"I do not go to the extent of some scientist," said a distinguished student of the animal kingdom recently, "in the opinion that a time will ever come when the lower animals will posess the power of speech, but I firmly believe that in a few generations certain of these animals will advance to a wonderful degree in the matter of intelligence. Experiments have been already made in England which demonstrate that some of them are capable of almost everything except the power to speak. Shepherd dogs have been taught to count, and, at the order of their master, will bring back a certain number of sheep from the pastures, if credences is to be placed in the reports which have been made from time to time within the last few years, and which

"In order that the education of animals, like cats, dogs and horses, which have already shown a certain degree of mentality may be brought to the highest state of perfection it is neccessary that the more intelligent of those brutes should be kept apart from others of their kind and should should be treated in the same way A horse trainer of national renown told me not long ago that he had been working on that theory for many years, and that he found the offspring of trick horses were much more easily taught than those which came from animals never trained in the ring.

"The associations with which an animal is surrounded have a wonderful effect upon its mental development, even though no special pains have been taken to educate it, as it is the case with our common household pets, which have for generations been subjected to gentle influences. Yet the progenitors of these domestic animals once roamed the forest as wild and untamed as the panther in the Indian jungles, and even now are found wild and ferocious in certain parts of the world. How, then, can we forecast the extent to which they can be educated during the myriads of ages of

A terrible accident occurred on the Virginia Midland railroad. The through Southern train from Alexandria went through a treetle between Orange Court House and Barboursville, killing five persons outright and wound-ing upwards of twenty-five. The trestic, which was forty-eight feet high, was known to be weak and the railroad company was engaged in filling it in. The train was mov-ing a speed of six miles an hour. The engine had passed safely over most of the trestle, when the smoker, mail, baggage and express cars went down, dragging the engine and two passenger coaches. Two sleepers remained on the trestle. The conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill was presented to the senate. The item for postoffice clerks for unusual business is fixed at $25,000 instead of $50,000. The item as to rent, light and fuel in third-class postoffices is retained, with a provision that a contract for rent for such postoffices shall be for more than a year. The item as to postage one seeds is fixed so as to make the postage one cent for every two ounces. On the subsidy clause, the conference committee was unable to agree. The report was agreed to, and Mr. Plumb moved that the senate insist in the subsidy amendment and ask for a further conference. After a long debate the motion was carried—28 to 16.—It was a strict party vote, except that Messrs Call, Gorman, Mc-Pherson and Puch voted with the Respective rote, except that Messrs Call, Gorman, Mc-Pherson and Pugh voted with the Republicans in the affirmative.

It is generally thought by Republican sen-ators that their party in the senate will for-muluate a substitute for the Mills bill, report it place it in the calendar and there let it remain until the next session. In a recently published letter of Thackery's we have a description of the sudden forgetfulness he was subjected to at the literaryfund dinrier. He was one of the speakers, and and he describes the affair as an "awful smash." Of the thread of his discourse he seems to have said, not in words, but in the spirit of an old dramatist, 'Tis lost:

Others have got their pearls of thought and illustration into the wrong place, nay, some have been so unfortunate as to lose both pearls and their setting. It seems to have een a trying time for Thackery, and he sat lown afterward and described to a friend what a fool he made of himself, but his mother, who had contrived to be within hearing distance, came to the opposite con-

The senate is not free from cases of sudder forgetfulness, though in days when it was considered out of place to use manuscript the lapses took place much more often. Nowadays a case seldom happens unless the notes have been disarranged or mislaid, or when the "paper gives out." But the thing does occur, and to front bench men and back bench men alike. Not long since an ex-cabinet minister collapsed completely from failure of memory, and he was shortly afterward translated, perhaps by way of consolation, to the house of peers. Only the other day, too, a member with a grievance made "an awful smash," to the delight of the house, through not being able to get at his notes but he has had no consolation and little

On the stage the promptor is the safety from forgetfulness, but in the concert theater lapses take place. Even a great living tenor has been known to retire in the middle of a has been known to retire in the middle of a song he had been singing every week for almost a lifetime, because all memory of the words he wanted was gone. Such a case of sudden forgetfulness took place in one of the London theaters early in the present century During the performance, which seemed to have been a mixed character, the gods in the galleries called for their favorite song, "The Sprig of Shillelagh." though it was not announced in the bills; and Mr. John Henry Johnstone, a well-known Irish actor and vocalist, came forward with alacrity and good humor to comply with the wishes of the gods. humor to comply with the wishes of the gods Accordingly the music played, but the singe stood silent and apparently confused. The symphony was repeated, but the same silence and confusion on the part of the vocalist took place in rather an increased degree. The symphony was preformed a third time, but all the part of the symphony was preformed a third time. but all to no purpose. At length Mr. John-stone came forward to the front of the stage and thus addressed the audience: "Ladies and gentlemen, I assure you that I have sung this song so often that I forget the first line." A roar of laughter greeted these words, and hundreds of good humored voices began to prompt the singer, who immediately gave the favorite song in good style, and gained increased applause.

Sudden forgetfulness is not an unusual thing in the pulpit. Aubrey, the antiquary, says that when he was a freshman at college he heard Dr. Sanderson, bishop of Lincoln, well known for his work, "Nine Cases of Conscience," break down in the middle of the Lord's Prayer. Even the great French preacher Massillion, once stopped in the middle of his sermon from a defect of memory, and Massillion himself recorded that the same thing happened through excess of appreher sion to two other preachers whom he went to hear in different parts of the same day. Another French preacher stopped in the mid-Another French preacher stopped in the mid-die of a sermon and was unable to proceed. The pause, however, was got over ingenuous-ly. "Friends," he said, "I had forgot to say that a person much afflicted is recommended to your immediate prayers." He meant him-self. He fell on his knees, and before he arose he had recovered the thread of his disce which he concluded without his want of mem which he concluded without his want of memory being perceived.

The late Rev. Henry Ware, of Boston, was once in a similar predicament. In the middle of a sermon his memory failed him, and he stopped abruptly. The pause seemed long to the preacher before he regained his thought, and he imagined the sermon to be a failure in consequence, but as he walked thought, and he imagined the sermon to be a failure in consequence, but as he walked quietly up the aisle a different impression was given him. "How did you like the sermon?" asked one hearer of another. "Like it? It is the best sermon Mr. Ware ever preached. That pause was sublime."

A good illustration of this sudden forgetfulness comes from the same district of Boston. A worthy minister there is not only absent-minded and has a short memory, but he breaks down as continually as he breaks he breaks down as continually as he breaks down suddenly. To counteract this it is a habit with him when he forgets anything to nable with him when he lorgets anything to rise again and make a few supplementary re-marks, which he always begins with the phrase, "By the way." One Sunday he got half way through a prayer from memory when he hesitated, forgot what he was about, and sat down abruptly without pronouncing the closing word. In a moment or two he rose, and pointing his finger at the amazed congregation, he exclaimed: "Oh, by the way, Amen!"

It is said of Father Taylor, a preacher to sailors, that once, when he got confused, he cried out: "Boys, I've lost my nominative case, but never mind—we're on the way to close!"

dory!"
We can understand a lapse of memory tak ing place when the mind is overburdened and usually demands are being made upon it, but usually demands are being made upon it, but for a failure to occur when there is stress put upon the mental powers is singular. Here is a case in point: We are told on good authority that a prominent Harvard professor went in the old Cambridge post-office and presented himself at the place where the delivery of letters are made. He stood there silent, but apparently very confused about something. The clerk in charge inquired what he desired. "My letters, please." "Name sir?" asked the clerk, After stammering and stuttering the learned man said: "I have quite forgotten my name." The official knew the professor, and with a

even if they did.

There is some consolation, however, in cases of sudden forgetfulness; the pity is that it does not come soon enough to benefit fully, and at times it is denied altogether to the actor. As for the orator, he knows afterward that none but himself is aware of the valuable forgetten things and the difference between the projected ideal and the actual performance. It would have been a great saving of nerve force and a pleasurable emotion to have thought of these two jtems before he had wished himself 1,000 miles away and tion to have thought of these two jicms before he had wished himself 1,000 miles away and before the room had swum around and be-fore he burst into perspiration at every pore.

THE PLATFORM. The resolutions adopted proclaim adherence The resolutions adopted proclaim adherence to the principles of the Republican party, warmly indorse the Chicago nominees and platform: declare sympathy with labor and its needs; approve the law enacted by the last legislature for a more just rate of transportation on all agricultural products and implements and recommend the further extension of the system of state and national control over railroads. The resolutions conclude: ver railroads. The resolutions conclude: Resolved. That in the imposition of duties on foreign imports we demand such revision of our present tariff laws as will correct all inequalities therein and relieve the tax payers to the fullest possible extent without injury to the cause of American labor or injury to the cause of American labor or menacing the prosperity of the great producing interests of the country, and we would respectfully invite the attention of the voters of this district to the fact that all revision of our farifilegislation of the war period has been effected by the Republican party; and we declare our implicit confidence in its ability and sincere purpose to the effect in the future such reductions of our national revenues and the readjusting of our tariff here enues and the readjusting of our tariff laws as will be most conducte to the welfare of the varied industries and interests of the American people.

Resolved, That we heartly approve the system adoption to the Republican party in providing for the defenders of our country and in the payment of liberal pensions and we declare in favor of a policy for protecting and giving fostering care to these soldiers, their widows and orphans. That we denounce as unjust and inequitable the course pursued by the president of the indiscriminate vetoing of private pension bills.

Resolved, That we condemn the action of our present representative in congress in our present representative in congress in uniting with the Southern brigadiers in their opposition to and final defeat of the bill passed by the United States senate to refund to the several states of the Union the amount of the direct war tax to which they are each instity entitled.

justly entitled, thus denying to the people of our state their just due to the extent of $108.000. Resolved, That we pledge to the nominee of this convention our earnest, united and most loyal support, and we invite the hearty co-operation of all patriotic citizens and especially all working men, whose prosperity is scriously threatened by the free trade policy of the present administration.

The resolutions were received with hearty applications. applause, and by a rising vote the report was unanimously adopted.

J. W. Harden Nominated for Congress by th Jamestown Convention. Over two hundred delegates and three tim as many spectators were scated in the opera house at Jamestown when Judge Bangs, chairman of the territorial central committee, rapped the territorial Democratic convention to order. Martin Ryan of Fargo was chosen temporary chairman, and on taking the chair made a speech, con-fined almost entirely to the exposition of the Democratic party's position on the tariff from others of their kind and should question. Stole, of Deadwood. attempted to counteract the Harden notion, and succeeded so well that he was induced to qualify his statement and agee to stand on the admission-as-a-whole platform, supplemented by a clause favoring the final decision of the matter by the vote of the people, and expressing his willingness to abide by that decision.

At the evening session Col. Steele, chairman of the committee, read the platform, which declares fealty to Democratic principles, endorses the action of the Democratic convention at St. Louis, supports the platform, and is especially strong in its indorseform, and is especially strong in its indorse-ment of the tariff plank. It approves the action of Gov. Church in refusing to allow expenditures in excess of appropria-tions for territorial institutions; declares in favor of equalized taxation, and approves the action of the territorial administration in taxing railroad lands hitherto claimed to be not taxable. It favors the admission of the territory as on state, with a provision in the enabling act providing that an election which shall be final may be had on the division question after admission. It arraigns the Republican party for obstructing admission, and points with pride to the administrations of President leveland and Gov. Church. Otto Peemiller of Yankton, introduced as an amendment to the platform a resolution declaring that the iquor traffic can best be regulated by high license. The resolution was laid on table by almost a unanimous vote. When nominations for delegate to congress were declared in order C. L. Hindley, of Beadle county, took the floor and placed in nomination took the floor and placed in nomination John W. Harden, of Jerauld county. Harden acclamation.

Punishment of Bribery.

The rulings of law in the Chicago anarchist case, by Judge Gary, that sent Spies and his comrades to the gallows, were turned by another Chicago judge, Kirk Hews, against the agents, attorneys and chief officials of one of the weathiest corporations in that country. The offense in this case was attempted jury bribing, and the main offender Sumner C. Welch, claim agent of the Chicago City weien, claim agent of the Unicago City railway, is sentenced to a term behind prison bars, while C. H. Holmes president of the company, and C. M. Hardy, the company's attorney, are recommended to be dealt with by the grand jury. Judge Haws holds that the conspirator railings in the appreciate case applies as cy rulings in the anarchist case applies as well to any other conspirators. In rendering his decision he sent Welch to jail for six months, and held that it was not necessary months, and held that it was not necessary that Holmes or Hardy should have done any positive or affirmative act, or be present when it was done, if they in any way aid or abetted, and that if they did so aid or abet they were as guilty as the actual criminal. The they were asguilty as the actual criminal. The question as to whether Homes or Hardy actually did abet he left to the grand jury, recommending that it investigate their cases. The Chicago City railway is perhaps the largest corporation of the kind in the country. President Homes is a very prominent, wealthy citizen, and Attorney Hardy is a leading member of the bar. The bribery was in an insignificant little damage suit against the company. Welch approaching one of the jurors named Rosenthal during a court recess, and endeavoring to retain by money his service in the interest of the company. Rosenthal indignantly remaed, voted for the highest yeardict against the corporation, and afterwards exposed the business to the attorneys for the plaintiff. The matter raised a storm of public opinion. It was shown that this course had been pursued for years in other litigation. The judge

In-stead of releasing him after the flogging he left him to suffer from his wounds till the next night, when the little fellow succeeded in making his escape to the woods, where he remained for two days without food or shelter. He was discovered by a Wisconsin Central section crew nearly exhausted with hunger. He reported his parents' cruelty to the men, and the latter, with other citizens, visited Johnson, and with a rope proceeded to clevate him to a tree limb. He begged for his life and, promising never to whip the boy again, was lowered, and after receiving a flogging, was marched to a railroad water tank and given a bath. The boy is now in the care of the people of the settlement.
