YESTERDAY IN COURT

Justice Burroughs, Resumes His Seat and Surprises Lawyers and Detectives.

DECISIONS RENDERED IN OLD CASES.

Women Fined $20 and Costs—They Fought Like Tigers—An Expensive Ham—A Young Thief Sent Up—Want to Reach the Complainers—Fights in the Other Courts.

Justice Burroughs resumed his seat on the bench in Police Court yesterday. He bowed and smiled at the attorneys as he entered, and stated to a Virginian representative that his trip North had been a delightful one, and that he felt refreshed and much benefited. The docket was not very large, and His Honor disposed of the cases with his usual dispatch. He had a little surprise in store for some of the attorneys and Detective Richardson, which doubtless made the former frown and the latter scowl about their trial, learned of his decision in several of the cases that the Justice had taken under advisement, and which many thought were equivalent to dismissals. It came at the close of the docket, when His Honor took up the warrants that were pending against Mollie Howard, Lizzie Land, Sue Murphy and Kittle Wilson, and stated to Clerk Gregory that he desired him to inform all of the lawyers interested in said cases, and who were not in court, that each of the women $20 and costs, and that they could come forward if they choose and note an appeal.

FOUGHT LIKE TIGERS. Frank Thomas and Ida Fennell, colored, when arraigned, showed evidence of a severe fight. The woman was badly cut about the face and the man though not seriously hurt, showed strong marks of the fracas. An officer testified that he was attracted to the combatants by a noise in Addington's lane Monday afternoon, and on rushing to the spot, found the man and woman sparring for an opening, and two old pugilists. The officer took them both to the station-house and yesterday His Honor fined each $4.75 for fighting.

A COSTLY HAM. The theft of a ham, worth $1, cost W. H. Washington, colored, sixty days in jail. Washington tried hard to implicate a comrade named David Kennedy and told a glib story about seeing the ham drop out of a country cart, whose tall board came out, but which wagon was driving too fast for them to overtake, and that he was obliged, therefore, to take the ham home. Mr. Richard McGrath, who keeps a grocery store, explained to the Justice how the ham missed goods from time to time from the rack in front of his store, and that he had cause to suspect Washington. He, therefore, placed the ham outside with a view to catching him. The thief was too slick to be caught in the act, however, but as soon as the article had disappeared Mr. McGrath swore out a search warrant and found the ham in Washington's possession. Kennedy, who was with him, on suspicion of the theft, was also arrested on suspicion. The latter denied positively the statement of Washington about their seeing the ham drop from the farm cart, and denied all connection with the theft. Justice Burroughs sentenced Washington to sixty days in jail and dismissed the warrant against Kennedy.

A YOUNG THIEF. The case of the small colored boy, charged with stealing a pair of shoes from the shop of Nicholas Albano, on Granby street, which shoes Mr. Albano identified by seeing them on the boy's feet in a bath tub, but which the accused at the last hearing, said he could prove he had bought from a shoe dealer on Church street, was called again. The boy was unable to prove where he got the shoes and Justice Burroughs gave him sixty days in jail.

CONTINUED UNTIL FRIDAY. The case of Bessie Ross and Mabel Davis and the prominent young business man of Norfolk, charged with adultery and disorderly conduct, which cases were continued from last Thursday on account of the absence of the young man's lawyer, Mr. W. H. White, were again continued in the Police Court yesterday by request of Mr. Wilcox acting for Mr. White. Mr. Wilcox stated that Mr. White could not be present yesterday, as he was busy trying a case in another court next Friday.

WANTS THE COMPLAINT. When the case of Jim Blind alias Jim Smith, the negro boy arrested by Officer Moore in Berkeley more than a week ago upon the charge of stealing a watch and $1 from the bar-room kept by Jesse Johnson, colored, at 202 1/2 Water street, this city, the complainant failed to appear to prosecute, and his honor was forced to dismiss the case. The same thing was the case with Ida Fennell, charged with a breach of the peace, and on dismissing the cases, Justice Burroughs stated that he was putting in the Commonwealth and officers to the expense of making complaints and putting in the Commonwealth and officers to prosecute the case, and if the accused would locate the complainants he would have them brought before him and make them pay the costs of the warrants.

SETTLED BY MARRIAGE. Colonel Martin appeared before the Justice and stated that for the first time in his practice, he appeared as attorney for both accuser and accused. In the case of Pettis Epes, colored, arrested for betraying Pocahontas Young under promise of marriage, the Colonel stated that if he proposed to settle their unhappy difference by marriage, Justice Burroughs stated that the prisoner could be released in the custody of an officer until the "Holy Bonds" were entered into, when he would dismiss the warrant. The only hitch by last report is how to raise the money for the license, as both the bride and groom claim to be financially embarrassed.

MINOR OFFENCES. Thomas May, colored, larceny; dismissed. Lee Williams, colored, assault; dismissed with costs. George Biggs, colored, assault; continued to the 6th of November. William E. Kenny, colored, suspicion of stealing; dismissed. William E. Clark, white, nuisance; dismissed. Nettie Wood, white, breach of the peace; fined $1 and costs. Martha Doran, white, disorderly house; fined $1 and costs. Albert Eggleston, colored, carrying concealed weapons; dismissed.

Albert Eggleston, colored, nuisance; dismissed. John Warren, colored, breach of the peace; fined $1 and costs. W. H. Wilson, colored, larceny; sixty days in jail. Frank Thomas, colored, drunk; fined $1 and costs. J. J. Mullen and M. H. Millard, white, drunk. Fined $1 and costs.

There was no session of the Corporation Court yesterday, as the room was used as a polling place for the Second precinct of the First Ward. Suits Entered. A suit was entered in the Court of Law and Chancery by B. P. Thornhill vs. Frank R. May. Damages, $177.

Verdict for Defendant. After consulting in the jury room all day yesterday the jurors in the suit of the Columbian Peanut Company vs. the Old Dominion Steamship Company rendered a verdict at 5 p. m. in favor of the defendant. Counsel for the plaintiff immediately moved for a new trial, which motion will be argued later.

Verdict for Plaintiff. The jurors in the suit of S. M. Midgett vs. the Life Insurance Company of Virginia, after being out a few moments, rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for the full sum asked for, $172. G. M. Dillard represented the plaintiff, and W. L. Williams the defendant. Motion was made for a new trial, which motion will be argued later.

Still Pending. Immediately after the close of the suit of S. M. Midgett vs. the Life Insurance Company of Virginia, the suit of John R. Tompkins, a mail contractor, vs. H. S. Ackiss was taken up. The jury had to recover a certain sum as damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff by the smashing of his buggy by the defendant. At 8 p. m. the suit was still pending.

In the United States Court yesterday Judge Hines dismissed the case of McCreary & Wyant vs. the steamer D. B. Steelman. The suit was to recover a bill for supplies.

Beeds of Hergain and Sale. Charles S. Davis and Rachael Davis to Isaiah Bright, two lots on Smith street with improvements. Consideration, $35.

Marriage Licenses. David Rothschild to Carrie Spertner, white.

ABANDONED AT SEA. A vessel reported off matters with no one on board.

A telegram received at the Weather Bureau office, in this city, yesterday stated that "the three-masted schooner Martin C. Ebel, bound from Jacksonville to Philadelphia, drifted ashore one-half mile South of Big Kinnakeet Life Saving Station, N. C., at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The vessel is water-logged and abandoned. No cargo has yet washed ashore. It is supposed the cargo was jettisoned by the crew before they abandoned the vessel. Nothing is known of where the crew is, but it is thought that they must have taken to the small boats, and been picked up by some passing vessel. The life-saving crew will board the stranded schooner as soon as the sea moderates, she being in the breakers."

The Ebel sailed from Jacksonville very recently, in command of Captain McRitchie. She was built at Boothbay, Me., in 1890, and has a net tonnage of about 400 tons. She is owned by Mr. J. McMillan of New York. Captain Patterson, of the British steamer Wave, which arrived at Lambert's Point yesterday for bunker coal, on her way from Coosaw, S. C., to Hull, Eng., reports passing on the 14th inst. the schooner Martin C. Ebel, of New York, water-logged and a derelict, Cape Hatteras bearing S.W. 45 E. 27 miles. The schooner looked to be in good condition.

Organ Recital at Christ Church. A large and well pleased audience listened to the well rendered organ recital at Christ Church, given by Mr. J. J. Miller, and assisted by Miss S. Kindred Williams, contralto, and Herr Hans Mettke, violoncelloist. The selections for the organ were very well chosen and tastefully performed. The Herr Aria deserves particular mention for its pizzicato bass notes. In the Offertoire in E minor the whole strength of the organ was brought out, which produced a grand effect. In the "Harvest Home" beautiful effects were heard in the imitation of the bagpipe and shepherd's lay, especially some chords, which were true to nature. As an accompaniment of the organ Mr. J. J. Miller showed his skill, when Herr Hans Mettke performed the second movement of the D minor Concerto by Gottleman, which was certainly a grand combination. In the second solo number Herr Hans Mettke played the cadences with vigor, and produced a fine effect with some very soft tones on his chosen instrument. He played also an obligato to the contralto solo of Miss Williams, whose voice seemed to blend well with the cello. On the whole, the recital was an artistic success, and helps to acquaint music loving people with the best musical productions.

The Alleged Repeaters. The Baltimore Sun, yesterday, in referring to the gang of alleged repeaters sent from Norfolk to that city, says: "One of the gangs that was expected to do some of the 'sickest' work came up from Norfolk, but this gang is well ensconced in the boat and their presence was noted and reported to the Reform League. Their lodging place was located last night. Most of these men are well dressed and were counted upon to repeat in respectable precincts. Their leader is a well-known Norfolk sport and 'tin-horn' gambler. He has been in the Virginia penitentiary. He is too well-known in Baltimore to successfully attempt crooked election work in this particular time."

Attempted Suicide. Mrs. M. E. Franklin, otherwise known as Bertie Mayes, living at No. 8 Smith street, attempted suicide Monday afternoon by taking laudanum. A physician was called from St. Vincent's Hospital, who brought her around all right. When asked last night what led to the attempt at self-destruction the woman said she was tired of the life she had been living. She said she would be perfectly willing to leave such a life, but there was no avenue open to her. When one of the homes in this city was suggested, she said she would be only too glad to go there if they would take her, and that she would be glad to go to work either in or out of Norfolk.

Fire Last Night. An alarm of fire last night from box 44 was caused by the partial burning of a vacant house at No. 194 Queen street, owned by W. W. Hunter. The fire, which was of incendiary origin, did about $25 damage and was put out with the chemical extinguishers.

TRANSFORMATION

THE HUB!

He rambled into "THE HUB" one day, With clothes all tattered and torn, Our salesmen gazed in dire dismay, At this creature all forlorn, And there he stood, like one in dread, We waited, but never a word he said, Is he a tramp or is he a jay? Why does he linger here this way? At last a smile stole o'er his face, And he bowed to us all, with many a grace. He said, "No doubt you think me queer, I don't want money, I don't want beer, I don't want charity, don't want grub, But want to know if this is 'THE HUB.' "I never was in your store before, So tell me is this THE HUB'S great store?" "Yes, this is 'THE HUB,' of Norfolk's fame, Only store here that bears the name." "Then take my size for a suit of clothes A 'WHIPCORD SUIT' is the one that 'GOES.' "I've heard of those suits long 'miles away, They cost ten dollars, the papers say." "From all I hear they are as good as gold, The best for the money you ever sold." We soon had him dressed in his new attire, Transformed from a tramp to a prosperous squire. Folks in town who saw him that morn, In his grimy suit, all tattered and torn, Now thought him a Nabob, rolling in wealth, Strutting around for the good of his health.
