

TUESDAY EVENING, NOV. 10, 1908

cigarette habit is a most pernicious one and is undermining the health and mind of a very large percentage of the youth of this country.

WHEN Mr. Nat Goodwin, the actor, who was married on Sunday for the fourth time, was asked how he got through the wedding ceremony, he replied, "Oh, I know it by heart." He was divorced from at least two of his wives and probably three. This is but an example of how the divorce habit is growing in this country.

From Washington.

Washington, Nov. 10. It is learned today that the president's dinner to labor leaders next Tuesday will be followed by a statement of the attitude of the administration on labor questions in his forthcoming message to Congress. By those in touch with him it is said that it will advocate several new measures which will tend to bring in line those leaders who take the more conservative point of view in advocating legislation before Congress. The attitude of the administration will be constructive legislation as opposed to the radical demands of the leaders who follow in the wake of Samuel Gompers. The president is evidently of the idea that the time is now ripe for the initiation of a movement among the labor men themselves for more harmonious cooperation in the regulation of labor conditions. The Central Labor Union of Washington today sent a telegram to Samuel Gompers at Denver, congratulating him on the fact that he was not invited to the White House labor conference and dinner on November 17. In the discussion last night, before it was decided to send the telegram, several of the delegates denounced President Roosevelt in bitter language for failing to include President Gompers in the list of labor leaders invited to the dinner. The president is openly flouting the red rag in the face of organized labor," said Sam DeNedrey, secretary of the central body. "His flippant discourtesy to Mr. Gompers will be condemned by the country at large. It is an undignified act, and it will serve to unite labor men in the cause." The White House is not ready to announce whether President-elect Taft will be a guest at the dinner. It is understood, however, that Judge Taft will be present. It is believed that the president is contemplating the inauguration of a definite labor program far beyond the measures already being considered in Congress and one that it may require many years to realize.

The ways and means committee of the House began its trial revision hearings today, by taking up the schedules relating to chemicals and chiefly in the manufacture of dyes. Chairman Payne and Representatives Longworth, Gaines, Needham, Hill, Dalzell, McCall, Boutwell, Cocker, Underwood, and Griggs, attended the opening session, and listened attentively while the chemists hurled long technical names at them, and demanded that various oils, acids and salts be moved out of the free list and put upon the tariff wall. The plea of the chemical companies was mainly for the placing of a twenty-five per cent tariff approximately upon various coal tar products used in the manufacture of dyes, claiming that if this is done, United States manufacturers will be able to compete with German and English ones. George R. Bower, of Philadelphia, A. B. Arnold, who represents the Varnish Makers National Association made the most interesting witnesses of the session. Mr. Bower advocated an increase of duty on chemicals, but in an unguarded moment, admitted that his business was good and that he was making a good profit. "Why do you want an increase of duty then?" asked Mr. Underwood. "If the duty was increased we could make more goods," said Bower. "In other words, you would make more profit. Is that not so?" asked Mr. Underwood. Mr. Bower admitted that this was correct, and retired. Platt advocated a reduction of 10 per cent of the present 25 per cent, and a duty on medicinal chemicals, and began his argument with an attack on the tariff, characterizing it as unjust, oppressive and unfair. He said that the manufacturers of chemicals in this country have formed a trust and sell their chemicals at exactly the same price. If the duty is reduced, he said the consumer would reap the benefit, and the manufacturers would not make so much profit. Arnold proceeded to deliver a lecture on the selling of goods abroad. "I don't take any stock in all this rot," he said, "about selling goods at a loss abroad. When Americans sell goods in foreign countries they make a profit or they don't sell at all. I've sold sewing machines in South Africa for $19.50 a piece, which retailed for $65 in America, and still I make a profit on them. It's just the same with all other classes of goods."

Count Carl Paul Oscar Moltke, the new minister to the United States from Denmark, presented his credentials to the president at the White House today. He was introduced by Secretary of State Root. Argument was begun today before the United States Supreme Court in the famous "Express Company case" involving the validity of the anti-pass provisions of the Hepburn and Elkins acts. Every express company in the United States is vitally concerned in the issue and is a party to the appeal. On July 3, 1907, United States District Attorney Sims secured from the Circuit Court, at Chicago, a perpetual injunction restraining the express companies from issuing passes to employees of other express companies on the ground that it constituted a discrimination forbidden by the act to regulate commerce. The express companies claim that the charge of discrimination is unconstitutional. The practice of issuing passes was first introduced by the George Washington Express Co., of Washington, D. C., in 1870.

Senator Callom, of Illinois, paid his respects to the president and later announced that he could see no possibility of any tariff discussion at the coming session of Congress. Senator Clark, of Wyoming, chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, now having before it an anti-injunction bill and the measure proposing an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law relative to the boycott, had a brief talk with the president. Up to 2:30 o'clock this evening no bishop had been chosen for the Episcopal diocese of Washington. The Navy Department is about to advertise for bids for the construction of a wireless telegraph station that is to be the biggest thing of its kind in the country. It is to be erected in or near this city.

News of the Day.

President-elect Taft will spend part of the winter in Augusta, Ga.

Charleston, W. Va., is enveloped in a dense cloud of smoke, caused by forest fires which are raging on the surrounding mountains. Four houses were burned to the ground Sunday night and hundreds of homes lying in the path of the flames are in danger.

Charles H. Jones, until October 1 cashier of the First National Bank of Seabright, N. J., has been arrested and held under $10,000 bail for the grand jury. He was charged with falsifying the books of the institution and covering up a shortage of $16,000.

Mrs. Priscilla Abers, aged 60, and her three children, of Carey, Ohio, apparently all became demented yesterday, and shutting and locking the doors and fastening the windows, deliberately poured coal oil upon the furniture, beds, and carpets and set fire to the whole house. Neighbors, who had been watching their queer actions for several days, broke into the house and rescued them. The mother and children were later sent to jail.

Whisky valued at $125,000 and buildings worth $15,000 were destroyed by fire at Dralville, Nelson county, Kentucky, Sunday night. The government loses $450,000 in taxes on the whisky. Two warehouses, two stock barns and several minor buildings belonging to the T. W. Samuels Distillery Company were destroyed. The distillery and one, warehouse were saved by the people, who, attracted by the spectacular blaze, came from the country for miles around. The trial of Dr. J. D. Gregory, a prominent dentist, indicted for an attempted assault on Miss Theodora U. Irvine, a teacher of expression, of New York, while the latter was a patient in his office on July 28 last under the influence of chloroform, was begun at Roanoke yesterday in the Corporation Court, Judge J. W. Woods presiding. Dr. Gregory pleaded not guilty.

Mrs. Bettie Dandridge, the only living former mistress of the White House, with the exception of Mrs. Cleveland, is recovering from an accident which almost cost her her life recently while at her residence in Winchester. While walking near a railway she slipped and fell down, sustaining cuts and bruises which it was feared, would result seriously in view of her 86 years. It is now stated, however, that she is much better and will recover. Mrs. Dandridge is a daughter of President Zachary Taylor.

Virginia News.

The Newport News Shipbuilding Company was low on one type of new battleship and high on another.

Henry Fairfax, and E. B. White, of Virginia, were judges of the Chicago Horse show which opened yesterday. The steamer Mabel W. Guildman, which has been plying between Fredericksburg and Wheaton, on the lower Rappahannock, was burned at her wharf at Wheaton Sunday night.

It is again rumored in republican circles that C. Bacon Sloop, representative in Congress from the Ninth district, has been elected by President-elect Taft for either a position in his cabinet or an appointment to a foreign ambassadorship.

Eight loaded freight cars were derailed and piled within 10 feet of Wards 8 rings trestle, on the Southern Railway 13 miles north of Oatman, Sunday night. The track was torn up for several hundred yards and traffic delayed ten hours.

Mrs. Nancy Fuller Lowery, 62 years old, died at Winchester, yesterday, after a lingering illness. She was for years the widow of her husband's brother, Jacob Lowery, and after the death of David Lowery's first wife, who was her sister, she was married to him.

Among the state senators elected in New York last Tuesday was Mr. Howard R. Byrne, formerly of Virginia, who carried the republican district counties of Richmond and Rockland by a large majority. The democratic and republican papers of that district speak in the most complimentary terms of Mr. Byrne.

Three hundred acres of valuable timber land and several miles of fence have been destroyed in a mountain fire which was started Sunday by incendiaries on the farm of Eva Pugh, at Timber Ridge, Frederick county. Dozens of men engaged in fighting the fire all Sunday night and yesterday evening got the flames under control.

MORSE RESPIED.

Charles W. Morse, former New York banker, sentenced to fifteen years in the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., has been given another respite. By the action of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday he will remain in New York till the first week in January, though Judge Hough, before whom he was convicted, allowed him only ten days.

Wallace MacFarlane, counsel for the prisoner, who is in the Tombs, argued before the court that his client should be admitted to bail, and he made the statement that United States Attorney Stinson had agreed to give him an additional thirty days beyond December 3, when the return on the writ of error, sued out before Judge Lacombe on Saturday, should be returned.

The court acquiesced in the unders' adding. To the surprise of the court and the lawyers, Mr. MacFarlane said that Morse is "in some respects in poverty." He insisted that the reports that his client is a multi-millionaire were false; that his assets would not pay his liabilities because his affairs were tied up and he did not have control of them.

YOUNG ESTEP EXONERATED.

A coroner's jury yesterday evening returned a verdict of accidental shooting in the case of Walter E. Estep, the 20-year-old son of S. B. Estep, of Boyce, Clarke county, who on Sunday evening shot and killed Gilbert Grove, a 17-year-old Loudoun county boy, with a shotgun. Estep was discharged from custody. Young Grove, with several companions, was walking, when Estep came along.

"I'm going to kill you all," Estep declared, at the same time raising his gun. Grove's companions fled, but before Grove could get away the gun was fired, the charges from both barrels entering his breast. He fell to the ground dead. Estep claimed that the shooting was an accident, and that he did not know why he fired. The boys were friends, and Estep is overwhelmed with grief.

STILL AFTER W. S. TAYLOR.

Arthur Goebel, brother of the late William Goebel, conferred at Frankfort, Ky., Saturday, with Commonwealth's Attorney Robert B. Franklin. He wants Governor Wilson to issue regulations on the return of W. S. Taylor and Charles Finley for trial upon the indictments charging complicity in the murder of William Goebel.

Taylor was the republican contestee for the governorship when Goebel was the contestant, was murdered. Finley was secretary of state under a preceding administration. Three republican governors of Indiana have refused to deliver the two men to the Kentucky authorities, upon the ground that they would not secure fair trials.

UNNA DEFINES A CAUSE.

European Skin Specialist Says Dandruff is Caused by Parasites. Upon that theory, proved beyond a doubt, a sure cure dandruff was sought after. Scientific chemists, druggists and physicians all "took a hand" and the successful issue is the present product known as "Newbro's Herpicide."

This remedy actually kills the parasites that infect the hair bulb, does its work most effectively and contains not an atom of substance injurious to anything else than the scalp alone. Herpicide causes the hair to grow as nature intended it should, soft and sound.

Today's Telegraphic News.

The Standard Oil Case. Chicago, Nov. 10.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Judges Grosscup, Baker and Seaman sitting, today denied the government's petition for a rehearing before that court of the $29,000,000 Standard Oil case. The court sustained its original ruling, reversing the decision of U. S. District Judge Landis, and remanding the case to him for retrial. It is believed that Attorney General Bonaparte will now take the case to the Supreme Court of the United States on a writ of certiorari.

This was the second time the United States Circuit Court of Appeals has acted in this case. The case was originally taken to the appellate court by the Standard Oil Company, after Judge K. M. Landis of the U. S. District Court had fined the company $29,000,000, on the jury's verdict finding the Standard Oil Company guilty of accepting rebates from the Chicago and Alton Railroad.

The oil company had been indicted by two special grand juries on 6,428 counts, charging violations of the Elkins interstate commerce law which prohibits the granting or acceptance of rebates on railroad shipments. The trial began March 4, 1907 and lasted for six weeks.

The specific indictments upon which the United States authorities elected to make their fight numbered 1,463, and charged the acceptance of rebates from the Chicago and Alton Railroad Company, aggregating $223,000 on shipments of three thousand cars of oil from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill.

The trial ended in a verdict of guilty on each count in each indictment and the maximum fine of $29,240,000 was imposed. Before he pronounced sentence, Judge Landis expressed a desire to discover the connection between the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. John D. Rockefeller, H. H. Rogers and other Standard Oil officials testified.

On August 3, 1907, Judge Landis delivered his decision on the Standard Oil case immediately took the case to the Court of Appeals on a writ of error.

La 1 July the appeal's court reversed the trial court, remanding the case for retrial. This opinion, written by Judge Grosscup contained what was called the most remarkable exhortation of one court by another in the history of the American bench.

On August 14 last District Attorney Sims filed a petition for a rehearing of the case before the appellate court. Today's ruling was on this petition.

Today's decision was unanimous. Judge Grosscup wrote the opinion and Judge Baker gave some reasons additional to those set forth by Judge Grosscup for concurring in the opinion. Judge Grosscup's opinion uses almost the identical language of the court's original ruling on the case, with a few additions. The court then goes on with the original exhortation of Judge Landis.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Although no official announcement will be made at this moment, the attorney general is fully prepared to file within a few days in the Supreme Court a writ of certiorari in the Standard Oil case just decided adversely by the Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago.

It was officially announced at the Department of Justice this afternoon that a petition for a writ of certiorari might be made to the Supreme Court within a week. The attorney-general stated that the government was very anxious to secure an early decision.

The Killing of Ex-Senator Carmack.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—All Tennessee is today in a frenzy of excitement following the killing last night of ex-Senator Edward W. Carmack in a pistol duel with Col. Duncan B. Cooper and his son Robin.

A special session of the grand jury has been called for tomorrow morning. Col. Cooper, after a preliminary trial today, will be held as an accessory. His son, Robin, whom Carmack slightly wounded in the shoulder, is under arrest in St. Thomas' Hospital. It is said both men will waive examination and be bound over without bail.

Friends of Carmack declare the killing was cold blooded. They say they can prove that both the Coopers had made many threats against Carmack, because of the utterances of Carmack in his paper, the Tennessean. They declare both the Coopers were armed for only one reason.

It is further declared that a witness will be brought forward to whom Cooper's daughter telephoned a short time before the tragedy, asking this man to look out for her father and disarm him, as he had left home with the intention of killing Carmack.

The Carmack adherents also declare that as they met on the street, Col. Cooper attracted Carmack's attention by calling out: "We've got you now," and as Carmack looked in his direction, young Robin Cooper fired from the rear. It is the charge that the first bullet which proved fatal, struck Carmack in the back of the neck. Carmack drew his own revolver and fired twice, one of the bullets striking young Cooper in the shoulder.

The tragedy occurred in front of the Polk Apartment House. Mrs. Charles Eastman had just come from the building and Carmack raised his hat to her. Col. Cooper, approaching, called out, "You're trying to hide behind a woman, you coward." The shooting followed.

Mrs. Eastman denies that Carmack tried to hide behind her or drew his pistol first, as the Coopers allege. Columbia, Tenn., Nov. 9.—Mrs. E. W. Carmack left for Nashville yesterday evening and she appeared to be on the verge of prostration. Her mother, Mrs. Ellen Dunnington, who has been seriously ill, was overcome and physicians were called.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Col. Duncan B. Cooper was arraigned before a justice today and waived examination on the charge of being an accessory in the murder of ex-Senator Carmack. He was committed without bond and is now in the county jail.

Postmaster Morgan Will Recover.

New York, Nov. 10.—Edward M. Morgan, postmaster of New York, who was shot in the stomach yesterday by Eric H. Mackay, an escaped lunatic, who then committed suicide, is today on the road to recovery. His physicians believe he will be out in ten days.

Threats of Revolutionists.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 10.—Russian troops are today hurrying toward Tabriz, to prevent the revolutionists from carrying out their threats of blowing up the Russian consulate and killing foreign residents.

The revolutionists control Tabriz and practically the entire Azerbaijan province. They have recruited hundreds of Russian revolutionists, who urge Satar Kahn, the revolutionist leader, to violence against the foreigners in the city.

The Russian revolutionists are desirous of involving Russia in a conflict, and are urging the attacks on the Russian consulate in the knowledge that Russia will resent such an outrage with arms.

Kaiser in Airship.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Three hundred thousand people are gathered at Lake Constance awaiting Emperor William, who late this afternoon, is scheduled to ascend with Count Zeppelin I, in the latter's dirigible airship, in which the crown prince made an ascent on Saturday. The emperor's advisors have decided with him not to risk his life, but he declared that he will make the ascent despite all warnings. Count Zeppelin was apprised. The count replied that he had to obey his emperor's desire. A number of passengers will make the trip; everybody of importance in the empire has requested the privilege of accompanying the emperor, on this first air trip ever made by a nation's ruler.

Bull, Nov. 10.—Emperor William ascended with Count Zeppelin this afternoon.

Battleship Launched.

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 10.—The North Dakota, greatest of United States battleships, was launched today at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company. The launching was witnessed by a large gathering. Miss Mary Benton, of Fargo, N. D., christened the battleship with champagne. While the government has refused to permit the publication of details of the new battleship's design, she is known to be 510 feet long at the water line, 518 feet nine inches over all, with an extreme breadth of 85 feet 3 inches. The trial draft to the bottom of her keel is 27 feet and her displacement 20,000 tons. She will be the first American battleship to be propelled by turbine engines. Her sister ship, the Delaware, is being built at Newport News, Va.

Police Inspector Killed.

Calcutta, Nov. 10.—Newspaper and Indian officials are today making the strongest demand ever heard in India for repressive measures against the terrorists as the result of the murder last evening of Police Inspector Banerji, chief native investigator of the Indian anarchistic plots. Banerji was shot to death by three unknown natives in a crowded section of the city. The terrorists have so frightened the Bengalis that they dared not give information to the police. The activity of the terrorists is a part of the general campaign against English control of India.

Died from Hydrophobia.

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Elmer Trogler, a wealthy farmer, of Mercersburg, Pa., died at the City Hospital here today of hydrophobia, suffering all the agonies which accompany the dreadful disease. Mr. Trogler was brought to this city late yesterday afternoon. At the hospital it was seen at once by the physicians that he had not the slightest chance of recovery, as he had developed the last stages of the malady.

New York Stock Market.

New York, Nov. 10.—London houses took about 25,000 shares and this induced purchases of stocks by the trading element on the floor, causing the early fractional advances all around the room, but the gains then made were later lost under heavy selling by three or four prominent commission houses, and at the end of the first hour a change of position by the room traders helped along the reaction and prices then showed moderate net losses compared with yesterday's closing. The interests that have been committed to the bull side for a long period were quiet buyers again on this decline.
