DEATHS

MRS. P. A. BARTLETT.

At her home in Fort Morgan, Col., Sunday, Jan. 21, 1906, of pneumonia, Mrs. P. A. Bartlett, aged about 54 years.

She had been ill with the grippe for several weeks and this developed into pneumonia. She was in Austin last June at the time of the death of her daughter, Virginia, at St. Olaf hospital.

The family resided in Austin for twelve years, from 1890 to 1892. The husband and three children survive, Arthur, a druggist, Gray, an art student in Chicago, and Ruth at home.

Mrs. Bartlett was an active member of the Congregational church while she lived in Austin and was also prominent in Rebekah work. She was of a kind disposition and her influence inspired hope and courage in others. She was highly esteemed by her numerous Austin friends.

MRS. JOSEPHINE Y. CAMPBELL.

At Rochester, Minn., Tuesday, Jan. 23, 1906, suddenly, Mrs. Josephine Y. Campbell, aged about 54 years. She was the daughter of S. Y. Paddock of Grand Meadow. The family came to Grand Meadow from the south soon after the war. Josephine taught school successfully in the east part of Mower county for several terms. She was married near Grand Meadow to Edward R. Campbell and they lived on their farm in Pleasant Valley for years. They came to Austin to reside about thirty years ago living at the south end of St. Paul street. Eight children are living, five sons and three daughters. Mrs. Harlan P. Smith and Charlie Campbell live just east of Austin, Mrs. Mark D. Lowe and Susie are at Greeley, Col., and four boys are in Washington state. The body of Mrs. Campbell will be brought to Austin for interment. Funeral services will be held in Oakwood chapel probably Thursday morning.

JOHN BEACH.

At the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. D. Fairbanks on Lansing avenue, Sunday morning, Jan. 21, 1906, of apoplexy, John Beach, aged 72 years. He had been at work fixing up his house on Vine street during Saturday and as he was leaving about five o'clock had a stroke of apoplexy which resulted in his speedy death. He was born in Rensselaerville, Albany county, N. Y., May 16, 1833. He was the oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Alanson Beach, who were pioneers of Mower county. In 1834, the family moved to Fulton, in Schoharie county, N. Y., where they bought a farm and lived for seven years. They then sold out and returned to Albany county where they lived until 1854 when they moved to Green county.

In 1855 John made a trip to Iowa and late in 1856 he and his wife, came with his father's family to Lyle where he took a claim on the S. W. quarter of section 26 and lived there three years. He then bought land in sections 32 and 33 where he lived for two years and then moved to the old homestead nearby where he lived until he moved to Austin. Mr. Beach was married in Greene County, N. Y. Sept. 3, 1856, to Miss Catherine M. Morrison and the same year they came to Lyle. Five children were born to them, two dying in infancy. Mrs. Mary A. wife of Frank J. Sessions, died in Austin, Mich. 10, 1899.

Mr. Beach continued to live on the old homestead in Lyle until 1892 when on account of poor health of Mrs. Beach they moved to Austin. She died here Nov. 16, 1896. Since that time he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Fairbanks. He has been in failing health for the past year but had never shown any symptoms of apoplexy.

Two children survive, Frank M. Beach of Lyle village and Mrs. Katie M. Fairbanks of this city. Mr. Beach came from good Methodist stock. His father was one of the pioneer ministers in Lyle and in the early days was active in religious work. His son John and wife early united with the M. E. church and at time of their death were members of the Austin church. He was prominent in township affairs for many years and was county commissioner from 1887 to 1895. He was a Master Mason and also a Knight of Pythias. He was highly respected and trusted by his fellow citizens who knew that his life was sincere. Only a few weeks ago he spent an hour with the writer recalling some of his pioneer experiences. He was a good friend and an exemplary man. Funeral services were held at the M. E. church yesterday afternoon, a large company of friends being present. Rev. F. A. Cone of Northfield preached the sermon. The burial services at Oakwood were in charge of Fidelity Lodge of Masons.

The Proper Way to Cook Rice.

North Star Health Union voted to send free to interested parties a printed recipe for cooking rice in twenty minutes in an ordinary sauce pan, leaving rice three times its size, whole, snowy white, light, dry and more palatable than cooked in any other way, no utensils or rice for sale. Address, J. Weis, 318 Phoenix Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. Return postage enclosed agreeable not demanded.

MARRIAGES

MILLER-STEVENS.

At the M. E. parsonage in this city, Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 17, 1906, Gilbert O. Miller and Miss Ada L. Stevens of LeRoy, Rev. G. W. Lutz officiating. The wedding was private.

The groom is an electrician at LeRoy and the bride has been a milliner there. They are intelligent and high respected young people of that place. They went to Chicago for a wedding trip and will be at home to friends at LeRoy after Feb. 1.

PAGE-BLYTON.

At the residence of the bride's parents in Windom township, Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 17, 1906, Frank Gillette Page of this city and Miss Hazel Pearl youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeForest S. Blyton, Rev. C. D. Belden officiating. They were unattended during the ceremony. An arch of evergreen was arranged in the west parlor and beneath this the wedding vows were spoken. There were about thirty relatives and friends present as guests. The bride was very becomingly dressed in a gown of pale blue silk trimmed in lace over all. After congratulations, a bountiful wedding dinner was enjoyed and the afternoon was spent socially. Many beautiful gifts were received from friends. Among the guests was an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Kolla A. Register of Greco, and the groom's mother and other relatives from Austin. The bride was born and reared at Saints' Rest and is popular in a large circle of young friends. She is a good musician and has a practical knowledge of domestic economy which is an excellent qualification for every bride to possess. The groom is a young man of excellent character and habits and is well known as an industrious and ambitious citizen. He came to Austin about eleven years ago from Superior and for several years clerked for Frank O. Hall. Later he was for five years one of the managers of the Baird stock farm. Recently he has been clerking for Deckers Brothers. He has rented the Blyton farm at Saints' Rest with all its stock and personal property and he and his bride will make their home on the old homestead. We extend congratulations and best wishes.
