SAN FRANCISCO, THE PACIFIC COAST METROPOLIS.

So many people are traveling to the Pacific coast every year that those who have not made the trip are anxious to do so and are desirous of getting all the possible information. In view of this and on account of the Knights Templar Triennial Conclave, which is to be held in San Francisco September 5th to 9th, the Rock Island System has issued a very neat folder which is so interesting and helpful that no person should be without it. Same will be sent free of charge upon application to Mr. John G. Farmer, Division Passenger Agent, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

THREE PHYSICIANS TREATED HIM WITHOUT SUCCESS.

W. L. Yancy, Paducah, Ky., writes: "I had a severe case of kidney disease and three of the best physicians in Kentucky treated me without success. I then took Foley's Kidney Cure. The first bottle gave immediate relief, and three bottles cured me permanently. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy." Sold by the City Pharmacy.

A MOST LIBERAL OFFER.

The Minneapolis Times will distribute money to successful contestants. $35,000.00 in free cash prizes, 500 prizes in all.

We notice in a recent issue of the Minneapolis Times that the progressive Twin City Daily has inaugurated a popular voting contest for the benefit of subscribers and their friends. It is termed "The Great Profit Sharing Contest," and both old and new subscribers may enter upon the same conditions.

The subject matter of the interesting contest in which the large cash prizes will be paid is the Total Popular Vote to be cast for President of the United States on the 8th day of November, 1904. It seems to us that every man, woman and child in the United States should be interested in the greatest election the country has ever had.

It costs nothing to enter the Times contest as every cent paid is applied on subscription. We would suggest that our readers secure a copy of the Daily or Sunday Times containing the list of prizes which are offered. Any of the prizes are fortunes in themselves and surely would be acceptable by residents of this community.

FEEL IMPENDING DOOM.

The feeling of impending doom in the minds of many victims of Bright's disease and diabetes has been changed to thankfulness by the benefit derived from taking Foley's Kidney Cure. It will cure incipient Bright's disease and diabetes and even in the worst cases gives comfort and relief. Slight disorders are cured in a few days. "I had diabetes in its worst form," writes Marion Lee of Danvers, Ind. "I tried eight physicians without relief. Only three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made me a well man." Sold by City Pharmacy.

SUNG THE KING'S PRAISE.

Little Material to Work On, but Official Did His Best.

In a recent published book on the Kaffirs of South Africa the author tells of the practice of the native chiefs of keeping a court prisoner—whose business it is to go before the chief and sing his praises. Sometimes it happens that this functionary is apt to be embarrassed for lack of matter, as in the case of the Swazi king Bunu. One day he went out hunting with a hundred warriors, and after a whole day's effort he managed to kill only one miserable little hare. Yet the court prisoner ran in front of the king calling out: "Bunu, the king of the Swazies, the chief of chiefs, has killed a hare. Let all the people listen. It was as big as an ox, as fierce as a lion and as swift as a buck. The brave King Bunu killed the hare all alone. He killed it with his assegai. Listen, ye people. Bunu the king has killed a hare. Without any help the king has killed a hare. It was as terrible as a tiger, as large as an elephant; its eyes were flames of fire; and yet Bunu the great king has killed the hare." This long rigmarole was repeated over and over, while the king followed behind with great gravity.

INSECT LIKE A FLOWER.

Resemblance is So Great That Butterflies Are Deceived.

Living specimens of a queer insect have lately been shown in Cambridge, England. They were brought from Rangoon by Capt. C. E. Williams. The insect is a species of mantis, and its body and legs are both shaped and colored to resemble a beautiful flower. It feeds on butterflies, and while it is lying in wait for them under a spray of leaves it looks exactly like a blue blossom with a black spot in the center resembling the tube of a corolla. The black part of its body is drawn out into a long green stalk. The resemblance to a flower is perfect, and butterflies and other insects light on it in search of nectar and are immediately seized by its fatal claws.—Philadelphia Record.

Fireless Journeys.

Mine is an humble, toilsome lot, My home a lowly cot. And pleasant trips o'er land and sea Nor wheel nor sail e'er proffers me. Day holds me carebound, but the night, Cheery with heartfire's glowing light, Vouchsafes rare journeys with the elves That hide in covers on my shelves.

From open page these curious friends Come out at call, with power that sends Me in their wake at lightning pace, Through storied realms of time and space. From frozen fields of arctic snow To valleys where tropic splendors glow, Past craggy heights, o'er waters wide, Fearless we soar, we glance, we glide.

Famed kings and lovely queens we greet; Knights-errant in their journeys meet; With founders and explorers stray, Or talk with scholars by the way. Sages look on with solemn eyes, Drooping their queries and replies. While mystics breathe bewildering dreams, Till all the air with wonder teems. The sweet hours come, the sweet hours go; Upon the hearth the fire burns low; Then daily slingers, dreamy eyed, From rhythmic covers softly glide, Crooning their low, delicious tunes, And lulled by cadence of the tunes, I fall asleep amid the elves That hide in covers on my shelves. —John Wilson in National Magazine.

Superstitions of Miners.

Morfa colliery, in South Wales, is notorious for its uncanny traditions. The "seven whistlers" were heard there before a great explosion in the '60's, and before another in 1890, when nearly a hundred miners were entombed. In December, 1895, it was said that they had been heard yet again, whereupon the men struck work and could not be induced to resume it until the government inspector had made a close examination of the workings and reported all safe. In July, 1902, another instance of a colliery strike, founded upon the same superstition, occurred in England.

Von Moltke and His Work.

In 1870, a few days after the mobilization of the German army had been ordered at the beginning of the Franco-Prussian war, a friend of Moltke, who was anxious to see him on important business, called upon him, in some trepidation of mind, expecting to find him overwhelmed with work. He was shown into Moltke's study and found him lying on a sofa reading a French novel. "You could not have come at a better time, my dear fellow," was his welcome. "My work ended when mobilization was ordered. I begin again when we move to the front."

Handy Moose.

A newspaper correspondent up at Fort Henry used to send every winter to a New York paper a tale of a giant moose that walked into town and was shot by John Quinn. This was published annually with slight variations. One night last winter, when there was a dearth of news, the managing editor of the victimized paper, recalling the moose story, telegraphed as follows to the correspondent: "Wire us 400 words about that moose, and don't forget to have him killed, as usual, by John Quinn."

Revenge Through Prayer.

A shoemaker lamented that he was in a bad way because he was not sure of his title to the kingdom of heaven, and because that sweep, his landlord, had given him notice to quit. The minister advised him to lay his case before the Lord. A week later they met again. "That was grand advice," said the minister, "said the man. I laid my case before the Lord, as he told me, and now the sweep's dead." —Chicago Tribune.

CHAMBERLAIN'S STOMACH AND LIVER TABLETS BETTER THAN A DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION.

Mr. J. W. Turner, of Truhart, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by F. M. Hickman.
