Concerning Woman's Beauty. Man in Africa likes his women large and round and fattens them in darkened huts, like Hamburg geese. Man in England likes them strong and brave.

His Morning Shower. The soda fountain clerk was engaged in vigorously shaking up a chocolate and egg, when suddenly the glass broke in his hands and the ensuing deluge made him look like a human eclair.

Impatient. Customer—Are you the proprietor of this restaurant? Proprietor—Yes, sir. Customer—Then please provide me as quickly as possible with pen, ink and paper and two decent people as witnesses.

Cause of Her Grief. "When a child starts to school it is provided with a blank to be filled in by its parents," said a kindergarten teacher. "Only simple questions are asked, such as the date and place of the child's birth, the nativity of its parents, etc."

The Secret of Style. Style is in a very small degree the deliberate and designed creation of the man who therein expresses himself. The self that he thus expresses is a bundle of inherited tendencies that came, the man himself can never entirely know whence. It is by the instinctive stress of a highly sensitive or slightly abnormal constitution that he is impelled to distill these tendencies into the alien magic of words.

Oyster Shell Window. On the west coast of India is found a species of oyster, Placina placenta, whose shell consists of a pair of roughly circular plates about six inches in diameter, thin and white. At present these oysters are collected for the pearls which they often contain, although few are fit for the use of the jeweler.
