OUR BUSINESS ORGANIZATIONS

It is hoped that the committee of the Chamber of Commerce and that of the Business Men's Association may be able to bring about a consolidation of the two organizations. Norfolk now, more than at any other period in her history, wants the utmost activity in her business circles and upon the part of her active business men. We must be up and acting with more energy and intelligence of purpose than ever before. Norfolk's trade area is an extensive one—yearly increasing—and Norfolk should have business relations with every section of it.

Directly tributary to us, in the eastern counties of Virginia and North Carolina, is a population of 1,000,000 people, that naturally make Norfolk their market. Yet an immense amount of this trade passes by our doors, to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. This trade should be stopped right here, and can be, with proper organization. The business men of Richmond are active in their organized efforts. Its Chamber of Commerce has a membership of 1,000. A magnificent building devoted to the interest of trade is an exhibit of their enterprise. Norfolk should not and must not be behind Richmond.

PATRONIZE HOME FOLKS.

THE VIRGINIAN is gratified that its advice to our people to patronize home folks is cordially appreciated by our merchants and storekeepers, and it has been in receipt of letters expressing thanks for its efforts in this matter, so closely identified with the building up and prosperity of our city. In its remarks some days ago on this subject it asserted that it was estimated that from $500,000 to $800,000 was sent out of Norfolk in a year for purchases made by orders on the storekeepers of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. It has heard that the estimate could be placed at $1,000,000 and that it would be nearer the mark. Just think of how this expenditure of money would add to the prosperity of our storekeepers and as a consequence to the city.

One of the letters received in commendation says: "Accept hearty thanks for your editorial relating to 'Patronizing Home.' It is a manly expression of a positive and too painful truth. It should have its effect on those who never make an effort to spend a dollar at home—but, who, generally earning their income from among us, always spend what they are compelled to spend away from home. In the name of Greater Norfolk, keep up your good work in this respect." Another writes: "Your editorial headed 'Patronize Home Folks,' is timely and touches a subject of deep interest to our merchants."

THE VIRGINIAN has time and again alluded to this matter. It is one that is of deepest interest to all. Every cent that can be spent in Norfolk should be circulated here. It will help very much in sustaining all branches of trade, in giving employment to many more of our people. The hundreds of thousands of dollars that are sent away from our city each year would be worth more than double, aye tripple, that sum if spent and circulated in our midst.

Let therefore, all, who wish to see our city prosper and its merchants and storekeepers succeed, resolve to patronize the home folks. If you have furniture, or dry goods, or notions, or millinery, or cutlery, or crockery ware, or carpets, &c., &c., &c., to buy, let your purchases be made at home. Stick together. Differ as you may in politics, religion, or in anything else, stand as a unit for Norfolk. In her behalf, looking to her growth and development, all differences should disappear. The supremacy of our city, its advancement and progress should always be uppermost in our minds. "Patronize home folks."

Quite a swell reception was given at Daughy's Hotel, Belle Haven, Va., on last Thursday night at 8 o'clock by Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Daughy in honor of their friend, Mr. M. Garland Lemon's twenty-first birthday. Among those present were Misses B. Wyatt, Mabel Kellam, Margie Kellam, Mary Jacob, Clara Hudson, Mrs. Jennie D. Messrs. George Abdell and William Humphreys, of Belle Haven, Va., had their barn and stables set on fire last Monday night by a deaf and dumb colored girl about seventeen years old. After the fire barbed tracks were found. After a measurement of the foot and tracks they corresponded exactly, and on Tuesday last she was given a hearing in Accomac jail to await the action of the January grand jury. The fire was started by a torch. Loss, $800; insurance, $400. Two valuable horses were burned alive. The smart lawyers of Accomac will be puzzled to know how to cross question the prisoner.

Cards are out for the marriage of Mr. S. P. Ward, a member of the Belle Haven Furniture Company, to Miss Virginia Potter, both of Accomac county, on the 16th inst.

MANY WORDS OF PRAISE.

Norfolk's Rapid Strides in Population and Commerce Worth Millions of Dollars to the City. A Great Big Showing.

Finestate Herald.
 THE NORFOLK VIRGINIAN is a worthy representative of the growing seaport town in which it is published. On January 1st it issued a special edition, illustrated, showing the wonderful advancement of the material interests of Norfolk. The issue consisted of twenty-four pages, issued in the interest of the consolidation of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Berkeley, for which object THE VIRGINIAN is striving, into one municipality. In 1881 the trade of the city was estimated at $18,007,500. The business for last year reached $91,198,348, an increase of $43,190,848. Norfolk's population in 1881 was about 25,000; it is now 50,000. Every branch of trade has greatly increased. There is evidently a great future for Virginia's coast city.

Worth Millions of Dollars to Norfolk.

[Cape Charles Headlight.]

None of our exchanges have recently shown the amount of enterprise as did the NORFOLK VIRGINIAN in its New Year's edition in bringing before the people the business interests of its home, city and surroundings, and the citizens of Norfolk and vicinity should feel proud of such a paper. Such advertising is worth millions of dollars to Norfolk, and that edition should be put into every community of the country, that the advantages of Norfolk might become known everywhere. We have long thought that Norfolk ought to be one of the largest and thriftiest cities in the South, for her great natural harbor and agricultural territory should attract the commercial world to her door as the place for all kinds of investments. We congratulate THE VIRGINIAN upon its great enterprise, and wish for it uninterrupted success, and the people of Norfolk upon such a fine showing of business in their city.

A Great Big Showing. Midland Virginian.

The trade number of THE NORFOLK VIRGINIAN, issued January 1st, was an excellent exhibition of our seaport city, as well as the enterprise of its leading daily. It was a great big showing, which ought to be much bigger, however, as there is a widespread belief in the great advantages of Norfolk as a seaport town.

THE VIRGINIAN is also advocating the union of the several cities of that vicinity to constitute the Greater Norfolk, which is a movement in accord with the spirit of the times.

Wonderful Exhibit of Growth and Enterprise. Peninsula Enterprise.

The New Year edition of THE NORFOLK VIRGINIAN is being praised by everyone who has seen it, and well merits the kind words which it is receiving on every hand. It is a magnificent display of journalistic enterprise, and Norfolk must reap great benefit therefrom. It contains a review of the business of Norfolk for the year 1894, and a comparison with the trade of 1883. The showing is a wonderful exhibit of growth and development.

"I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me lots of good. I was subject to cramps in the stomach, liver complaint, indigestion, palpitation of the heart, and that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla relieved me wonderfully, and now when I feel the least uneasiness I resort to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it always gives me immediate relief. I could not do without it, and several of my neighbors have used it upon my recommendation and found it
