TO-DAY.

The Mammoth Industrial Procession.

Music and Merchandise, Military and Mechanism, Marshals and Miscellaneous. A GRAND GALA DAY FOR CINCINNATI.

The Decorations Described, the Things Detailed and the Event of 1875 Properly delineated.

The Opening of the Exposition and an Exposition of the Opening.

The grand opening day of the Sixth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition has arrived and found the city in its gala dress and filled to repletion with guests waiting and anxious to do honor to our great industrial work and to the city that honors honest labor and artistic excellence by putting their results alongside each other in the great display of the continent. Cincinnati's Expositions have made her famous all over the world, and have also made her workmen as thoroughly noted. No city in the world has attained to so great notoriety or obtained so great success in her Expositions, and while the displays are open to all, they are in so large a degree the direct results of Cincinnati labor and Cincinnati workmen and artists that the Exposition may be justly claimed as our own and as a representation of the abilities of our own city and her artisans.

While the display is with propriety claimed by Cincinnati as in a great majority her own, the interest manifested in it and in its success is so universal throughout the country, that the Exposition coming each year, as it does, and attended by representative men from every State, as it is, it may justly be considered a national affair in many particulars and well worthy of the attention of all who can make it within their power to reach it in person or by the products of their labor.

No Cincinnati institution has had as beneficial an effect upon the city at large or its individual inhabitants as has the Exposition. It has given us a name not only among our sister cities in this country, but among the cities of the world, as fostering higher mechanical arts as well as the artistic genius of our own country, and of placing a premium upon honorable toil and careful, thoughtful labor, as well as upon the higher arts and refinements.

That movement which gives equal honor to the results of muscular labor and faithful toil as compared with the higher arts and sciences, is the one which is destined to ennoble labor in the sight of humanity, and place the laboring man upon his own correct plane of living and thinking. Hence our Exposition, which gives special attention to the products of toil, is becoming a recognized agent in bringing up the working man to his proper position.

The arrangements for the opening to-day were unusually complete, and nothing was wanting to make the opening day the grandest that has been known since the inauguration of Cincinnati's Expositions.

THE MEN OF THE PARADE. The grand parade, the feature of the day, has been thoroughly organized by Col. William St. Martin, and everything was in readiness for the day's show. Mr. St. Martin has labored assiduously in preparing the parade, and has succeeded in making it the great feature of the occasion, and one which will be long remembered with pride by the city.

It thoroughly represents nearly every branch of industry in our city, and many of them in active operation. The procession, probably the largest ever known in the city, was thoroughly officered and so well arranged that no accident or mishap seemed possible. The list of marshals and assistants was most excellently selected and arranged, and everything was put in the best order for the start.

The following is the list of marshals and assistants: Marshal Wm. St. Martin and Staff, commanding First Division. Assistant Marshal Enoch Taylor and Staff, First Section.

Assistant Marshal James Ball and Staff, Second Section. Assistant Marshal S. K. Hayes and Staff, Third Section. Assistant Marshal S. Campbell and Staff, Fourth Section.

Assistant Marshal J. F. Blackburn and Staff, Commanding Second Division. Assistant Marshal Lewis Wetzel and Staff, First Section. Assistant Marshal J. W. Gano and Staff, Second Section.

Assistant Marshal Amor Smith and Staff, Third Section. Assistant Marshal Henry DeBus and Staff, Fourth Section. Marshal John Grossius and Staff, commanding Third Division.

Assistant Marshal Wm. S. Munson and Staff, First Section. Assistant Marshal Chas. Jacobs and Staff, Second Section. Assistant Marshal James Morgan and Staff, Third Section.

Assistant Marshal Thomas Faxon and Staff, Fourth Section. Assistant Marshal M. Moore and Staff, commanding First Division. Assistant Marshal J. W. Malone and Staff, Second Section.

Assistant Marshal Gurten and Staff, Third Section. Assistant Marshal H. G. Armstrong and Staff, Fourth Section. Assistant Marshal Jno. Schwabman and Staff, Fifth Section.

MUSIC AND MILITARY. The music for the occasion was probably better and better arranged than last year. Among the bands were the following: Meisner's Kappala Band, Barracks Band, Brand's Band, Seidensticker's Band, Ballbona's Cornet Band, Reubel's New York Band, Great Western Band, Meyer's Band, Heesian Band, Turner Band Washington Band, Malineville Band.

They are properly distributed throughout the immense procession, as indicated below. Among the military were a detachment of United States soldiers from the Barracks at Newport, the Ohio National Guards, the Harmon guards, a detachment of police, the Robinson Guards, to whom Uncle John Robinson has recently presented a fine stand of colors before their taking position in the parade.

Street Commissioner Corbett, with that nature in the matter which every Cincinnati citizen feels, has for the past two or three days been employed on the streets on which the procession was to move, and has had every hole and uneven place filled and leveled up and the streets thoroughly swept along a large portion of the route.

The procession commenced to form before eight o'clock. Long before that time the numerous display-wagons had commenced to appear at different points on the streets, and were awaiting universal attention. People were generally awake at an early hour and the work of the morning was well on the way and every one was on tip-toe to see the display. Three-fourths of the windows on the principal street were decorated with heads of all sizes, descriptions and ages, and divided the attention of the passer-by, who indulged in thirty remarks for every nearly every window. The sidewalks were literally lined with children who watched with their usual eagerness for the displays of bright colors and gay horses and green and every fine display with their usual stores of vociferous applause. Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Freeman streets were especially lively with spectators, and the most interesting route to the point at which the parade formed.
