We have space left this morning for only a mere mention of the meeting, but hope to give some of the points in our next. See list elsewhere of other meetings to be held.

DEATH OF MRS. CREVER. A letter received by Thos. II. Crever, states that Mrs. B H. Crever passed away on Friday last, Oct. 15, at 4:50 p. m., at Petersburg, Pa. As stated in last week's ADVANCE, Mrs. Crever recently had a stroke of paralysis from the effect of which she died. She was

Rev. B II Crever and family were among the early colonists who labored for the upbuilding of Worthington and they are remembered by many persons here with affection and respect.

Bishop Ireland of the Roman Catholic Church of Minnesota says in the Chronicle: "The Democratic party pre-fers low license—a 'wide open' policy to legislative control of the liquor traffic. It has made its choice. It appeals to the friends of these measures to support its tickets, and as we are not nor never have been in sympathy with such a political programme, it evidently does not desire our support, and it will not be disappointed when it fails to get it? fails to get it."

So it seems that the only temperance party is the Republican. The prohibition party leaders declare that their object is to turn the government over to the Democrats and let them turn on free whisky, throw the spiggot and the bunghole wide open. Satterlee declared when here that this was what the prohibitionists wanted. They wanted to have Hades and Sheol in the hope that the people would get sick of it and turn the country over

E. S. Mills appears for once in his true light. He used to be on a ticket and never did anything for any one but himself. This time he is running alone The Difference. Some people say there is no differ-ence between Miller and Mills, as both and working for himself alone. What-ever Mills says, the people may know he is all for self. Whatever he does, they may know is done solely for self.

are old office holders. But there is quite a difference. Miller has stepped aside as sheriff and does not ask it longer. Mills has been Auditor three terms and asks it for life. Miller has performed the unpleasant duties of sheriff in all kinds of weather, and lost half his fees, while Mills has sat in his ever befriends him, may be sure that office by a warm stove, drawn his own warrants on the treasury, rubbed his hands, and got fat. Miller is an excellent penman, book keeper, clerk, speller, etc., and was cut out on purpose for an Auditor. Mills is a very poor penman, a worse speller, a bad book keeper, unfit for clerkly duty, and ought not longer to be Auditor. Mills does understand county affairs well enough to make a good Auditor, but he is an exceedingly seep of fice. he is an exceedingly poor office man. Miller did not ask office, but he has en so exceptionally faithful in all his duties and so competent that the people felt he was needed in another office. Mills seeks office himself, for Mills seeks office himself, for himself, and will, if elected, run the office for self or selfish interest.

What Mills Costs the County. An attorney the other day called our attention to the fact that since E. S. Mills became Auditor, his office has cost the county more for litigation than all the other offices together. This, he said, was partly due to the blunders which Mills is continually making, but more due to his defiance of the decisions and instructions of— The Courts, the Attorney-General the State Auditor and the County Attorney.

Why does Mills take this stand against all the authorities? It is not in the interest of the people, for it greatly increases their taxes, their legal fees, redemption fees, etc. Mills does it to increase his own perquisites. The more there is on the list, the mo he gets for his own salary and his clerk

We applied to another attorney, and he said Mills defiant efforts to increase his own income had cost the people over $1,000 in cool cash.

We have given examples elsewhere of how he annoys the people and makes expenses directly, or to the individual. Take an example of another kind where it costs the county considerable to get the property off the list after Mills has put it on:

He put the depot grounds at Worthington on and had them sold for taxes. His employers and principals, Miller & Thompson, bought the title. The listing of this kind of property was in open defiance of all decisions of the courte and all instructions. courts and all instructions. Of course, the county had to get out of this scrape, get the property off the books, and foot the bills.

There are a number of such cases, and all make unnecessary trouble and expense, and all grow out of Mills' effort to raise his salary.

TO THE VOTERS OF NOBLES COUNTY. WORTHINGTON, Min., Oct. 19, '86. GENTLEMEN:—I feel that an explanation is due you, as to why I am a candidate for re-election as Clerk of the District Court, while acting as postmaster at Worthington. It is this: The salary of the postmaster at this place has been cut down One Hundred Dollars for the pressent year, and after paying clerk hire, rent, fuel and lights and incidental expenses, there is but little left. My failing health also ad-monishes me that fifteen hours of labor per day is more than I can stand. For these reasons I have concluded to ask a second term as Clerk of the Court, at your hands, assuring you that I am very thankful for your favors in the past, and that if re-elected I shall at forward my resignation as post-C. Such scurrif-ous attacks can come only from a desperate situation, from which all hope of success has fled, and only the poison and dagger of malice and falsehood is relied on for effect. I have at all times stated fairly and truthfully that I come here to see what inducement there may be for building a north and south railroad along a given line." That county seat question, as we said last week, is laying its blasting hand on every enterprise and every political movement in this district. It stands in the way of our getting a railroad north. It is growing in this county and, with some men, controls all their politics, business and "religion." The most diabolical question o raise is a county-seat question.

We believe that there is an honest movement for a coal road north and south through Worthington and we hope Murray will get that county-seat question out of the way and join hands to secure the road.
