Uncle Sam is going to put the "lid" on Panama. Soft of a "Panama hat".

Senator Beveridge's idea of giving us meat inspection that inspects, is a good one.

About the time the Democrats elect a president, Walter Wellman will probably find the North Pole.

Pennsylvania's railroads must have borrowed some of their ideas of business principles from Pennsylvania politics.

If any more of that violent language gets into the columns of the Congressional Record, some of the subscribers may conclude to stop their papers.

The young King of Spain is about reaching that stage of life where he won't have to be bothered about changing his mind. He will have some one to change it for him.

No interest was shown, by the House, it is said, when the rate bill came back to that body. Evidently the House did not recognize its long-lost offspring.

The saloon keepers of San Francisco, fear that if they are not permitted to reopen soon, their customers will succeed in breaking themselves of the habit.

A bill appropriating $100,000,000 for navy maintenance, has just passed the House. Now the nation can turn in once more and renew the eloquent plea for universal disarmament.

The Dairy Record: The farmer who has access to a local creamery, one owned by an individual or better, one owned by the farmers themselves, and still patronizes a central plant is doing himself, his children and his community serious harm. There is no reason why any local creamery doing a fair amount of business rightly managed, cannot pay a good price for the cream as the big central plants. Most of the local creameries, as a matter of fact pay more. Stick to your local creamery—you will be far better off in the end.

An Irrepressible Conflict.
Political parties are again in a state of disintegration. An idea is again the solvent. It appears in many forms. It inspires the movement to put rate making under governmental control. It is the ferment that stirs the question of taxation. It is the motive of subjection of public service corporation to greater public control. In another from it attacks political machines. Another phase is the wide movement to place in the hands of voters the selection of all candidates for public office. The basic idea is individualism, the greater freedom of men; the widening of their rights; the conversion of privilege into liberty; the diminishing of governing by representatives, the increase of governing of self by self. These ideas have to await the juncture of conditions to get the force to be effective. These occur only at long intervals during which crust forms on public opinion, impenetrable to the idea. Then come the favorable conditions and it bursts through and grows and spreads and flourishes.

Very blind must be the eyes that cannot see that such is now the condition. It prevades both parties. Men in each party stand for and represent the contending forces. We call the one progressive, the other conservative. Party badges alone mark the line of separation. They are unanimous as to the idea, whatever form it takes. Bryan supports Roosevelt on rate control; La Follette works in harness with Tillman. There are republican free traders, just as there are democratic protectionists. So it is all along the line. The idea cuts across all party lines. It loosens the ties that have held men to parties. It forces them to align themselves anew; to take the idea for guide of political action instead of the commandments of conventions and leaders.

In Massachusetts it is the use of federal taxing power that is disrupting. In Pennsylvania and New York it is revolt against party machines and corporation domination. In Wisconsin and Iowa it is the dethronement of privilege. In Minnesota there is unrest, in North Dakota dissatisfaction slowly crystallizing; in South Dakota open revolt and a ditched machine. Whatever the form it takes anywhere the impelling force is the same, the developing force of a newer, larger idea of the rights of the individual, a force that has worked all the progress those races have made which have moved up out of barbarism. The men and the party that sets against this force simply invite overthrow and destruction.—St. Paul Dispatch.

We Repudiate It.
One of the boldest political moves we have seen for some time is that of someone sending out a circular in the name of the Republican Congressional Committee of this District, to the voters attacking Guttersen and his platform. We are a member of that committee but know of no meeting of that body neither were we consulted in regard to the matter and repudiate any connection with the transaction. Furthermore, we do not believe it to be the prerogative of a political committee to take part in a nominating fight between men of their own party and doubtless our well known views on this line was the cause of our being ignored in the matter. One rule of our life is to feel under no obligation to a party, person nor church that ignores us in its councils. We have supported McCleary heretofore and if he and the committee proposes to conduct the campaign along this line we are done with them from now on.—Vernon Centre News.

Washington Notes
Washington D. C. May 24, 1906.

Adjournment by June 10th is now the prospect before Congress. At least that is the way that Senator Aldrich sized up the situation after his visit to the White House in the middle of the week. It was the first time that he had been to the White House for about three months, and after nearly an hour's conference with the President gave this as his opinion of the situation. He said that there was only one question in Congress that promised to produce much delay. That was the type of the Panama Canal. The Senate has announced its conviction that the sea level type will be the proper one. The President and the House are both committed to the lock level type, and it is possible that there may be a prolonged wrangle when the matter comes up for a settlement.

The other matters, Senator Aldrich thinks, can be disposed of in short order. There is not much likelihood of delay over the Pure Food Bill. It is thought that the measure will be passed at this session, though there are strong interests against it and they will use all their influence to emasculate the measure so that it will be of no effect or else to prevent any action at all. It is thought that the Free Alcohol Bill also will be passed at the present session, though some of those who are in a position to know say that there will be enough influence used to keep it from coming to a vote. The conferees on the Statehood bill will either come to an agreement on the measure within ten days or else agree to let it die for the session. And as the Santo Domingo treaty is practically dead and the Speaker is willing to adjourn there seems no reason why Congress should not get away by the middle of June.

It is a little early to forecast the chances of prosecution against the Standard Oil Company, but preparations in that line are being made though with great secrecy. It will be remembered that the report of Commissioner Garfield on the oil business dealt only with the railroads transportation. There are several more instalments of that report. They will deal with the pipe lines, with the foreign oil business of this country and with the business and competitive methods of the Standard in the United States. It is very safe to say that when all the facts are ready the Department of Justice will proceed against the company either for violation of the Elkins Law or the Sherman anti-trust law or both. There was enough shown in the report already submitted to make out a case under the Elkins law, though some of the worst phases of the discrimination by which the railroad companies favored the Standard were done strictly within the law and on an open rate basis. It is said that the arraignment of the company in the later section of the report will be even worse than in the first and that the prosecution which is almost sure to come will be one of the most sensational legal battles ever witnessed in this country.

NATURE'S WARNING.
Worthington People Must Recognize And Heed it.

Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you through the urine.

Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy—If there are settlings and sediment, Passages too frequent, scanty, painful.

It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills, To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes.

Doan's have done great work in Worthington.

Robert Sweeney bricklayer, living on Okabena St., Worthington, Minn., says "My back used to give out without apparent cause, usually when I was sitting about doing nothing. It has been so weak that I could hardly get up from a chair. There was a dull grinding pain through the loins and a feeling of weakness that I cannot describe. I had to lay off from my work several times on account of it. There was also a trouble with the kidney secretions which were irregular, discolored and contained sediment. The passages were too frequent and often I had to get up at night. I tried several remedies but found no permanent relief up to the time I got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. M. Hickman's drug store. This remedy brought quick benefit, and the relief was lasting, for I haven't had a single attack of my old trouble since using it, and the kidney secretions have been perfectly natural."

Financial Note.
Trouble is the genuine coin of sorrow; worry is but its counterfeit. The Almighty Colner makes the former for us because he thinks we need it to pay life's indebtedness; we make the latter for ourselves, and when we find that it pays nothing we moan right bitterly.
