BREAK IN RANKS OF SUPPORTERS

Views of Senators on Tolls Exemption Changing. Washington, April 12.—Republican support in the senate for president Wilson's demand for the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption clause is still disintegrating. Two weeks ago Senator Lodge of Massachusetts made a poll for the president, showing twenty-two Republicans in favor of the repeal. Today but twelve of them are left and four of these are doubtful. As a result the president's supporters in the senate are worrying, because there has been a similar breaking up of the Democratic strength. Even Senator Sherman of Illinois who started out as an ardent supporter of the president's position, is now on the doubtful list in the poll made by the administration leaders.
