The Irish Curse.

An Irish authority thus defines an expert the effects of a well delivered curse: "The belief among the ancient Irish was that a curse once pronounced would fall in some direction. If it has been directed by him on whom it is pronounced, it will fall on him sooner or later, but if it has not then it will return upon the person who pronounced it." They compare it to a wedge with which a woodman cleaves timber. If it has room to go, it will go and cleave the wood, but if it has not it will fly off and strike the woodman himself, who is driving it, between the eyes.

There are three altars inside the cashed at Linnisburgh, Ireland, built square of rough loose stones and have on the top of them a number of curious, round, smooth stones. These have been used for cursing by turning them, and the natives are very superstitious about them.

One mode of averting the curse was for the person against whom the stones were turned to have a grave dug, to cause himself to be laid in it and to have three shovelfuls of earth cast over him, the gravelers at the same time reciting rhymes.

Father and Son.

What a father can do, if he will, is to make his own experience and knowledge an inseparable part of the intellectual and spiritual equipment of his son, but he can do this only when he cares so much about it as to make it a daily, hourly object of his life, says the Cosmopolitan. So many fathers shirk the undertaking; so many of them stand aloof and let the precious years go by, willing to give anything and everything except themselves. The first and great reward of course is the one that comes when he sees the boy upon the verge of manhood going out into the world to face the inevitable dangers which confront the novice, for the life of a man differs from the life of a woman in this respect—that at some time or other, sooner or later, the time must come when he shall stand alone, relying on his own strength to conquer if he be sound and brave, to fall if he be weak and cowardly.

Where Connecticut Got Its Name.

It might be imagined that Connecticut is called the "land of steady habits" on account of the exemplary conduct of its citizens. But it obtained that title in a different manner. A citizen of that state explains the matter thus: "In the early colonial times I was the custom to provide every one who assisted at a dedication, church building or barn raising with a 'hooker' of good Jamaica rum. These functions needless to say, were popular. When the charter creating Connecticut a crown colony arrived, there was, of course, a celebration. The first governor, John Winthrop, refused to provide rum and in his inaugural address deplored the custom of tipping, saying 'It did not lead to steady habits.' Thereupon the Nutmeg State had a title to hand down to posterity."—New York Tribune.

Can You See Air?

If air cannot be seen, what is it that we see quivering above a field on a hot summer day or even above a hot stove in the house? That question has puzzled many a head, both old and young. The answer usually given is that it is the heat, but heat cannot be seen, and therefore it is not the heat. The explanation of the phenomenon is really quite simple, like all such things, when we hear it. As a matter of fact, it is air that we see quivering, but heat makes it visible. The quivering is caused by the upward passage, close by each other, of small currents of air of different temperatures in which the rays of light are irregularly refracted, and this makes the currents visible.

Value of Capital.

Once upon a time two utter bankrupts were considering ways and means of getting needed money. "I know how we can make $9," said one. "How?" asked the other. "Raise a dollar note to ten by placing a cipher after the one." "Where will we raise the dollar?" Then the scheme failed for want of capital.

Changed His Ticket.

An entertaining story is told of a railway manager in Wales whose identity was not known to the ticket collector of an outlying station. He was walking through the station door with a request for his ticket. "My face is my ticket," he said, with much pleasantry. "Oh," said the collector, "my orders are to punch all tickets!"

A NEW REMEDY.

The old friends of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will be pleased to know that the manufacturers of that preparation have gotten out a new remedy called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and that it is meeting with much success in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, sick headache, impaired digestion and like disorders. These Tablets are easier to take and more pleasant in effect than pills, but they not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and correct any disorders of the stomach and liver. For sale by Richard Gibbons, druggist.

One Hundred Dollars a Box.

is the value of H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of the healing and soothing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptic and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sore, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. MRS. IDA McDONALD, Supreme Deputy of the Maccabees of the World.

MRS. McDONALD, No. 477 Beaubien Street, Detroit, Mich., is a prominent woman who was greatly benefited by the great woman's medicine, Wine of Cardui. Mrs. McDonald is the supreme deputy of the Maccabees of the World, and one of the most widely known women in the United States. Thousands of women gather to hear her lecture everywhere she goes. The great work she has done for the Maccabees is appreciated by every member of the order. She was so absorbed in her health proper care—failed to take warning that the symptoms of approaching kidney trouble gave her, the sallow complexion and torpid liver. But Wine of Cardui cured her the same as it has cured thousands of others. Mrs. McDonald has written this letter in order that other suffering women may benefit from Wine of Cardui the same relief she got from it.

that I must do something to regain my health. A friend advocated your Wine of Cardui and I decided to try it, although I had little faith in patent medicines. I am now very thankful that I did so, for within days blessed relief came to me, and in less than three months I was cured, and have enjoyed fine health for a sick woman who wishes to enjoy perfect health and am very pleased to give my hearty endorsement.

No suffering woman can afford to ignore such a letter as Mrs. McDonald writes. Her plans and advice have proved valuable in building up one of the greatest women's organizations in the United States and she takes time to give advice which she knows will help you. Do not delay in securing this medicine. There is nothing to gain and everything to lose by delay. The choice is before you. Will or will you not secure relief now by taking Wine of Cardui? All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui and $5.00 packages of Theodor's Black-Draught.

WINE OF CARDUI. A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.
