TRY THIS FOR NEURALGIA.

Thousands of people keep on suffering with Neuralgia because they do not know what to do for it. Neuralgia is a pain in the nerves. What you want to do is to soothe the nerve itself. Apply Sloan's Liniment to the surface over the painful part—do not rub it in. Sloan's Liniment penetrates very quickly to the sore, irritated nerve and allays the inflammation. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25 cents of any druggist and have it in the house—against Colds, Sore and Swollen Joints, Lumbago, Sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

AN AUSTIN MAN'S EXPERIENCE

Results Tell The Tale.

Can you doubt the evidence of this Austin citizen? You can verify Austin endorsement. Read this:

C. J. Myhre, shoemaker, 611 West Lyndale avenue, Austin, says: "For six months my back was so bad that it was all I could do to get up from the bench. Sharp pains came on and it was hard for me to keep at my work. Besides this misery in my back, I also suffered from lameness and soreness over my kidneys. It hurt me to even press my hands across my kidneys. I had been working at my trade for forty years and the constant sitting no doubt, weakened my kidneys. I didn't have the least energy and I felt all run down. I had to get up a couple of times at night to pass the kidney secretions. I had taken several remedies with no relief, when a friend told me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. After I had taken three boxes, I was in fine shape. I have never had an attack of kidney trouble or backache since. When I feel the least symptom of kidney disorder, I get Doan's Kidney Pills and they put an end to the ailments."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Myhre had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

CORN AND ALFALFA FOR RANGE CATTLE

Bundle-Corn Serves the Purpose Well—Alfalfa in Evening Greatly Relished.

BY HOWARD R. SMITH, Division of Dairy and Animal Husbandry, Minnesota College of Agriculture.

The present shortage of beef cattle is evidence of the fact that the range territory in the West is not supplying the demand. Because of this scarcity and high prices on feeder cattle it is desirable to grow more cattle for feeding purposes on Minnesota farms. Many farmers, however, are not so situated as to keep cows and have followed the practice of buying thin Western cattle at the stock yards each fall.

Most of the cattle coming from the range country are two years old or over. They are not usually sold earlier because of the low cost of range grazing. Many ranchmen make a practice of keeping their cattle until they are four years old because as they approach maturity they fatten readily on grass and sell on the market as killers.

Leave Buying to Market Men.

Feeders bought on the market usually weigh from 800 to 1,000 pounds each. The buying should be entrusted to a reliable commission firm. The men at the markets keep well informed as to values and can buy to the best advantage preferably on orders to be filled at some future time. Feeders can usually be had to advantage in September or October. There may be a considerable quantity of second growth hay or other pasture that should be fed up and if so the cattle should be bought reasonably early to take advantage of this cheap feed.

Bundle-corn makes excellent feed at low cost for such cattle in the fall months. A half-bundle to a steer the first day is enough, but the allowance may gradually be increased until each steer is receiving the equivalent of about ten pounds of corn per day. Limited to that quantity they will be able to consume all of the stalk that is useful as a feed. This quantity of grain would represent approximately half of what constitutes a full feed.

Protection is Necessary.

The cattle should be placed in a protected yard upon the coming of cold winter storms late in November or early in December. A long, narrow shed at the north side of the yard, with openings on the south furnishes ample protection for mature cattle being fattened. If good bedding is provided the cattle will remain inside much of the time. If the feeding of bundle-corn is to be continued in the yard, wide bottom racks with vertical slats to prevent waste should be set up. These can also be used for hay unless it is more convenient to feed under roof.

Bundle
