A Telegraph Operator Forced to Testify--About the Tax on Weiss Beer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.--Frank H. Patrick, a telegraph operator from Saratoga, refused to testify before the Grand Jury in the case of Peg-legged Brown, charged with the larceny of money from the United States Treasury. Patrick said it was contrary to the rules of telegraph offices to divulge information that passed over their lines. Judge McArthur ruled that Patrick would have to testify, and he complied.

Ex-Representative Meyers, of Philadelphia, representing the Weiss beer brewery of that city, has just delivered an argument before the Commissioners of Internal Revenue against the collection of tax on Weiss beer. In 1870 the Delinquent Commission of Internal Revenue, ruled that Weiss beer was not taxable under the law, and was exempted under the acts of March 2, 1867, as roof and other small beer, because it contained such a small amount of alcohol, only two and a half per cent. It appears that the Commissioners who raised the statutes overlooked the exemption clause of that act of 1867.

He says: "With a change in business organization I propose to take a far more active part, and to make the paper my own in a more important sense, than ever it has been. I shall consider it as a parish parallel with Plymouth Church, and shall give it the same earnest zeal that I give to that--the same spirit and the same views of Christian life and discipline."

TOUR BY THE PRINCE IMPERIAL--SEIZURE--THAT HE PERFORMERS INJURED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.--The Herald's special cable from Paris says it is announced that the Prince Imperial will soon make a tour around the world. The reason alleged for the young Prince's undertaking the tour is that it is thought necessary for the completion of his education. It is believed, however, that the real purpose is to prevent the Bonapartes from taking any premature action for the restoration of the dynasty in the present unfavorable state of the popular mind.

They were performing a feat in which the woman threw herself head first from the trapeze while standing, and the man clasping one of her ankles, simultaneously steps from the bar and catches by his feet. At the junction of the suspending ropes and the bar, his feet failed to catch, and both went head foremost to the floor below, striking heavily. They were picked up unconscious, but the full extent of their injuries are not yet ascertained. One of the woman's legs was broken, and both performers were internally injured.

The fire was discovered by parties outside, who gave the alarm in such a way as to cause a fearful panic among the guests. Charles G. Avery and Anterne Gruber, boarders and residents of this place, and Eliza Jent, dining-room girl, and Martha Borsden, cook, failed to get out, and were burned to death.

Eight or ten persons had their legs broken or were burned in making their escape from the windows.

A Brutal Murder.

SPEEDY JUSTICE THREATENED BY THE INFAMOUS PROPLE.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Sept. 24.--Miss Belle Laughlin, aged seventeen, a daughter of Josiah Laughlin, of Belle Center, was brutally murdered near that place, and the outraged body found yesterday. A man named Shell, who lives on Laughlin's farm, near Belle Center, yesterday took his wife and Miss Laughlin plum-hunting to the Reservoir, several miles distant. They lunched about noon at what is called the Bulkhead.

Mrs. Shell being fatigued, stayed with the team, and Shell and Miss Laughlin started for a hazel and plum thicket, some distance away. Afterward Shell returned alone, and said Miss Laughlin had strayed away so far he could not find her. An alarm was finally given, and search made, the crowd constantly increasing, until hundreds were searching. The body was found this forenoon, nearly nude, her throat cut from ear to ear, the grass trampled and smeared with blood for a rod around, giving evidence of a deadly struggle.

Shell was arrested in the afternoon and the knife with which he committed the murder found on his person. His clothes with spots of blood, were found in the wash-tub. An infuriated mob at once collected, and it was with great difficulty that they could be prevented from lynching him. He was, however, brought here and lodged in jail last evening.

LATEST.

BELLEFONTAINE, Sept. 24.--There was considerable talk of hanging Shell last night, but no attempt was made. The feeling against him is very strong.

The coroner's jury at this hour (11 o'clock) are still engaged in investigating the case. There is no doubt of Shell's guilt.

THE NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL CONGRESS.

Cheap Transportation--The Tobacco Tax--Addresses, Discussions, &c.

The closing session of the National Agricultural Congress was held at 10 o'clock this morning, with Mr. Fragg in the Chair and Mr. G. E. Morrow acting as Secretary.

Mr. W. P. Boswill, of Virginia, Chairman of the Committee on Cheap Transportation, presented the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Cheap transportation is one of the most important subjects which can engage the attention of our Congress; and

Whereas, All the facts bearing on this great subject have lately been collected and assembled with a degree of care in a report of 1,100 pages, never before brought to bear on this subject by the special committee raised in the Senate of the United States, of which the Hon. W. H. Woodruff is Chairman; and

Whereas, The scientific aspect of these facts have been thoroughly discussed by a Board of Agricultural Experts, over which Major Gen. J. G. Bryan presided, so that the champions of cheap transportation have now the materials of reaching the most intelligent conclusions; and

Whereas, The problem of the comparative economy of transportation by water and all other methods has been thereby more conclusively established in favor of the former, therefore,

Resolved, That we do most cordially indorse the Senate special committee's report on its recommendations of four great lines to be reconstructed by our National Government.

The first of these constituting the Northern water route by a connection between the Mississippi and the Lakes with the Niagara ship canal, and the enlargement of the Erie.

Resolved, That we do recommend the improvement of the Tennessee river and its connection with the Coosa and thence through the State of Georgia to the Atlantic Ocean.

Resolved, That we do recommend the deepening of the mouth of the Mississippi river.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Agricultural Congress that the expenditure of $10,000,000 by the National Government on these four great free-water highways will effectually solve the problem of cheap transportation, and would be more fully indorsed by the American people than any other like expenditure, and with results more than commensurate to their cost.

That we do most cordially indorse the practicability of the great Central White Line, and hold it as fully demonstrated by the late Hon. Army Engineers, that the same would be more fully indorsed by the American people than any other like expenditure, and with results more than commensurate to their cost.

The following new delegates arrived: J. M. Milikin, of Hamilton, O.; W. M. Slocum, of Dayton, O.; H. P. Galt, of Ohio State Grange, and Thos. Spooner, Cincinnati.

A resolution to provide a nominal salary for the Secretary, was adopted.

A number of new members were presented and were admitted.

Dr. J. M. Gregory,
