed to leave the selection of books in the counties to the local boards.

Ex-Congressman George D. Wise addressed the suffrage conference last night. He had just gotten well into his argument when the conference at 10 o'clock adjourned.

The attendance of members was not large, but there were many visitors, including several ladies.

Capt. Wise gave an exposition of the philosophy of popular government founded upon the basic principle of the elective franchise. He touched briefly upon the Brazton plan, and had just begun the dissection of the Glass plan when adjournment came.

ASBURY IS HELD FOR MURDER.—The Corporation Court grand jury in Newport News yesterday afternoon indicted the Rev. C. Aylett Asbury, for the murder of City Engineer E. A. Marye, who died January 8, from the effects of a bullet wound inflicted by Asbury one week before. Examination was waived in the police court, the case going directly to the grand jury.

Only five of the ten witnesses summoned for the Commonwealth were examined, their testimony being practically the same as given on the night of the shooting, when bail was granted. The grand jury took no action in the case of the wounding of Officer Woodward by Asbury at the time he shot Marye.

The Commonwealth endeavored to have bail raised from $20,000 to $25,000, but the prisoner was re-bailed to the original sum. The case will come up for trial February 11. The Maryes were not represented at the proceedings yesterday.

THE PRIMARY CENTRAL.

The democratic State central and executive committee which met in Richmond last night, at 1:30 o'clock this morning adopted the plan of the sub-committee on primaries, and adjourned to meet Tuesday, January 29, when the Norfolk city and Norfolk county contests for party regularity will be taken up and determined. The former will come before a joint committee and the latter will be dealt with by the executive body.

The fight over the plan last night was a spirited one, but the meeting ended harmoniously and every body seemed satisfied. The plan as finally adopted is identical with the one reported from the sub-committee, except that all reference to assessment of o.s. of conducting primaries was stricken therefrom, and the date on which candidates for the United States Senate should notify the State Chairman of their intention of entering contests for that office is changed from the first Thursday in June to the first Thursday in July. The plan is made mandatory as all officers from United States Senators down to members of the house of delegates, and is left discretionary with local committees as to county and city officers.

Messrs. Barksdale and Glass were the chief opponents of the plan in the committee. The former was rather opposed to any plan and declared that he would attack the one under consideration at every stage, but when at 1:30 o'clock this morning it was declared adopted by the chair, he accepted the result gracefully. Senator Glass, who had a few moments before declared that he believed the plan if adopted in its original form would wreck the democratic party in Virginia before the next convention, was smiling with the rest and said: "We have drawn the dragon's teeth, and it is all right now."

Mr. Glass referred to an assessment of the plan, which he fought with characteristic vigor from the start. Congressmen Jones and Flood and other leaders expressed themselves as pleased with the plan. There were a large number of Norfolk people in attendance upon the meeting interested in the factional fights in that section.

NO CONFEDERATES IN FEDERAL SOLDIERS' HOMES.—The House yesterday continued the debate on the pension bill and discussed the proposition to open the doors of the soldiers' homes to ex-Confederate soldiers. Two speeches were made in support of the proposition, one by Mr. Gardner, a Michigan republican, and the other by Mr. De Armond, a democrat.

The republicans, with the exception of Mr. Gardner, took no part in the discussion of the Rixey suggestion, which met with much opposition on the democratic side, on the ground that it was impracticable. Mr. Lamb, of Virginia, read a number of telegrams from prominent ex-Confederates of Richmond protesting against it.

Mr. Oney took issue with Mr. Rixey regarding the method of relieving needy ex-Confederates. He proposed as an alternative proposition that the money in the treasury to the credit of captured and abandoned Confederate property be distributed 10 per cent, annually in the Confederate homes in the south. He declared that the day would come when monuments would be erected in the national capital to Lee, Jackson, Stuart and Forrest, not as rebels, but as great and great American. Mr. Oney, who said he had gloried in the fact that he had been a rebel soldier, envied the House repeatedly with amusing stories in support of his argument. The motion, he said, reminded him of a picture attached to the body of a man found hanging down on the border of Mexico. It reads: "This man has some good qualities, and others a—1 slight worse." It was so with the bill. The provisions recalled to him the story of the lad whose mother was showing him a picture of Daniel in the lion's den. The boy looked for a moment and then exclaimed: "Oh, mamma, there's one little lion over there in the corner that ain't got no tail to get any." So it was with the South, he said. She ain't going to get any. "They talk about reconciliation," exclaimed Mr. Oney and yet they continue to call us rebels. I am proud of having been a rebel soldier. If there is any thing that is left of me, I am a Confederate veteran. Cromwell was the greatest rebel of his time." Mr. Oney thought Mr. Rixey's proposition to open the doors of the National Soldiers' Homes to Confederate veterans was all right, but his purpose was too lofty to be fulfilled. It would be like strewing fragrant roses along the bloody stream.
