FUSION REFORM.

State Auditor Dunn Gives It Some Hot Shot.

In 1867 it saddled upon the young state a bonded debt of $2,275,000. In 1891 it added $13,175.99 to the cost of the legislative session and increased the state tax levy five-tenths of a mill.

In 1900 the state grain inspection cost $30,507.47 more than under the last Republican administration; yet there were more cars inspected in 1896.

The binding twine plant at Stillwater cost $658,100.61 for the year ending July 31, 1900, as against $316,539.16 for the year ending July 31, 1899.

The reports show that the twine plant had on hand, at the end of the season, 1,175,539 lbs of sisal for which it paid almost three cents above the market price and, that although it sold twine to the farmers at two or three cents more than jobber's prices, it cannot dispose of this surplus stock except at a loss.

The per capita cost of state institutions steadily decreased under Republican administration; but when the "reform" came into power at the close of 1896, this decrease stopped and there was an increase in the cost of the charitable and correctional institutions.

These statements should be kept in mind by our readers they are uncontrovertible and are a matter of state records.

A Notable Visit.

Of Distinguished People Who are National Candidates.

Sunday, Worthington was honored by a distinguished party of people who seldom visit small towns.

The party consisted of John G. Woolley and Henry Metcalf, candidates for President and Vice-President on the Prohibition ticket, and Oliver W. Stewart, Chairman of their National Committee, accompanying were several people who assist them and the cause.

They are traveling through the country in a special train of two cars which are fully equipped with all the comforts of a modern home.

An afternoon meeting was held at the Presbyterian church there being about seven hundred present. The meeting was addressed by Volney B. Cushing and Samuel E. Dickey. Both speakers are able men with high intellect. They interested their audience intently for nearly two hours.

In the evening there were about nine hundred people present, many coming considerable distance. This meeting was addressed by W. R. Metcalf, Samuel E. Dickey and Oliver W. Stewart, for two hours and a half. Mr. Metcalf being quite an old man had rather a weak voice, but well versed in his subject.

Monday morning owing to the rain Mr. Woolley spoke at the depot, there being about one hundred and fifty present.

All of the speakers brought some good lines of thought for consideration, the principal of which is that christian and temperance people do not vote as they preach, and they should awaken to the fact that as long as the U. S. government, or any government is in partnership with the business the present state of affairs will exist, and when men, that represent the people are men, that will enact laws that will put into effect a prohibitory law instead of permitting license law, then then the saloon will be abolished.

There is no doubt that this visit of distinguished people strengthened the temperance cause in this vicinity.

The party left here about nine o'clock Monday morning destined through Dakota.

J. P. Vail, Chas. Glaty and wives, Mrs. McKeever and brother, W. W. Lovelless and E. F. Buehan accompanied them as far as Luverne.

At Rushmore there was a large crowd at the depot and a man in the crowd waved as high as possible above his head and the crowd, two beer bottles.

A party of reporters for various daily papers joined the party here.

Lars Elofson, aged 68 years, Sunday night, Sept. 23rd, of complication of diseases. Mr. Elofson resided on 3rd ave. He had been ill for several years principally with asthma.

He leaves a wife and four children: Mrs. Charles Larson, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Chas. Gustafson and Edward Elofson.

The funeral, held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the Lutheran Church. Rev. Erikson officiating

Will Be Used For Passengers Too.

Many of our citizens have anticipated that the Burlington would use the freight depot that has been built for passengers as well as freight. Their expectations are about to be realized.

Friday the carpenters received instructions to remain here and wait for material for putting a waiting room in the freight house. Otherwise the building is completed. In all probability this is only a temporary arrangement as it is reported that the company will not build a passenger depot this year.

HOG CHOLERA.

In Nobles County Again this Fall

Information comes to us that hog cholera has again entered this county. Our information states that Oscar Moore who lives near Reading had a hog shipped to him from Sheldon recently and at the same time a notice sent him that there had been cholera in the vicinity of Sheldon and the animal had better be kept separate from his other swine for a time.

This notice was not received until after the hog had been put in with the rest of his herd, since which time some of his hogs have died of cholera. It will be well for swine owners to take all the precautions possible at this time of the year against this destructive disease.

Let Off Easy.

Fred Schoneman, who figured in lifting a piece of meat from Hilliard & Mitchell meat market last winter again causes another mark to be placed against his reputation.

Mrs. Laura Liddle was in town Thursday afternoon with her two children and having business at Buchanan's photography gallery hitched her horse in front of his place. She picked up one child to carry in her arms and gave her little boy a package to carry up stairs, in the package she placed her purse with three new five dollar bills and a couple dollars in silver. It is supposed the purse dropped from the package on the stairs. Mr. Schoneman was in the gallery and while Mrs. Liddle was there left. Later Mrs. Liddle went to pay Mr. Buchanan and discovered her loss and knowing when she lost it, concluded at once that it had been dropped on the stairway. Suspicion at once fell upon Schoneman. The authorities were notified and officers Fauske and Bryan repaired to Mr. Schoneman's home in the country. At first he denied knowing anything about it afterward said found it but empty and later produced all but one dollar.

He was brought to town and brought before Judge Stevens and let go with a payment of costs.
