ARREST OF MISS LEE.—Shortly after seven o'clock yesterday evening the quiet of the city was broken by an incident which caused much comment and sincere regret. It was the arrest and escorting through the principal street of Miss Mary Curtis Lee. It occurred at an unfortunate hour when King street was alive with people and when nearly every one living on the thoroughfare or conducting business thereon was in front of their houses or stores enjoying the cool breeze which was blowing from the northwest.

The arrest occurred on a car at Payne street and in a few minutes the news of the affair had reached every quarter of the city. The cause of the trouble was an infraction of the separate seat law now in operation on the electric railway. Miss Lee had declined to obey the law after the conductor had requested her to take a seat in the portion of the coach set apart for white people. She had declined for reasons she believed sufficient. The subject of the case is about as follows: Miss Lee took the car in Washington for this city, occupying one of the seats reserved for colored people, and a Mr. Long Bridge had been crossed she was approached by Conductor Thomas Chaucney with the request that she move to the front section of the car. At that time Miss Lee said, everybody in the car was seated. The law was cited but she protested against being moved, explaining to the official how she was situated. In regard to the moving of her heavy baggage. The point was pressed just at that juncture, but a few minutes later a colored man entered the coach and the conductor came back after her seat. Again she protested, asking why the man could not be made to ride in the smoker. Thereupon the conductor called her attention to the fact that she was liable to arrest. He kept coming back now then, saying that he would have to place her in custody until she finally told him to do as he pleased. A telephone message was sent to this city and when the train reached Payne street the two officers boarded it and took positions alongside of Miss Lee. Before the cars reached Royal street a crowd had gathered, having been notified around that Miss Lee was under arrest and a throng of people crowded around the coaches while Miss Lee was being helped to the pavement. It required sometime to unload her baggage, which consisted of a heavy traveling case and several other bundles. Although the policemen endeavored to keep the crowd back it was no purpose. When the station house was reached the pavement was blocked with people. Chief Webster and Lieutenant Smith were sitting in front of police headquarters when the party arrived. In order to divide attention as much as possible Officer Bettis escorted Miss Lee around by the market building, while Officer Sherwood, carrying the traveling bag and bundles, went by another route. The policemen immediately stated the case to the chief, Mr. Wm. F. Carne, who was on the spot, and to him and Chief Webster she made her statement. Here she waited for the decision of the officers as to what disposition should be made of the case. They decided to confer with Mayor Simpson. Lieutenant Smith called the mayor over the telephone, stating the circumstances. Mayor Simpson directed the officers to release Miss Lee on her personal recognition to appear in the police court this morning at 10 o'clock to answer to the charge, preferred against her. Miss Lee left the stationhouse, accompanied by several Confederate veterans, and went to the house of Mrs. P. T. Yeatman, 220 north Washington street, where she was expected as a guest. There were willing hands to convey the heavy luggage which had been partly responsible for the most embarrassing situation. Although she manifested such admiration and respect before the crowd at the station house, she was visibly affected after the ordeal was over. Miss Lee avowed that she knew nothing of the new law regarding the separation of the races.

The case was called by Mayor Simpson at ten o'clock this morning and Miss Lee failing to appear he declared the $5 collateral left for her appearance by her friends forfeited. The Mayor, however, said he proposed examining the case for the benefit of the electric railway company in order that they could be set right before the community. The evidence in the main of Officers Bettis and Sherwood, Conductor Chaucney and the motor-man of the train was substantially as given above. The conductor said he told Miss Lee in the gentlest manner of the law in operation in Virginia. She declined to move to a front seat for reasons of her own, and when the train reached Jackson City she said she again explained the law to her and asked her to take one of the vacant seats forward. She said she was encumbered with several pieces of baggage and such a movement would be an inconvenience to her. Mr. Chaucney said he offered to move her baggage, but no outcries could induce Miss Lee to change her seat. He then went to the motorman, stated the case to him, called his attention to vacant seats in the forward portion of the car, and again returned to Miss Lee and made other futile attempts to induce her to move, at the same time telling her she was forcing an unpleasant duty upon him. These importunities he continued even after the train had entered Alexandria. Her arrest, therefore, he claimed was a disagreeable necessity. The conductor averred that throughout the entire trouble he was self-possessed and acted as kind and courteous as possible. Mayor Simpson in summing up the case said the conductor had performed his duty in the premises, and had he acted otherwise he would have fined himself. Under the circumstances he was, when a passenger, presuming upon her station in life, defied a law of the Commonwealth it was the duty of the conductor to have the same penalty inflicted he would in cases where other people violated law. He further said he had read in Washington papers this morning of the great sympathy expressed for Miss Lee when the train had crossed the Long Bridge. He had reflected in his experience that sympathy was a very cheap commodity, and that yesterday evening when such seas were flowing no one manifested any substantial quality to the value of $5, the amount of collateral usually left in such cases of misdemeanor.

A representative of the Gazette called on Miss Lee this morning to obtain her version of the affair. She said that when she entered the car in Washington, she had a number of packages and she being much fatigued, these were placed in the nearest seat. When the train had crossed the Long Bridge the conductor approached her and told her she would have to change her seat. A colored man was standing up and she saw no empty seats. She was told that the rear of the car was reserved for negroes, and she then asked if she was expected to give up her seat to the colored man. At Arlington the colored man secured a seat, which he later gave up to a woman of his own color and remained standing. The conductor again told Miss Lee that she would have to move, and she asked if the negro could get a seat in the smoker, but was told he did not desire to go there. As the train was nearing this city she says the conductor offered to get her seat and to move her packages, which she asserted had not been done before, but as no one was standing and as she was so near her destination, she said it was not worth while, for she was very tired. The conductor threatened her with arrest and asked her again to move. When the train reached Washington street she attempted to alight, but was told she was under arrest and would have to go to the station house. She was distressed over the publicity of the affair, and thought that the crowd which followed her from the train to the station would be a disgrace to her. Miss Lee left today for Ravensworth, in Fairfax county.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY.—The regular commencement exercises of St. Mary's Academy were held in Lannon's Opera House yesterday evening and were largely attended. The interesting program was published in Tuesday's Gazette and will be rendered. A diploma and graduating gold medal were conferred upon Miss Katharine Florence McKenna of Washington, for having completed the regular Academic course. A gold medal for excellence in art was awarded to Miss Marie Cecelia Fisher.

A gold medal for excellence in phonography was awarded to Miss Irma Holz. Gold medals for attendance in the senior department were equally awarded to Misses M. Baker, M. Henry, M. O'Brien, A. Igo, G. Hanrahan, M. King, M. Green, H. Davis, M. Goods, H. Conroy, M. Crilly, M. Nugent, M. Moore, L. Callahan, G. Crilly, and M. Ficklin, drawn by Miss M. Nugent. Gold medals for attendance in intermediate department equally awarded to Misses E. Stouenburgh, M. Sweeney, L. Crilly, K. Crilly, J. Fisher, M. Fannon, S. Feagan, E. Hill, L. Cowbig, A. Moore, K. Crilly, L. Corbett, A. Beardon, H. Hellmuth, J. Lash, H. Crilly and H. Pohl. Drawn by Master A. Beardon.

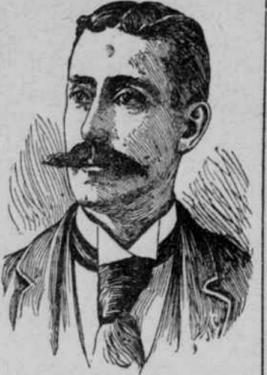

A large number of certificates and diplomas were also awarded in the several departments.

HELD.—An individual who gave his name as Charles Lucius was arrested yesterday by Officer Allen for being drunk on the streets. He at first gave his name as Charles Watson, and before he finished his statement it was suspected that he was a deserter from Fort Totten at Williams Point, N. Y., also that he was wanted by the law on several charges. He said he was a native of Loudoun county. The Mayor concluded to hold him until he could procure further information.

MYSTERY EXPLAINED.—The pistol shots heard about midnight Thursday on Patrick street, between Pendleton and Wythe, were fired by Mr. A. Perry at a burglar. It seems that Mrs. Perry was awakened by hearing some person attempt to raise the sash of the kitchen window. She called her husband and he securing his pistol started after the burglar who ran. Mr. Perry emptied his revolver at the fugitive and believes one of the bullets took effect.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. J. P. Stamp, of Alexandria, is the guest of the Misses Copeland here. Her son, Mr. Parron Stamp, of the U. S. Fish Commission, visited her today. —[Fredericksburg Star.]

DEATH OF LEONARD MARBUKY.

Mr. Leonard Marbury, whose condition during the past few months had occasioned his relatives and friends considerable anxiety, died at 9:15 o'clock this morning at his home on Prince street, near Alfred. The deceased had been ill for several years, so much so that he had been compelled to spend the recent winters in South Carolina in order to avoid the rigors of this more northern climate. He would return at the beginning of summer apparently benefited by his sojourn in a more congenial region, but the improvement was not lasting; hence in a short time he would lapse into a decline. His ailment eventually failed to respond to treatment, and he weakened gradually until it became necessary for him to remain in doors, and finally to be confined to his bed. He lingered until this morning when death closed the scene. The deceased was doubtless one of the most popular men of the present generation of Alexandrians, and the esteem in which he was held was deserved, as he was ever ready and willing to respond to the call of any one who had a favor to ask of him. Mr. Marbury was the second son of the late William H. Marbury, who also enjoyed the respect and confidence of the entire community in his day and generation. He was born in this city in 1836, and at an early age was a student at St. John's Academy. Later he attended the Columbian University Law School in Washington and upon reaching manhood was admitted to the bar in this city. Studious and industrious, he was not long in forging to the front rank and soon took his place among the most prominent members of the law profession in this city. Nearly twenty years ago he was elected Commonwealth's Attorney, a position he held with but one slight interval up to the time of his death. He was also at the time of his death chairman of the democratic committee of the Eighth Congressional district, a position he had also held for a number of years. During his manhood he was at different times chairman of the city democratic committee, attorney for the Mercantile-Railway Building and Loan Association and secretary of several building associations. He was also for years and up to the time of his death assistant division counsel of the Southern Railway Company. The positions he held in secret societies were Past Master of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons, and Past Grand Obsequer of the Knights of Pythias. He was member of Omega Tribe of K. of M. Men, and of Potomac Lodge of Old Fellows. He was twice elected a member of the City Council from the Second ward. He was up to 1898, when he was retired, First Lieutenant of the Alexandria Light Infantry. He enjoyed an extensive acquaintance, not only in this city but throughout the State, and his death is sincerely regretted by all who knew him. Cordial and friendly toward all with whom he came in contact, many realize by his decease the loss of a true and sincere friend. He leaves a wife (daughter of Captain S. B. Davis) and two children.

THE MACCABEES EXCURSION from this city and Washington yesterday and last night was one of the most successful in point of attendance of any excursion this season. It took three steamboats to transport the crowds to and from River View, and it was near midnight before all the excursionists returned to their homes. Some had thrilling experiences when the terrific thunder storm and a deluge of rain struck the place. There was no shelter for the majority of the crowd and many were wet to the skin by the rain. The wharf at River View was densely packed with people when the storm broke in all its fury. Many of the excursionists were endeavoring to return on the earlier boats. The officers of the steamers would carry only a limited number of people on each trip, and those who could not get aboard had to expose themselves to the elements. Some persons living in this city were unable to force themselves through the crowds when the boats reached here and were carried to Washington where they remained until this morning.

FINE TEN DOLLARS EACH.—Frank Corbett and Andrew Miltzad, Washington pairers, came here yesterday for the purpose of painting the city red, but before they left Miltzad resembled Barney Aaron after a prize fight, both eyes being bunged up. They entered a grocery store in the western part of the city and by their vulgar language caused the lady customers to leave. Officers Bettis and Maybush later came up with them and Miltzad showed defiance. Mr. Maybush by several well-directed blows rendered him hors de combat in less time than it takes to tell it, when he submitted to arrest. The Mayor this morning fined them $10 each, which they failed to pay and were committed to jail.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A man named George Mortimer was instantly killed on the Washington, Arlington and Falls Church Railway late yesterday evening. The unfortunate man was on one of the cars and protruded his head while the train was running at a high rate of speed. It came in contact with one of the trolley poles and the top of his head was nearly carried away. Mortimer was instantly killed. The deceased leaves a wife and several children. He was between 35 and 40 years of age. A coroner's inquest over the remains was held at Ballston.

A NEW SUPERINTENDENT.—Samuel Higgins, whose resignation as superintendent of motive power of the Union Pacific railroad was announced at Omaha on Wednesday, stated yesterday that he had accepted a similar position with the Southern Railway with headquarters at Washington, D. C., where he will superintend the mechanical department of the whole system.

ELECTRIC DISPLAY.—There was rain all around Alexandria last night, although but few drops fell here. There was, however, a number of thunder showers, lighting and refreshing winds which rendered conditions much more pleasant than they had been during the day and early in the night. Dark clouds had gathered in the northwest before the close of the day and a cool breeze brought relief to sweltering humanity. The clouds, however, moved to the north of the city and there were copious rainfalls in parts of Maryland, especially in Frederick, Hagerstown and other places in that vicinity. About half-past eight o'clock heavy clouds gathered over this city and for several hours under and lightning were incessant. The clouds, however, split ever and soon the moon struggled through them. It was finally seen that Alexandria was to be given the go-by. The storm, however, had in the meantime settled southeast of this city, and the Fort Foote, River View, Fort Washington and Marshall Hall sections of Maryland enjoyed a heavy downpour. The southeastern heavens were kept illuminated by electricity for about two hours while the roll of thunder was continuous. The storm, it is believed, extended all the way across Maryland into Chesapeake Bay.

DOG LICENSES.—With a thousand and dog licenses in this city, and the Mayor having by notice warned owners of dogs that he would fine all persons harboring dogs after today, but 250 licenses have been issued. It is a well attested fact that a half dozen or more dogs can be found on most any square in the city and the Mayor has intimated a determination to rid the city of dogs which year after year go unlicensed, or fine the owners.

CHESAPEAKE PRESBYTERY will hold a special meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church next Thursday morning for the purpose of examining Mr. R. L. Walton, a candidate for the ministry. Mr. Walton is a ruling elder of Catoctin church and was for some years engaged in the drug business. He has been at the Hampden-Sidney Theological Seminary for the past two years.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.—The combined convention of the Epworth League of the Methodist Protestant Churches of Washington and Alexandria was held last night at the Methodist Protestant Church. Rev. Hugh L. Elderidge, of Westminster, Md., made the address. A large congregation was present and the services were peculiarly interesting.

A VACANCY.—The death of Mr. Leonard Marbury creates a vacancy in the office of Commonwealth's Attorney, which position he had held for a long time. Under the law Judge Norton will fill the vacancy.

THE MARKET this morning showed no improvement over that of last Saturday either in the display of country produce, or the number of buyers and sellers present. Prices were still higher. Butter was 25c 30c per pound; eggs 20c a dozen; little chickens 25c a piece; straws 10c a box; gooseberries 3c; cherries 10c; green peas 30c a bushel; beans 1c a piece; onions 3c a bunch; potatoes 10c a quart; a pack of soap 15c; radishes from 1c up per bunch; cabbage, the smallest about the size of a man's fist, 2c up; turnips 3c a bunch; lettuce 1 1/2c a head. Fresh meats and fish were unchanged in price.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES. Messrs. Isaac Eichberg & Son advertise ladies' skirts today. They always have the latest in style, texture and price and their displays of goods should be examined by all in need of articles in their line.

Capt. R. F. Knox sold at auction today for Francis L. Emith, trustee, all that lot of second-hand improvements thereon situated on the west side of Lee street and known as Schriber's Bakery; also the wagons, horses, and other appurtenances thereto attached, to Mr. A. D. Brockett, for $5,930 cash. What Mr. Brockett will do with the property has not yet been made public.

A called meeting of the Relief Hook and Ladder Company was held last night. A committee was appointed to confer with those of the other companies in regard to the trip to Portsmouth and some regular business was transacted.

The running of trains on the electric railway was brought to a standstill this morning by the derangement of some of the machinery in the power house at Fox-mile run. The cars were tied up for about two hours.

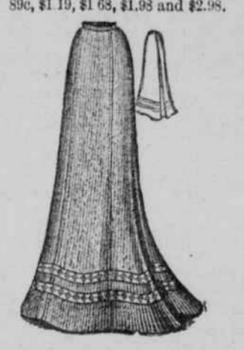

Mr. George Young, formerly of this city, but now living in Fairfax county, was thrown from his wagon at noon last night about 3 o'clock yesterday morning and considerably scratched and bruised.

A colored woman was arrested last night at the instance of Reuben Lewis, colored, who charged that she threatened his life. The case was dismissed for want of sufficient evidence.

Rev. Mr. Stamp will hold special services at the M. E. Church South both tomorrow morning and at night at which special music will also be rendered.
