

THE MONUMENT DEDICATED

Chicago Pays a High Tribute to Fallen Southern Heroes.

Whose Memories Will Forever Be Kept Green in the Hearts of the People, and Rhyme and History Will Sing Praises of Their Great Devotion.

By Southern Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 30.—The extreme heat of yesterday had given place to a coolness and the sky was slightly overcast, when the distinguished officers of the late war assembled at the Palmer House this morning awaiting the formation of the procession which was to escort them to the station of the Illinois Central Railroad. The time set for the parade to move was 8 o'clock, but it was near 9 when all the arrangements were completed and the veterans of the great struggle took their places in carriages.

Accompanied by martial music the escort was formed on State street. In the throng were men whose names were historical. There were Longstreet and Fitzhugh Lee, John C. Black and Gen. John M. Palmer, Marcus J. Wright, of Tennessee, and Gen. Joseph Stockton, of Illinois; M. C. Taylor, Epps Hunton, Gen. John C. Underwood, the projector of the monument, and Wade Hampton, orator of the day, besides hundreds of lesser officers on either side, who had come together to do honor to the memory of the men in grey who slept the sleep that knows no waking in the beautiful cemetery by the shores of Lake Michigan.

Veterans were there who had followed the fortunes of Lee and Jackson, and more than once flung their squadrons against the hosts of Grant and Meade. There were commanders who had carried the stars and stripes of Sherman from Atlanta to the sea, and old soldiers, the mention of whose names evoke memories of Shiloh, Lookout Mountain, Vicksburg, the Wilderness, Gettysburg and Antietam—all had gathered to honor brave Americans, not ex-Confederates, but soldiers of a common country.

The march to the cemetery then began. The Black Hussars, Capt. T. S. Quincy, acted as guard of honor, and detachments from the Illinois military, Grand Army Posts and Camps of Confederate veterans made up the rest of the procession. The route to the cemetery was covered within a few minutes and at 10:45 o'clock when the monument was reached, there a great crowd had assembled, stretching out in dense masses from every side of the speakers' stand.

The police and military had considered carefully in clearing a way for the carriages, and it was considerably after 11 o'clock, the hour set for the beginning of the exercises, when the distinguished visitors were seated on the platform and the military band began the opening selection.

As the last notes died away Col. Joseph Deha Fickett, chaplain of the Kentucky "Orphan Brigade," arose and advanced to the front of the stand invoked the divine blessing on the assemblage.

After an anthem by a double quartette the orator of the day, Gen. Wade Hampton, was introduced and spoke in part as follows:

"The scene presented here to-day is one that could not be witnessed in any country but our own, and for this reason, it is no other, it possesses significance worthy of the gravest consideration. A few years ago brave men from the North and from the South stood facing each other in hostile array, and the best blood of the country was poured out like water on many a battlefield. Thousands, hundreds of thousands, of our bravest sleep in bloody graves—men who gave their lives to prove the faith of their convictions; and now North and South, standing by these graves, wherever they may be, grasp hands across the bloody chasm, and proudly claim Federal and Confederate soldiers as Americans—men, who have given to the world as noble examples of courage and devotion to duty as can be enrolled on the page of history.

"Of the 6,000 Confederates buried here not one was an officer; all were privates, in no way responsible for the unhappy war which brought an end of woes upon our country. And yet these humble private soldiers, any one of whom could have gained freedom by taking the oath of allegiance to the Federal government, preferred death to the sacrifice of their principles.

Can any dishonor attach to these brave men of Chicago because they are willing to recognize the courage and the devotion to duty of these dead Confederates?

We, of the South, measure our dead comrades buried here by the standard applied to men after death, and you of Chicago have measured them by the same standard—the only standard by which we can measure man—and by applying this you have shown that you have come to the highest standard conceded to men and on this North and South can stand with honor alike to both sections. Are any Federal soldiers disloyal to the flag under which they fought because they join in decorating the graves of brave men whom they met in battle?

Thousands of Federal soldiers rest under Southern skies in Southern graves, many in unknown graves.

"Where some beneath Virginia hills, And some by green Atlantic hills, Some by the waters of the West, A myriad unknown heroes rest.

And when on memorial day in the South graves of our dead are decorated, gray headed Confederate veterans and noble, devoted women strew flowers over the graves of Federal soldiers. If the humane, generous action of the people of this city, in doing honor to the memory of their old antagonists, is denounced as desecration, it would seem to follow that the decoration of Federal graves by the same criticism; but no denunciation of Southern people for daring to honor the memory of men who were once their enemies has met my eyes.

Every Southern man felt in a call made upon him by his State was an imperative command and that his duty was to obey, without hesitation, and at all hazards. When the North called on its citizens to rally to the old flag, they responded to the summons from a sense of duty, as did the people of the South to the call made on them. State allegiance and State pride in each case was the moving cause which arrayed millions of men in arms in this country, and while the war that brought them out caused untold misery to the country, it has taught a lesson to the nations of the earth that America in arms can defy the world.

Another vocal selection followed, and then Maj. Henry T. Stanton, of Kentucky, recited the memorial ode.

The monumenting corps was as follows:

For gun No. 1—Col. R. H. Stewart and Miss Lucy Hill.

For gun No. 2—Col. S. J. Sullivan and Mrs. Albert Akers.

For gun No. 3—Col. George Forrest and Miss Laura H. Mitchell.

For gun No. 4—Col. John W. White and Miss Belle Armstrong.

Spiking party—Col. R. Lee Franco and Comrade Theodore Leal.

The ceremony with gun No. 1, which was repeated substantially at each of the three others, was as follows:

Col. Stewart: "This gun, having fired its last shot, will now be silenced forever."

Miss Hill then mounted the pedestal and said:

"This cannon, with its glorious record on the field of battle, having been silenced forever, I do consecrate it to the memory of the valorous soldiers who now monument as a military decoration for their bravery and honor unto death."

Then from Gen. Underwood came the command, "Decorate the monument."

At the word Miss Catherine Stewart, Miss Marion Sullivan and Miss E. E. Walker, dressed in white and escorted by three staff officers, approached the monument, Mrs. Walker on the east, Miss Sullivan to the west and Miss Stewart in the center. Mrs. Walker advanced and placing a laurel wreath at the northeast corner of the monument base, said:

"As a just meet to the worth of the Confederates whose mortal remains are here monumented, I place this emblematic wreath in token of their honored remembrance on this occasion by friends, Southern people and all broad and liberal men."

The other ladies did likewise, after which the choir rendered an anthem. Then the ladies generally, assisted by the veterans of both armies, decorated the monument, guns and piles of shot and shell with flowers.

The field was then cleared and the first regiment of artillery, Illinois National Guard, paid the final military tribute by firing three volleys. Then came the command, "Taps." After which the military band played a march and the audience dispersed.

ART WORK OF NORFOLK AND VICINITY.

THE VIRGINIAN is receipt of this very valuable work. It is the handsomest publication of the kind relating to Norfolk, Portsmouth Newport News and all this vicinity that has ever been published. It is really a work of art in twelve parts published by H. W. Kennicott & Co., and furnished only to subscribers. The work is greatly enhanced in value by a sketch of Suffolk and its historic surroundings, from the pen of Judge Robert W. Hughes. The sketch embraces the history of this section from the settlement of James town in 1607 to the present date. The illustrations are very beautiful. They embrace many historic views and scenes. They are all presented in artistic manner on the best of paper. The work as a whole, is one that every subscriber must feel gratified in possessing, and those who are not subscribers, who have an interest in all that is beautiful in art, will regret that they are without a copy. The publishers notwithstanding the fact that they worked under difficulties, are to be congratulated on the excellence of their work.

There are lots of negligee shirts, but we think we have found the best. It will cost you nothing to look. Nichols & Wallace, 169 Main street.

MEMORIAL DAY ELSEWHERE

The Graves of Soldiers Who Have Fought Their Last Battle.

Covered With Beautiful Flowers, Orations and Poems Eulogizing Their Deeds of Valor Listened to by Thousands, Who Revere Their Memory.

By Southern Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., May 30.—Hollywood Memorial Day was observed here today more generally than for some years. Business was pretty well suspended, the State and municipal offices were closed and there was a procession to Hollywood Cemetery composed of the military, veterans, a children's brigade and the several Ladies' Memorial Associations.

There was an immensely large crowd in attendance. The Jefferson Davis plot was especially beautiful in variegated flowers. A very handsome Confederate flag woven of red and white garlands and blue overblasting was sent from Missouri.

This flag is about two by four feet square and was placed on the grave of the dead President. Around the grave was a circle of red roses and white peonies. A monument for the grave was made of daisies, which were sent by the children at Westham Farmico.

RICHMOND, Va., May 30.—The attendance at the Decoration Day services held by Phil Kearney Post, G. A. R., at Seven Pines, was larger than usual. Nearly every lady who went out to the cemetery carried floral offerings with which to strew the graves of the soldier dead.

At 12 o'clock the assemblage was called to order by the commander. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Cheney. Rev. Dr. L. T. Toffi, president of the Hartshorn Memorial College, delivered the oration.

At the conclusion of Dr. Toffi's address, the ceremony of decorating the graves of the soldiers was begun by the Ladies Relief Corps. Every mound received the attention of the ladies, flags as well as flowers being used in the decorations.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Decoration day in all the great national cemeteries which belt the capitol and in which so many thousands of the Union dead lie buried, was commemorated by appropriate exercises.

Secretary Herbert was one of the funeral party that escorted the remains of Secretary Grosham to Chicago. In place of an address, Secretary Herbert sent a letter regretting his inability to be present.

The preliminary parade along Pennsylvania avenue, headed by the local Grand Army Posts, with perceptibly diminishing numbers year by year, and followed by the regular cavalry from Fort Myer and artillery from Washington barracks, moved promptly on time.

The numerous statues of heroes of the war in the public squares of the city were draped with flags and hung with wreaths and garlands. All the public departments were closed and the day was observed as a general holiday.

PORT MORRIS, Va., May 30.—Memorial services were held at the Hampton National Cemetery to-day, Corporal Tanner delivering the address. The graves were decorated by the veterans of the Soldiers' Home and visiting Grand Army posts from Norfolk.

FEDERAL MEMORIAL DAY.

At 9 o'clock under the auspices of the Memorial Committee an excursion was given to the Soldiers' Home near Hampton, where Memorial exercises were also held.

Worden Post No. 25, assisted by members of Farragut and Harmon-Newell Posts, conducted memorial services in the cemeteries in this city at 9:30 o'clock, and yesterday afternoon Worden Post went over to Portsmouth to unite with Farragut Post in the ceremonies which were held at the Hospital cemetery.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Anna S. Green, of Culpeper, of the Virginia Board of Lady Commissioners, on colonial exhibits, was in the city yesterday and attended the concert at the Academy of Music last evening. Mrs. Green has been very prominent in all matters connected with Virginia colonial history, and she is very deeply interested in the work of securing a good colonial exhibit at Atlanta. She conceived the beautiful idea of sending the delegation of colonial dolls to the Dolls' Charity Carnival at Chicago, and the Virginia dolls attracted more attention at the doll carnival than any other display. To her also belongs the honor of conceiving the idea of building a large colonial hall on the Atlanta fair grounds, where the colonial relics for all the States may be displayed, each State having a proper space at its disposal, the whole arranged so that the general effect will be imposing. This idea has met with great approval wherever broached, and the idea bids fair to take shape. It would be a grand feature and if the colonial committee and if all the States take action, it cannot fail of success.

The Merry Band Club.

Mr. J. E. Fullard of No. 37 Commercial Place, has received a letter from the Merry Band Club, of York, Pa., stating that the Club would leave there on June 15th for Norfolk, on its way to Ocean View, where the members, numbering quite a hundred men, will go in camp. The Merry Band Club is composed of business men entirely, and are a fine body of gentlemen. They were in camp at Ocean View last season and during their stay in this vicinity made many strong friends who will gladly welcome them again.

NEWS OF THE STATE AT LARGE

Richmond as the Centre of Virginia Gossip and Events.

The Canvas for the Election of Delegates to the General Assembly About Ready to Open. Fitz Lee's Friends Will Take Part.

(Special Dispatch to the Virginian.)

RICHMOND, Va., May 30.—The legislative contest has already opened up in this city, as far as the Democrats are concerned. There are many candidates for the House of Delegates already out, or thinking seriously of entering the race. Among these are Messrs. Julian Bryant, John S. Harwood, Thomas Byrne and J. Alston Cabell (members at present); J. Taylor Stratton, John Jackson, Richard E. Frayser, J. J. Creamer, James R. Branch and R. H. Boykin. Mr. Crump will not run again, and Messrs. Branch and Boykin will not be candidates, it is said, if Mr. Harwood enters the race. Mr. Cabell is already actively at work. He is said to be running for vindication in voting for Mr. Martin for Senator. He surprised and disappointed many of his constituents in refusing to support Lee. A number of Lee's old friends are going to use all their influence to defeat Mr. Cabell and this contest promises to be exceedingly lively and interesting. Mr. Cabell already has enlisted the support of some of the most active politicians in town.

The Virginia delegates to the National Travelers' Protective Association convention in San Antonio, Texas, left here this afternoon in a special car over the Chesapeake and Ohio route. Several persons who are not delegates went along. It is understood to be the purpose of the Virginians to make an effort to have the convention meet here next year. Should they succeed, this convention would assemble soon after the great Confederate reunion and would bring not less than ten thousand drummers.

It is said that there are not as many men out of work in Richmond now as there were a year ago, but there are still a great number, who can find employment for only a part of their time at best. The trade conditions are better than they were for a year or two past, and it is the general opinion that while but little improvement will be witnessed during the summer the early fall will see a healthy revival in all classes of industry.

The South Carolina Press Association will arrive here early Saturday morning and will spend two days. They will be taken in charge on their arrival by a committee from the Old Dominion Press Club and will be shown the sights of the city. At 1 p. m. Gov. O'Ferrall will receive the visitors at the Executive Mansion. In the afternoon they will be taken in a body to see the game of ball, and at night a reception will be tendered at the rooms of the press club.

Memorial Day was more generally observed here than for many years. All the public offices were closed and many business houses were closed. The events of the day were two games of baseball and the memorial services. In the afternoon all the home military, veterans and a number of children formed a procession and paraded under the marshaling of Major Thomas A. Brander to Hollywood, where impressive services were held. Rev. Frank Stringfellow, the noted scout, made the address. The Federal Veterans held services at Seven Pines, with Rev. Dr. L. T. Toffi as the orator.

The Oldest in the State.

Miss Robertson, at Nottoway Court-house, has a piano thought to be the oldest in the State. It is a miniature affair, made of very handsome materials, which, with a certainty, have stood the ravages of time for the past 150 years. It is well preserved and a great curiosity.

Commencement Exercises.

The commencement exercises of Norfolk College for Young Ladies will begin on Friday night, June 7th, when the societies of the college will hold their literary exercises in the Academy of Music. Rev. E. H. Rawlings will preach the annual sermon.

Mormons in Virginia.

Mormons are preaching in Nottoway and adjoining counties, endeavoring to convert the whites as well as blacks to their faith. As a rule they are not educated persons, do not preach with any power, but rely mainly upon their literature to propagate their religious faith. Recently some of these men held a meeting at Nottoway in the courthouse and had a good congregation, but made no converts.

The Nottoway people are Virginians to the manner born, some of the original stock, and no better people are to be found in the Old Dominion, consequently the Latter Day Saints met with no encouragement.

Mr. Herman Jackson, the clerk of Nottoway county, has a Jersey cow, a very fine animal, that goes to the pump when thirsty, takes the handle between her horns and pumps water. She has been seen several times to pump a bucket full of water than drink it and then renew the pumping and drinking till she was satisfied.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR.

Balls Treated in a Scientific Manner with a Household Remedy.

Such a large percentage of people have at some time or other suffered the inconvenience of boils that we do not believe a few words to the cause, effects and treatment of this painful affection will be uninteresting to the readers of this paper. Boils are hard, prominent, inflamed tumors, having their seat in the cellular tissue beneath the skin. They vary in size from a pea to a hen's egg, and may occur on any part of the body.

The causes are an impure condition of the blood, which generally arises from imperfect action of the liver or kidneys. If Quatol concentrated is applied freely to a boil in its early stage it will invariably disappear. In its more developed stage, when the core is forming, Quatol should be applied as a poultice with bandages wet with a lotion of one part to six parts of water. It will be found better than any other poultice. It relieves the pain and reduces the swelling and inflammation. The boil at this stage will have to mature. Quatol will, however, prevent much suffering. Its influence is cooling and soothing to the inflamed part.

Sufferers from boils should look into the condition of their blood and some good blood purifier will no doubt be needed. Quatol is sold by all druggists at 60 cents a bottle.

The Kildees Win Again.

Special Dispatch to The Virginian. The second game between Henderson, N. C., and the Kildees took place to-day at 11 a. m., resulting in a score of 20 to 9 in favor of Kildees. In the third inning, when the score stood 6 to 0 in favor of the Kildees, the catcher of the Kildees unfortunately split two of his fingers, causing a change in battery. On the strength of this change Henderson made 9 runs, Kimball having sufficiently recovered, resumed his position as catcher, and the Kildees held the Hendersons down the balance of the game. Batteries: For Henderson—Taylor and R. Kimball. For Kildees—Mills and J. Kimball, Mills and Mills, M agee and Mills.
