

FRIDAY EVENING, NOV. 6, 1908

A MATTER which the Chamber of Commerce might well take up is that of the almost total suspension of building in Alexandria. This matter has been growing from bad to worse for several years past, to the great injury of the city, and now it can be said that no one builds unless he is obliged to do so. There must be something wrong somewhere and the trouble should be corrected. Contractors who recently gathered here to bid on two school buildings—one in the city and one just outside its limits—stated that it was currently reported throughout the state that building material and labor were higher in Alexandria than in any other city in Virginia. Such a reputation will injure any city or town in the world unless it is known that the business of such a place justifies these high prices—and this cannot be said of Alexandria. Outside parties secured the contracts for the two school buildings as they did for the two bank buildings—one recently built and one now in course of erection. It is said that a house can be built in Alexandria or Fairfax county at less cost than the same building can be put up in Alexandria city. This should not be. We know of a number of citizens who had plans drawn for the erection of quite a number of buildings but threw away these plans after securing estimates, as it would have been impossible for them to have realized five per cent upon their investments. This is certainly no inducement for a man to invest his money in building. There is talk of combines, trusts and understandings between builders, men and dealers in building material, but of this we know nothing; but this we do know, that more houses have been erected during the past few years in almost any town in Virginia than have been built in the city of Alexandria. There must be a reason for this and now that the election is over and the nights are growing longer the Chamber of Commerce might consider this matter seriously and endeavor to right the great wrong that is being done Alexandria.

It was suggested in this column on Wednesday now that Mr. Taft has been elected, suits against corporations would probably be dropped. Announcement was made at the offices of the Standard Oil Company in New York today that word had been received from U. S. District Attorney Randolph of Memphis, Tenn., that the federal suits against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana which were to be called for trial November 9 in Jackson, Tenn., had been continued indefinitely. Sentence in the case of the Standard Oil Company convinced last May for acceptance of rebates from the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Annapolis railroads for shipments of oil from Olean, N. Y., to points in Vermont was again deferred in the United States district court in Buffalo today.

A DISPATCH sent out from Washington on Wednesday said:

President Roosevelt will be particularly fine spirits today. He spent most of his time reading telegrams of congratulation. There were few visitors. Indeed with the exception of Secretary Wright, the president declined to see anyone. "We made no engagements for today," said Secretary Lobb, "because we felt that if Mr. Taft were elected we would be too busy all day reading and answering telegrams of congratulation, while on the other hand if Mr. Bryan had been elected we would not have wanted to see anyone."

This would indicate what a personal government this is getting to be. Mr. Lobb and his "we's." How we apply swim!

THERE was one result of Tuesday's election over which all conservative people in all sections of the country should rejoice, and that was the falling off in the socialist vote. The vote cast on Tuesday was barely one-half of that cast by the socialist party four years ago and would indicate that at this time had reached the high water mark in this country and is now on the wane. Let all hope so.

From Washington.

Further details of the president's trip will be worked out tonight at the White House, when the president will have as his guests S. Harry Johnson, British administrator in South Africa. Sir Harry says the Neuchâtel yacht, which the president expects to hunt over fairly swarms with big game. It is understood that the distinguished Englishman will present Mr. Roosevelt with a hunting license, which costs ordinary folks $250. One of the signal corps spherical balloons furnished to the army by Captain Baldwin made a flight today from the gas works here, starting at 11:30 a. m. and heading straight for Baltimore with a strong breeze behind it. It was expected to pass over that city about 2 o'clock. Lieut. Lahn is the pilot. Accompanying him are Lieut. Winter and Holland Forbes of New York.

Wade Ellis, who wrote the republican party platform will enter on his new duties as assistant attorney general in a few days. He will go back to Ohio to participate in the Standard Oil cases.

The Bliss Electrical School at North Takoma, was destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. Nearly 200 students narrowly escaped death in the fire.

Today's Cabinet meeting was largely in the nature of a political experience meeting. Six of the nine members were present and related the striking instances of their work in the last campaign.

Senator Aldrich at the White House today said that he at no time authorized the announcement that he would not stand for re-election.

The total excavation of the Panama canal during October of this year was nearly twice what it was for the same month last year, according to official reports received at the offices of the canal commission in this city. In the month just closed, 3,224,638 cubic yards were excavated, as compared with 1,874,329 in October 1907.

The Navy Department today received the following cablegram from Admiral Emory, commanding the second squadron of the Atlantic fleet, filed just before the squadron left Amoy: "Visit at Amoy most felicitous. All well."

The question of how far the fourth coming session of Congress could proceed with its consideration of tariff revision, was formally touched upon at the White House today by Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, chairman of the senate finance committee, during his call to pay his respects to President Roosevelt. The senator had very distinct impressions of the election being a triumph for endorsement of republican policies, but was unable to clearly see how the tariff and the supply bills could be acted upon at a short session of Congress. "It would be very desirable to avoid an extra session, to which the party is committed," he exclaimed, "but I do not see how it can be accomplished." He explained that the preliminary work on tariff schedules, done during the summer by the two committees of Congress, had removed many obstacles for an early consideration of the subject. The senator thought it possible for the house to get a tariff bill through but action in the senate would largely depend upon the attitude of the minority party. Representative Roberts of Massachusetts, who also talked with the president, is greatly interested in speedy action on the tariff. He thought it would be the crowning glory of the party if the subject could be gotten out of the way at the coming session. Although no definite word has been received from President-elect Taft, it is the belief that Congress will be called in extra session before the end of March, with the view of having a short session, with the possibilities of making the tariff revision law effective July 1, 1909, the beginning of the government's fiscal year. It is thought that the work of the extra session can be cleared up by June 1.

CONSTITUTION ALL RIGHT. Yesterday in the U. S. Circuit Court at Richmond, Judge Giff handed down an opinion in the case of John W. Brickhouse, a negro, against C. T. Brooks and William Jessup, election judges of Norfolk county, in which the validity of the new Virginia constitution was attacked on account of the failure of the members of the constitutional convention to take an oath to uphold the federal constitution. The suit arose out of the refusal of Jessup and Brooks to allow Brickhouse to vote in the congressional election held in Norfolk county, November 4, 1902, because he was not registered on the books of the Huntersville precinct of that county.

Brickhouse contended that the old constitution stood and, therefore, he had been illegally deprived of his right to vote. The court held that Brickhouse's contention was without merit and that as the new constitution had been declared valid by the legislature and the governor of Virginia, it was in fact the constitution of Virginia.

The opinion says that whether or not the constitution is the constitution of the state of Virginia it is a political question not to be disposed of by the courts, but by the legislative departments of the state. These departments having declared it valid and in force, it is, therefore, the fundamental law of the state.

HABES CORPUS PROCEEDINGS. Union City, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Whether or not the governor of Tennessee had the right to call out state troops to quell the night riders will be determined today when 11 of the prisoners held at Camp Nemo for the Rankin killing will be brought into court here on a habeas corpus proceeding. The 11 are representatives of fifty alleged night riders held for complicity in the recent raids. They allege that they are being held without due process of law. Should the government be unable to break down their contention it is probable that Governor Patterson will testify. This would be the first instance of the sort in Tennessee.

HIS THIRD VENTURE. Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 6.—News leaked out today of the marriage Wednesday in Washington, D. C., of Andrew McLain Moreland, multi-millionaire and one of the "young partners" of Andrew Carnegie, to Mrs. Clara Boyle Hancock, the divorced wife of Lieut. Hancock. After the ceremony the couple sailed for Europe, where they will remain for the winter. Mrs. Hancock is the third wife of Mr. Moreland, he having been a widower twice.

New York Stock Market. New York, Nov. 6.—Another demonstration of strength was made at the opening of the market this morning, the sales of many of the leading issues showing advances of one point or more and the high record for Southern Pacific was lifted to 11 1/2. The industrial were in better demand than the railroads. A number of commission houses seemed to think that a reaction was due, but brokers watching the trading said it looked to them as if the upward movement will continue for some time to come.

Author of the "Interview." London, Nov. 6.—The United Press correspondent learned today on high authority that the author of the famous Kaiser interview, which plunged the whole of Europe in a discussion that overshadowed the Balkan trouble, is Sir Rowland D. Ennals, an Irish baronet.

News of the Day.

Only eighty-five men voted for John Temple Graves in Georgia, his native state.

Supreme Court Justice Tamm in New York has denied the application of John Armstrong Chalmers to set aside the finding of the sheriff's jury adjudging him insane.

An amicable settlement of the Casablanca affair between France and Germany has been arranged on the basis of mutual apologies, after which the facts at issue will be arbitrated.

The discipline of the fire drill prevented a panic among 150 school children at Chicago yesterday when fire attacked the branch school at Lunt avenue and north Robey street.

President Roosevelt yesterday assured Mr. E. L. West he would reappoint him as commissioner of the District of Columbia upon the expiration of his present term, which expires February 1.

In answer to Mr. Bryan's letter of congratulation to Mr. Taft the latter replied as follows: "I thank you sincerely for your cordial and courteous telegram of congratulation and good wishes."

Representative Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey chairman of the committee on banking and currency, announced yesterday that he would be a candidate for speaker of the House in opposition to speaker Cannon.

In a statement given to the press Wednesday night in New York Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the republican national committee, announced that a complete list of all the contributions made to the republican campaign fund would be made public in the near future.

Dr. Miller Moore, formerly of the navy, who was court-martialed during the cruise of the battleship fleet and left the navy, and who was later heard from in Paris, is in Washington. The man, who was reported as confined in an asylum in Paris, came to Washington accompanied by a friend for the purpose of having his sanity determined.

The indications now are that Taft has 319 electoral votes against 156 for Bryan, with Mr. Bryan's vote split, 7 democrats and 1 republican. Returns practically complete, indicate that the republican party will control the next house by a majority of 41. The figures so far received show the election of 216 republicans and 175 democrats, a gain for the democrats of nine.

James Thacker shot and killed William Anderson on the latter's doorstep in Gaspeville, W. Va., Wednesday night. The dead body was left where it fell until yesterday morning, when it was said Thacker turned to the scene of the tragedy, made a rude coffin out of un-dressed boards, placed his victim in the box, and buried him. It is not known whether Thacker has been arrested.

A reorganization of Tammany Hall is to be effected as the result of Tuesday's election. Leaders who have been in conspicuous favor recently, more because of their social connections, are to give way to men who are in close touch with the people of their districts. A movement has been begun to overthrow Charles F. Murphy as the leader of Tammany Hall. Brooklyn politicians predicted the end of Senator McCarren's usefulness as leader as a result of the loss of the county to the democrats.

Edwin M. Van Dyck, former ink expert of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who, with Victor G. Bloede, president of the Vittr G. Bloede Company of Baltimore, was indicted January 6 last, charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with certain contracts to supply that bureau with ink, yesterday in Washington withdrew a plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty to the two counts of the indictment. Upon the recommendation of U. S. Attorney Baker Justice Gougeon imposed a fine of $10,000 on Van Dyck. The fine was paid in cash.

Distressed over the death of Oadet Cook Ferrebee of Norfolk, who was killed last Saturday, the football squad of the Virginia Military Institute has been disbanded and all games canceled for the season.

Despite heroic efforts of several physicians, Mr. Mabel May Swartz, wife of Walter Swartz, died at her home at Swinley, Clarke county, on Wednesday, of lockjaw, after suffering terrible agony. She was ill but a few days.

Thomas Joseph Mann, a negro, convicted of the murder of John A. Amis, of Pittsylvania county, and sentenced to be electrocuted at Richmond today, will escape the death chair, the governor having commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Yesterday morning a number of farmers who had gone to Lynchburg with tobacco to sell and who had left their teams all night in the public stables of the two warehouses, found that some miscreant had cut off the tails of about 30 horses and mules.

At a meeting of the anti-saloon league of Roanoke it was decided last night to circulate a petition to the judge of the Hastings Court to grant an election on the question of the sale of intoxicating liquors there. The date of the election is set for December 31.

Facing trial in Tuesday's election for police justice of Fredericksburg, William K. Goolrick, a young lawyer, and H. Y. Daniel, a former saloon keeper, yesterday drew lots for office, and Daniel won. The term is one year. The office of police justice for Fredericksburg was created by the last legislature, and Mr. Daniel will be the first man to fill the position. Daniel and Goolrick each received 348 votes.

That life insurance may be collected by the beneficiaries, even though the insured dies on the gallows, is the holding of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in Richmond, in an opinion handed down yesterday in the case of J. William McGee and others, plaintiffs in error, vs. Northwestern Life Insurance Company and others, defendants in error, in error to the circuit court at Lynchburg. Jas. McGee, who was insured in the company, was charged for the murder of his wife in Charlottesville, February 10, 1905. In this opinion the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the court below, which held that the collection of insurance, where the insured was executed for crime, was against the general welfare of the country, and that the life insurance company had made no provision for payment of such claims. Judge Waddill dissented.

Today's Telegraphic News

An End of the War Talk. Paris, Nov. 6.—The curtain practically closed today on the diplomatic opera bouffe, "Casablanca," which has had four days' run on German and French stages. Fresh instructions were sent today to Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador at Berlin, to adopt an even more conciliatory tone in treating with Germany, if such is necessary to end the talk of war.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—The people are demanding a new deal in the foreign office. Four times this year the nation has been compromised through the lack of diplomacy among those entrusted with German dignity. The Kaiser is not escaping a'd several million German people have come near to committing lese majeste in the last few weeks than at any other time in their lives. The German people argue that it is better to clean house now and thus preserve peace with dignity than to let the blundering go on to the point where Germany will either have to fight or withdraw in utter disgrace.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—The culmination of a week of protest against the diplomatic errors of Emperor William, came today in a daring declaration by Maximilian Harden, editor of Die Zukunft, that the Kaiser either curb his tendency to engage in controversial politics or abdicate the German throne. The utterance is considered the boldest that ever appeared in a German newspaper and it has produced a wonderful sensation. Harden's sensational attack on the Kaiser is the climax to the agitation that is sweeping the whole nation against the absolutism of the emperor. No criticism ever made against a German ruler approaches it in boldness. As proof that Harden only reflects the general sentiment, his attack is being widely quoted by papers over the empire, a course that would not have been dared were the people not wholly in sympathy with the strictures made against the emperor. Within the last week there have been 5,000 articles in German newspapers, protesting against the absolutism of the emperor.

The Recent Election. Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Today's figures, neither complete or official increase Taft's plurality to about 25,000. In 44 out of 54 counties Taft got 102,938 and Bryan 77,340. The full returns will not be available until Monday. Gascock, the republican candidate's estimated plurality is 12,000.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 6.—Official returns today confirm the statement of yesterday that the republicans have carried three congressional districts. In the Fifth North Carolina they won by 364 and Grant won in the Tenth by 355. Cowles won in the Eighth by 2,000. The legislators is still democratic and will re-elect Sens or Overman.

St. Louis, Nov. 6.—Not before Tuesday or Wednesday will the exact outcome of the election be known. Taft has carried the state, Hadley is elected governor, Stone has defeated Folk in the democratic primary for senate; McKinley leads Kereas for the republican; the legislature is democratic and the congressional delegation apparently is 11 democrats and 5 republicans on incomplete returns. The exact pluralities on the state ticket and the representation in the legislature are unavailable. The official count begins today at Jefferson City.

Schooner Abandoned. New York, Nov. 6.—After being blown 450 miles to sea just as they were about to make a safe anchorage, seven members of the crew of the schooner R. D. Spear, abandoned in a water-logged condition on November 3, arrived today on the Austrian steamer Maria.

The schooner sailed from Philadelphia October 20 for Galois, Md., its Delaware Breakwater on the 27th and when two miles off Scotland Lightship on the 29th, after thrashing through northeast gales, she was forced to run before the gale out to sea to keep afloat. The schooner labored heavily, and then she sprang a leak, and the remaining sails were swept away, and despite the efforts of the crew at the pumps the water gained so much headway that when the Maria sighted the schooner there was seven feet of water in the hold. After much difficulty the crew managed to cut away the small boats and reached the Maria in safety.

Entombed Miners. Benton, Ill., Nov. 6.—One hundred laborers are working desperately today at the shaft of the Reid mines, near here, to rescue four men entombed late yesterday afternoon when a terrific explosion caused an avalanche of coal to block the entrance. It is feared that the men will be smothered before the workmen can reach them.

Before noon, the rescuers after penetrating a little way into mine expressed belief that the four men were dead. Heart-rendering scenes were enacted about the mouth of the mine today where the wives and children of the entombed men gathered to await tidings of their fate.

Fire broke out in the Leiter mine at Sigler, and the mine has been sealed to stop the flames. It is believed that no one was in the shaft at the time of the accident.

Federation of Labor. Chicago, Nov. 6.—Delegates to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Denver Tuesday, began to arrive here today. Host of them believe Samuel Gompers will be re-elected president. Delegates say that all differences will be buried. A plan to retire Daniel J. Keefe as sixth vice president because of his advocacy of Judge Taft's candidacy has been abandoned because it would have the appearance of coercion. John Mitchell may not be a candidate for re-election as second vice president, owing to his connection with the National Civic Federation. His place should fall to Tom L. Lewis, who succeeded him as president of the United Mine Workers.

Town Swept by Fire. Concord, N. H., Nov. 6.—Looming a town of 8,000 population on the southern shore of Lake Winnepiscogee, twenty-five miles north here, is being swept by a fire. The flames started at 12:30 p. m. in the yard of the County Lumber Company, which was reduced to ruins, and are now burning fiercely in the southern end of the town. Aid has been sent from this city.

A dispatch from Hoeg Koog says that Rear Admiral Emory this afternoon relinquished his command of the second squadron. With flag Lieutenant Anderson he will leave for Southampton on November 18, sailing from there to the United States. The Louisiana will sail for Olongapo tomorrow morning.

Bank Wrecker Sentenced.

New York Nov. 6.—Charles W. Morse, former les king, was today sentenced to fifteen years in the Federal penitentiary by Judge Hough for wrecking the National Bank of North America. Alford H. Curtis, his former president, was liberated on suspended sentence, Judge Hough declaring him to have been under the influence of Morse's master mind, and that at his efforts a reform had been blocked by the bank's board of directors. Mr. Curtis was borne aloft from the room when her husband's sentence was suspended.

Later, accompanied by his wife and sister-in-law, Curtis left the Federal building a free man, and was cheered by the hundreds of spectators who thronged the corridors. Morse, his wife, his sons, and his counsel were escorted to the marshal's room where they were allowed to converse until twelve o'clock when he will be taken to the Tombs. Morse never flinched nor showed the slightest emotion when the sentence was pronounced or at any time during the morning. He is sentenced to the prison at A. J. A. Ga.

End of Strike. Manchester, England, Nov. 6.—After a two months' strike, causing a loss estimated at $5,000,000, the Laxashire cotton spinners have accepted the 5 per cent. reduction in wages on March 1, 1909, and returned to work. Nearly 500,000 men were directly and indirectly involved in the strike. The end of the strike will greatly relieve the terrible laboring conditions in the district.

Woman Conquered Burglar. Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Anna Dine is today receiving the congratulations of friends for beating a burglar in a rough and tumble encounter, although just recovering from an operation. She was walking on crutches. Mrs. Dine surprised the intruder. He attempted to cut her throat. The woman backed both of the burglar's eyes and knocked out one of his front teeth. This was the means of his capture.

Earthquake Shocks. Pilsen, Germany, Nov. 6.—A violent earthquake at an early hour today threw the people into the worst panic they ever experienced. People fled into the streets and houses rocked. Sharp explosions and heavy rumbling noises accompanied the earthquake. Slight shocks have been felt for the last week, but today's disturbance, which lasted several minutes, was many times more violent than any of the others. The temperature of Medicinal Springs, near here, has increased fifteen degrees.

TAFT AND POPE LEO XIII. The Tribune in an article on Mr. Taft recalls his visit to Rome in 1902 and the excellent impression he made on Pope Leo XIII. To Mr. Taft Pope Leo expressed the hope that he would one day realize his dream of having an American diplomatic representative accredited to the Holy See. The Tribune concludes by saying: "Now that Mr. Taft is president, can Leo's successor entertain the same hope, which is against the spirit of the American Constitution?"

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEVITIES. William Hunter, a Detroit, Mich., teamster, today drank a quart of whisky without stopping to pay an election bet. He is dying.
