EIGHT PAGES.

The Populist party in Indiana has concluded to go out of business as an organization.

When a party gets to fighting among themselves the enemy always slips in and gets the spoils.

Mr. Iselin intimates that he needs no defender to protect him against the assault of Lord Dunraven.

Foraker thinks he has a boom of his own. He has promised to kill out all the Confederate brigadiers if made President.

It is estimated that there are 46,000 male tramps in the United States, costing the country from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually.

An exchange says that the Duke of Marlborough is spending a delightful honeymoon in America. This is about all he will spend here.

New York's horse show where Gotham's four hundred show their new hats and dresses is the sensation in New York this week, says the Augusta Chronicle.

The Augusta Chronicle says that Speaker Crisp's speech before the General Assembly next week may probably be considered as his opening gun in the Senatorial battle.

An exchange says that a Chicago woman was put in jail the other day because she wouldn't talk. Instead of putting her in jail they should have put her in a glass case.

The foreign ministers in Constantinople are of the opinion that nothing short of a naval demonstration will bring the Sultan to a realization of the actual condition of affairs.

In declining to be interviewed politically in Washington Monday, Senator Hull remarked, "I work and talk for my party before the election, and allow none of the other fellows to make the explanations afterwards."

They are telling the story of a Kansas man whose life was saved by his changing his position in a car which was afterward wrecked in order that he might flirt with a girl. An exchange says this story is bound to be come very popular with a large number of men.

The committee appointed by the Pennsylvania Senate to investigate the workings of the Philadelphia municipal government began its work in Philadelphia yesterday, says the Alexandria Gazette. It was stated that the cost of the various city departments had increased from $8,000,000 in 1887 to over $29,000,000 in 1894.

Hon. Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, is rapidly recovering from the painful injuries he sustained by a fall a few days ago, and which at one time threatened to prove fatal. All good Democrats will rejoice at the news, and wish the "Old Roman" many more years of life and health, says the Pittsburg Post.

The Philadelphia Ledger thinks that at any time after becoming Mrs. Prince Karl of Denmark, her husband becomes involved in financial difficulties. Princess Maud of Wales can successfully scratch for a living as a dairymaid. Her prudent papa long ago induced her to learn how to milk a cow and make butter.

The Baltimore Herald says that the defeat of Mr. Hurst, the Democratic candidate for Governor, is not a defeat for Mr. Hurst, the man. We are sure there are thousands of good Democrats in this State who voted against him yesterday who would have been, and would be now, glad of an opportunity to testify to the appreciation in which they hold one of Baltimore's most prominent merchants and citizens.

HOW THE ENGLISH VIEW IT.

Lord Dunraven's imputation of foul play against the managers of the Defender does not meet with favor among the better class of the thinking people of England, and his Lordship will doubtless find before the affair is settled that he has made a blunder, so say the least, which he will be unable to repair.

The St. James Gazette in commenting upon the charge which Lord Dunraven has made, has the following to say:

"If the accusation is untrue, and we decline to credit it without further proof, this manner of making it will have succeeded not only in stopping all America cup contests, but in making it very difficult for any yachtsman with a particle of self-respect to consent to run against the accuser in the future."

THE RELATIVE CHANCES OF MARRIAGE.

The New York Times, says the Savannah News, has been making a study of statistics for the purpose of ascertaining the relative chances of marriage as between a college bred or literary woman, and her society suitor, and it says that the figures show that the educated woman is at a decided disadvantage. For instance: "At twenty-five years of age, 29.6 per cent. of the college women are married. At the same age, 70.7 per cent. of the society women have become wives. At thirty-five 46.1 per cent. of college women, and 54.8 per cent. of society women, are married. The showing, as our contemporary remarks, certainly is not well calculated to boom higher education for the sex," or at least that portion who think of entering the marriage state.

NEITHER DISMAYED NOR DISTURBED.

A few days ago the Virginia Democratic Association of the District of Columbia held an enthusiastic meeting to talk over the situation. A number of speeches were made, and a determination was manifested on the part of all present to give blow for blow in the next election to the common enemy. Among other business the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "The Virginia Democratic Association, neither dismayed nor disheartened at the result of the recent elections, proposes to keep the flag of Democracy to the breeze, and will continue to fight on and ever for success, and it is encouraged in this resolve so long as our glorious old State stands firmly in the maintenance of the principles of Jefferson and Jackson. The association will be found in line next year, and will do its full duty in the next Presidential campaign."

The Virginia Democratic Association of the District of Columbia is composed of true and tried Democrats, whom it is difficult to dishearten, and the resolution adopted by them has the ring of pure metal about it, which Democrats everywhere will read with gratifying approval.

OUR DEFENCELESS COAST.

In his annual report, under the head of "Coast Defences," Major General Miles, commanding the army, says that the condition of these defences are such as to require decided and immediate improvement. He says so far as our coast defences are concerned they are in such a condition as to make us completely at the mercy of any strong naval power, who could blockade all of our most important ports in ninety days. He cites the fact that while railroads might transport a million more men to the coast, they would be useless without appliances to cope with the modern engines of war, and with all our intelligence, pride, inventive genius and enterprise, we are as far behind in the modern appliances of war as China or Japan.

General Miles says that the recent manoeuvres in England have shown that even the powerful British navy is unable to defend the British coast against a foreign fleet; therefore he argues that the main reliance must be upon coast batteries. He strongly recommends the construction of all the high-power guns and systems of defences called for in the general plan of the Board of Ordnance and Fortifications, and to meet in part the expense of this costly undertaking he suggests the application of the funds that might be derived from the sale of abandoned military reservations.

THE DIFFERENCE IN MEN.

Already comparisons are being drawn between the two young Englishmen who, within the past few days have married wealthy American girls, viz., the Duke of Marlborough, who married Miss Vanderbilt, and Mr. Almeric Hugh Paget, who wedded Miss Whitney on Tuesday last. It is held that there is a very decided difference between the two young gentlemen, and here is the light in which the Baltimore American views them: "The Duke of Marlborough may, one of these days, develop into something more than a comparatively useless member of the English aristocracy; but the chances are not in favor of any such development, and the probabilities are that he will be perfectly contented to live at his ease at Blenheim Castle, and to enjoy life at the expense of his wife's enormous fortune. This seems to be the programme he has marked out for himself. Mr. Almeric Hugh Paget, the man who on Tuesday became the husband of the beautiful daughter of the ex-Secretary of the Navy, is a very different sort of an Englishman. He came to this country determined to make his own living, and has been eminently successful. Going to the West, he soon became imbued with the energetic, hustling spirit that pervades that section of the country, proved himself a young man of very decided ability, and, as a consequence, now holds an important position at the head of a large corporation. He has become a true American citizen, and is proud of the land of his adoption.

"Such Englishmen as he are very welcome this side of the water, whether they have titles attached to their names or not."

PERSONALS.

Lord Wolseley cannot enter a room where a cat is without uncomfortable sensations.

Miss Lillian Hamilton, an English woman, has been appointed chief physician to the Emir of Afghanistan.

It is reported that Mr. Gladstone is engaged in editing his correspondence that he considers worth preserving.

A movement is on foot in Maine to have Solon Chase, of Lewiston, the Populist candidate for the presidency next year.

The Indianapolis News suggests: Now that she has made her daughter mistress of Blenheim, Mrs. Vanderbilt is ready to say, "But 'twas a famous victory."

John M. Thurston, the newly-elected Senator from Nebraska, left his father's farm in Omaha years ago with $40 in his pocket, a buffalo robe, a blanket and a box of crackers.

Of Barney Barnato, Harper's Weekly declares: "Aladdin was a duffer compared with him, and Monte Cristo seems beside him like an unostentatious gentleman of comfortable means."

A man in Brooks county, Ga., suicided a few days ago because he lost money on his water melon crop in July. "Maybe he had just received a statement from his Cincinnati commission merchant," says the Camilla Clarion.

Mayor Strong expresses himself in favor of the scheme to materially reduce the number of liquor saloons in New York, says the Brooklyn Eagle. He thinks 4,000 licensed places would be sufficient for the city, and favors a gradual reduction. He thinks 500 could be cut off next year.

NOTES AND OPINIONS.

The best-shaped feet in Northern Europe come from Sweden. German ladies are usually neatly shod.

A joint commission representing the cities of New York and Brooklyn is planning a new bridge across East river, with a capacity of 600,000 passengers a day.

Zenke gained much renown by the story of his painting of grapes being picked by birds which took it for the real article. He himself, however, was deceived by a curtain painted by Parnassius, taking it for a genuine piece of weaver's work.

Specimens of Russian thistle, which has overrun many thousands of acres in South Dakota, have been found growing in the cattle yards of the West Shore road at Westchester. The attention of the state government will be called to the presence of the pest.

In dredging the harbor of Swinemunde, on the island of Usdom, a church bell weighing five hundred pounds was fished out whole, with the broken half of another bell. From the inscription they are believed to have been stolen during the Thirty Years' War and to have been sunk with the vessel that bore them, says the American.

Mrs. Mary Jackson, of Louisville, Ky., says the Pittsburg Post, has just passed her one hundred and third birthday. She lived in Louisville when all the houses were stockaded against Indian surprises and the red men made considerable trouble for the farmers thereabout. She was a grown woman when Lafayette visited Louisville in 1820 and well remembers him.

NATURE.

O Nature, I do not aspire
To be the highest in the choir,
To be a meteor in the sky,
Or comet that may range on high,
Only a zephyr that may blow
Among the reeds by the river low,
Give me thy most privacy place
Where to run my airy race.

In some withdrawn, unpublic mead
Let me sigh upon a reed,
Or in the woods, with leafy din,
Whisper the still evening in.
Some still work give me to do,
Only—be it near to you!

For I'd rather be thy child
And pupil in the forest wild
Than be the king of men elsewhere,
And most sovereign slave of care,
To have one moment of thy dawn,
Than share the city's year forlorn.
—Scribner's Magazine.

Deduct what is but vanity of dress,
Or learning's luxury or idleness
Or tricks to show the strength of human brain—
Or eunuchs pleasure or ingenuities pain!
Enlarge the whole or lift the excrement parts
Of our various have created arts.
Then see how little the remaining sum
Which serves the past and must the times to come!

—Pope.
