

SATURDAY EVENING, SEPT. 13, 1902

Mr. Mitchell made a speech in Philadelphia last night to an audience of workmen. In the course of his harangue he denounced compulsory arbitration and said such a course would enslave workmen. He also said, as might have been expected, that he disagreed with Governor Stone regarding a remedy for the present crisis. Of course he will object to any settlement of the miners' troubles which does not leave the key of the situation in his hands. This is what he is contending for, and sooner or later the bull must be taken by the horns when Mitchellism and law and order will be pitted against each other. It remains to be seen which will survive the ordeal. The entire summer has been consumed in fruitless conferences with this self-constituted czar, who has no idea of submitting his claims to any arbitration calculated to bring a senseless struggle to an end which will result in placing him where he belongs—into a total eclipse. Mitchell's talk about arbitration enslaving workmen is ridiculous when the situation is viewed in its proper light. He has for some time previous to the strike been urging the anthracite coal miners to place his yoke upon their shoulders and make him their leader. In a thoughtless moment they became victims of his persuasions, and are now the basest of slaves wearing the collar of a man despotic and exacting and one whose sole ambition is power at the expense of people who had been honestly and industriously earning their living a manual labor in accordance with the laws of God and man.

Mitchellism, although passing through its last act, is still the barrier which is preventing a long-suffering public from laying in their winter's supply of coal, and while the originator is passing from city to city blocking this and that avenue out of the perplexing difficulties which confront the country, the people are experiencing anxiety and are being kept in cruel suspense as to the future. The conditions are more than unfortunate—they are exasperating, when it is considered that every now and then men with no natural claims for prominence forge to the front and tie up this and that branch of industry. The country has heretofore suffered from other human scourges in the shape of Powderly, Debs, Irons and others. It is now passing through the Mitchell age. The latter is having his day, but his relegation to obscurity is inevitable, no matter how long deferred.

The papers today contain accounts of two more automobile accidents, in one of which the aged wife of Senator Stewart was killed outright. The other occurred in Baltimore where several persons were more or less hurt. The terrible accident to one of these modern means of conveyance in France several weeks ago by which Mr. and Mrs. Fair were killed is still fresh in the minds of people on both sides of the Atlantic, and the killing of Mrs. Stewart and the collision of automobiles and the consequent result in Baltimore should cause people who persist in tempting Providence to pause in their thoughtless acts. There are many contingencies by which accidents may occur to automobiles, and no places them beyond control.

SIXTEEN THOUSAND and two hundred persons have died in Egypt during the past two months from Asiatic cholera—that is, more people than there are in the city of Alexandria have become victims of this terrible scourge in such a short space of time. It has been over a third of a century since the plague visited the shores of the United States, and then it did not get as far north as Virginia. It has, however, in by-gone years been in Alexandria. It stalked to and fro on the earth since the days of the Crusaders, during which period it has visited every clime. Its paths in the future may again be through this country, when many of the troubles, real or imaginary, which are incessantly causing human commotion, will be trifling compared with its ravages.

A DISPATCH from Austin, Tex., says it is learned on trustworthy authority that Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. are negotiating to purchase all the principal independent cotton-seed oil mills in Texas. These concerns are to be operated in connection with the meat-packing industry of the beef trust. It is but a mere matter of time when all who buy, sell, manufacture or produce will be compelled to wear the trust collar.

The New Hampshire democrats declare in favor of amending the prohibitory laws of that State in such a way as to permit the majorities in the large and small towns to decide concerning the licensing and control of the liquor traffic. This assumes that it is quite consistent with the ideas of personal liberty for the majority to control the minority in matter of drink.

The meat production combination proceeds merrily with its task of organizing, regardless alike of federal court edicts or menaces from the Department of Justice.

FROM WASHINGTON.

(Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.) Washington, D. C., September 13. Secretary Shaw announced this morning that in order to relieve the money market he had made arrangements to release $4,000,000 of the Treasury holdings by depositing that amount with national banks which hold free or unpledged bonds. He has also decided to anticipate the October interest, amounting to about $4,200,000. The Secretary sees in present conditions no occasion for alarm. He calls attention to the fact that there is no evidence of a currency famine present or prospective elsewhere than in New York, and even there the rate is not high for commercial paper, and for commercial paper he has a greater solicitude. He is well satisfied with his efforts to increase circulation which he decided upon in the early summer when present conditions were plainly visible and has the presses busy preparing to meet an emergency which he does not expect but which he thinks it is wise to provide against.

The U. S. S. Panther is expected to leave Philadelphia on Monday with a battalion of 325 marines for Colon on the Isthmus of Panama. It is the intention of the government to keep a war ship at Colon and Panama to prevent the possible bombardment of those towns. It is reported that United States Marshal Morgan Treat will be the republican nominee for Congress in the Richmond district. The convention will be held at West Point next Wednesday, and prominent republicans say they favor Mr. Treat. Anyway, Mr. Treat will dictate the situation, and whoever he shall favor will be the nominee.

SAID CRIMES ACT JUSTIFIED REBELLION.—In acknowledging the presentation yesterday of the freedom of the city of Waterford, Ireland, John Redmond, chairman of the United Irish League and of the Irish parliamentary party, said the agrarian question, the last real obstacle to home rule, was near a settlement. The ranks of the Irish landlords were in revolt against the few wealthy political landlords who had long led them to ruin. The crimes act proclamation justified any resistance, even armed rebellion. If this was not resisted he would despair of obtaining benefits for the people of Ireland.

At a meeting of the corporation of Dublin called to deal with the action of the government in proclaiming Dublin under the crimes act a resolution was adopted protesting against the 'outrage and insult offered the citizens of Dublin in proclaiming the city in which, in proportion to the size of its population, there was less crime than in any other city in the world.'

The unionist councilors opposed the resolution, and the lord mayor retorted that the unionists were apparently prepared to swear to the righteousness of whatever Englishmen did, even though it cast ignominy on their city. The resolution was adopted by 40 to 6 votes.

A meeting of the corporation of Cork broke up in confusion yesterday as a result of the comments on the lord mayor's refusal to allow his reception of the chief secretary for Ireland, George Wyndham, on the occasion of the latter's visit to the Cork exhibition on Tuesday, September 9, to be discussed without notice.

The recommendation was adopted. The same committee reported on the grievances between West Virginia and Maryland that the representatives from the two states had held a conference, and that it would be amicably adjusted. The judiciary committee reported that, in its opinion, a male member of the degree of Pochontas was not eligible to be elected as great keeper of a great council of the degree of Pochontas. The recommendation was adopted. The judiciary committee concurred in all dispensations granted and refused by the great income. The committee on red men's league recommended that hereafter no per capita be paid, and the whole report was adopted. The finance committee presented a report refunding per capita tax to New Hampshire, which was adopted. It also reported adversely to a request of California for a $2,000 appropriation for competitive drills.

HUDSON VALLEY STRIKE.—Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 13.—There is little change from yesterday in the conditions of the Hudson Valley strike. Up to 11 o'clock no attempt had been made to start a car out of this village and it is not likely any will be made today. A mass meeting of the strikers was held last evening in Stillwater which was addressed by some of the citizens who warned the strikers not to use violence.

Miss Lassiter jumped from the surry, although warned by a lady friend, who was passing down the street at the time, not to do so. Her dress got caught in one of the wheels and she fell heavily upon the vitrified brick roadway and the rails of the street electric railway track. Her skull was fractured and she lingered until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when she died, having never regained consciousness. At the time of the runaway Miss Lassiter was on her way to Birdville, in Dinwiddie county, just outside of the corporate limits of Petersburg, to visit her brother, Congressman Francis R. TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

THE STRIKE. Harrisburg, Pa. Sept. 13.—Messrs. Mitchell, Nichols, Fahey, Duffey, Senator Flinn, Colonel Richardson, and Governor Stone have been in conference. The conference lasted four hours. A NEGRO FIEND.

Camden, N. J., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Lydia Hudson, a widow, living just beyond the limits of Camden, was held-up, robbed of about $10 and some jewelry and brutally assaulted by a negro shortly after 7 o'clock last night. Frank Daniels, colored, who gave his residence as Atlanta, Ga., and who is suspected of being the man who committed the assault upon Mrs. Lydia Hudson last night, this morning shot and probably fatally wounded Officer Shreeves who had him under arrest. When Daniels attempted to escape the officer shot, inflicting a flesh wound in the negro's leg. Daniels returned the fire, one of the shots taking effect in the officer's stomach and then ran away. A number of men employed at the Pennsylvania Railway shops at Paviaonia started in pursuit, and recaptured the negro. Infuriated by the news of the negro's fiendish act last night and the wounding of the officer, a crowd of angry citizens clamored for his delivery to them with the intention of stringing him up to a tree. With a squad of eight policemen the man was finally brought to Camden, but they had all they could do to protect him as the mob endeavored to break into the court room. During the exchange of shots between the officer and negro, the 10-year-old son of Christian Horning, was shot in the arm by a stray bullet. This is the second assault made upon white women in Camden in three days.

They crept through the underbrush and quietly overpowered the sentinel and forced him to lead the way to the still. As they crept down the steep side of the rock the still was seen in full blast, and half a dozen men were working. The sentinel yelled and the moonshiners made a dash for the officers. Then the fight was carried on from rock to rock until the officers made a dash and captured the position. The prisoners were taken to Welch, and are in jail. The still was destroyed.

WOMEN AND JEWELS.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. Hundreds of men are fighting the flames night and day in what seems to be a useless effort to save the place. Many bridges have been destroyed. Springwater, in this State, is a heavy sufferer, three score people having been rendered homeless by the flames. A church, the postoffice, several stores, and grange halls, in addition to a number of dwellings have been burned at many sections. Valuable timber belts in hundreds of cattle, hogs, and sheep have been cremated. At Victoria, B. C., great bush fires and ashes are falling in the streets. Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, and many smaller cities, are wrapped in a pall of smoke seriously hindering business operations. No loss of life has been reported but it is feared that when communication is restored, news of more than one fatality will be received.

CRITICS RIDICULE ARMY MANOEUVRES.

Berlin, Sept. 13.—All the military critics, including the German, unite in condemning the double cavalry charges of Thursday and Friday, during the army manoeuvres at Frankfurt-on-Oder. They say in real war two such attacks would have been impossible within 24 hours. The foreign officers privately condemn the Kaiser for turning what started out to be genuine manoeuvres, into a mere spectacular performance, in order to put himself in the limelight. They say that in a genuine war the infantry would not have run from the cavalry as the reds did before the Kaiser's onslaught but would have held their ground and with the artillery support have made the Kaiser and his cavalry take to their heels. The Kaiser, however, is in a jubilant mood. He says the manoeuvres have proven that enormous cavalry attacks must be made in successful warfare. He added: 'If one-half were destroyed the remainder would overrun all the infantry and artillery.' The foreign officers, in reply, are asking how many battles the cavalry would be able to fight, if fifty per cent. were killed or wounded in each charge.

It was claimed that the Chesapeake & Ohio had delayed the shipment of provisions to the striking miners in West Virginia.

Gone but not forgotten. BY HIS BROTHER.
