She was married at Des Moines, Iowa, at 15, to one John Kines, who is now serving a term in the Fort Madison, Iowa, penitentiary for rape on his wife's sister. NO BACTERIA.

THE CITY WATER ABSOLUTELY PURE.

So Reports the Board of Health After Careful Analysis.

From Saturday's Daily.
Last September to make sure that the water used by the city through its pipes we the Board of Health of this city sent a specimen of water from West Okabena Lake and from the city mains to the University of Minnesota under the direction of the Secretary of the State Board of Health for a complete analysis both microscopic and chemical and the results of the analysis are embodied in the follow report by this board, viz.: The water of West Okabena Lake contains nothing of a deleterious nature in the shape of foreign matter, and is entirely free of all disease breeding Bacteria. The Secretary of the State Board of Health, summing it all up by saying that "if filtered it is a free (pure) hard water," being just hard and containing but thirteen grains of alkaline matter to the gallon.

The analysis of the water taken from the city mains, shows the same character generally, the amount of vegetable matter etc. being less than that of the lake proper and but twelve grains of alkaline matter to the gallon, thus showing that both waters are almost perfectly pure and but slightly hard.

The complete chemical analysis and report is on file in the office of this Board and can be seen at any proper time by those interested.

School Notes.

From Thursday's Daily.
A year ago the plan of a Thanksgiving offering by the school for the benefit of the needy of our village was inaugurated and twelve basketsful of good provisions, a large amount of clothing and $5. in cash or store orders were distributed as wisely as suggestions from our physicians, ministers and poor committee enabled us. This year a similar plan was followed and nearly twice as much was received and distributed. The list includes: 13 chickens, 4 lbs beef, 13 cans jelly, 8 cans preserves, 11 cans fruit, 2 pkgs. mince meat, 2 1/2 bu. potatoes, 1 pk. turnips, 1 pk. onions, 1 bu. apples, 1 qt. beans, 1 pk. beets, 2 cabbages, 18 squashes, 4 pumpkins, 1 1/2 pk. popcorn, 1 pk carrots, 1 doz. oranges, 20 lbs. rice flour, 150 lbs. wheat flour, 12 lbs. cornmeal, 12 lbs. graham, 2 cakes soap, 1 pkg soda, 1 pkg yeast, 8 lbs. coffee, 2 lbs. tea, 18 lbs. sugar, 1 pkg. nuts, 23 loaves bread, 3 1/2 doz. buns, 4 doz. cookies, 2 pies, 1 cake, 1 lb. cheese, $3.81 money, $4.00 store orders, 6 pkgs. clothing.

The provisions were divided into 18 very generous piles and sent to as many worthy families Wednesday evening. The money, orders and clothing will be distributed as rapidly as suitable opportunities come to our notice.

Our scholars contributed nearly $10 to the Hinckley sufferers, about $5 a few weeks ago to another equally worthy object, and now the list given above—who will question their warm hearted unselfishness? and again who will doubt that they received as much benefit than they bestowed?

A Christmas Gift.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the deated portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous, lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh; which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollar for any case of deafness (cause by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

Visit of General Booth.

The visit to this country of General Booth, the head and founder of the Salvation Army, has called forth not a little comment from the press, both secular and religious. The time has been when General Booth and his followers were the butt of ridicule; some people spoke of them with a sort of pitying smile, others openly scoffed; but the good they have done has been so marked as to silence the tongue of the overwise critic and the jeering scoffer.

The Salvation Army has undertaken a work of benevolence in a field that heretofore has been sadly neglected, and which many seemed to look upon as almost hopeless. We have raised thousands of dollars to send missionaries to the far off heathen, while the heathen at our own doors have been overlooked, or spurned from us with contempt. The Salvationists have devoted themselves to the up-lifting of those who have sunk to about as low a depth as humanity can reach. They have succeeded in making good citizens of those who before were a menace to good government and the peace of society.

"But their methods," you say, "are so outlandish." Perhaps so, but the people they labor among are outlandish too. As General Booth said at Minneapolis, "We use such methods as will attract the attention of the people we labor among." That is just what common sense would teach us to do. If they can succeed in making industrious, self-respecting and self-supporting men and women out of the denizens of the slums, we care but little about their methods. Their methods seem to suit the people they are trying to benefit, and if so, they show practical wisdom in using them.

It does not follow that because General Booth and his well organized army are doing a noble work, that we should turn Salvationists. Most of us are not fitted for such work. To put it in common parlance, we are not built that way. Every one has his place in life; the Salvationist has his place, we have ours; he is doing his work grandly, let us see to it that we do ours as well. The methods and the talks of the Salvationists would be but ill suited to the cultivated congregations in some of our city churches, and, on the other hand, the quiet decorum and the learned discourses which characterize our fashionable churches, would have no charms for the semi-barbarian who is everywhere regarded as an outcast from good society. Every one who does his full duty to the race, must exert himself in some way to try to leave the world better than he found it. In this great work let each one, as far as possible, work in the capacity for which nature has fitted him, not throwing the hindrances in the way of those who may work differently from himself.

We often meet with men who will do good service if allowed to work in their own way, but who can do nothing if put in a strait jacket. If each one were to fill his place in life worthily, there would be but little to complain of, even in this so-called "vale of tears."

"Act well your part, 'tis there the honor lies."
ROBERT SHORE.

ELK.

Mr. Jaynsen is now settled in his own home and, of course, is happy.

Mr. Ennen moved last week to Illinois. He says he has had enough of Minnesota for him.

Fine weather for this time of the year. Corn is about all out, and farmers are about ready for winter.

Charlie Fried had a sale last Tuesday and sold his surplus stock, and for the present will stay with Sam Anderson.

A. M. Scott of Adrian has just finished a well for Mr. Hendy. He went 165 feet deep and there is now 145 feet of water. Mr. Scott is a man that understands his business, has a good outfit to work with, and is a good fellow to have around. Those in need of water can not do better than to engage him.

One eve last week almost the entire neighborhood suddenly appeared at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hendy and established themselves in their cosy home.

To say that they were surprised would hardly express their looks. Amazement was written on their faces as load after load drove up, until over 75 of their friends were present. If they had any thought of resisting, the numbers must have silenced them. Their surprise was still greater when Mrs. John Vail in a neat little speech, presented them with a beautiful rocking chair and a hanging lamp, as a token of regard from their many friends. A bountiful feast was then prepared, after which games were played and every one seemed to enjoy themselves till the small hours of the morning, when each seemed to remember they had homes of their own, and in a short time the household was left in quiet.

MARRIED.

In Worthington, at the Lake View house, Thursday, December 6th, 1894 by Rev. Robert McCune, Mr. John, G. Mitchell and Miss Mary D. Atkins both of Rushmore.

BORN.

SULLIVAN—In this town Dec. 8, 1894, a son to Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan.

If there's a land of pure delight
The thought of it awakes
A vision where three times a day
We'd eat warm buckwheat cakes.

A man by the name of W. W. Randall, of Baltimore, Md., has become insane from the effect of carrying a hod. The heavy weight constantly affected the shoulder nerves. We shall not carry a hod.

He read that overcoats worn long
Would be a favorite fad,
Then hastened to unpack one
That for fourteen years he'd had.
