JOSEPH FREDWESTER, for the past 13 years assistant editor of the Wahrbefreund, and formerly editor and proprietor of the St. Marien Calendar, died on Wednesday night at his home on West Eighth street. Mr. Fredwest had been for nearly thirty years a resident of Cincinnati, and was highly respected wherever known. He was 82 years of age. MISS LILLIE SMIPLE, of Clifton, noted in fashionable circles throughout the country as a belle in both manners and beauty, was united in marriage last evening at Galvary Episcopal Church, to Mr. William John Harris, of Dayton, Ohio, son of the well-known ale brewer of that city. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers from Mayor Hughes' conservatory. After the solemn rites had been performed the party repaired to the bride's former home, the residence of her brother-in-law, Theodore Cook, Esq., where a large and grand reception was tendered the happy pair. The bridal party left for Dayton last evening. A French machinist has discovered that by keeping his turning tools constantly wetted with petroleum he was able to cut metals and alloys with them, although when the tools were used without the oil, their edges were soon turned and dulled. The hardest steel can be turned easily if the tools be thus wetted with a mixture of two parts of petroleum and one part of turpentine.

Alleged Malpractice of Dr. Muscroft—Some of the Testimony Before the Coroner.

The case of alleged malpractice against Dr. C. S. Muscroft, sr., who is charged with causing the death of a child, the son of Mr. John Dunn, by attempting to remove a stone from his bladder, was brought before the Coroner this morning. The case is one of interest to physicians, about thirty of our prominent practitioners being present, most of whom were subpoenaed as witnesses. The first witness was John Dunn, the father of the child, who testified as follows: I am the father of the deceased, he was five years and ten months old; always enjoyed good health, excepting that he was afflicted with the gravel for about fifteen months. My wife first took him to the city physician about one month ago, and he prescribed for him. His office was on the corner of Seventh and Freeman streets. I believe the operation performed upon him was the cause of death. I always objected to Dr. Muscroft operating upon him. I refused to permit him to operate, and he performed it, I thought the child would get well without. The child was taken to the hospital without my permission, though I was in the ambulance with him, being conveyed as a patient myself. They took the child from my side and carried it to the operating room. I followed and said to Dr. Muscroft, "Doctor, what does this mean? my wife knows nothing about this." "What do I care for your wife," he replied; "place him on the table." They placed him on the table and gave him chloroform. The child cried with pain even after he had recovered from the effects of the chloroform.

He spoke after the operation was over, but was never in his right mind and did not recognize me; he died Saturday morning; the operation was performed about 9 o'clock on Thursday morning; the stone removed from the bladder was the size of a hickory nut. The following is the report of Dr. McClehan, who was appointed to make the post mortem examination: On the 25th day of October, 1875, at 8 o'clock P. M., I proceeded to St. Joseph's German Catholic Cemetery, and made a post mortem of the body of John Dunn, Jr. The body was disinterred by the sexton of the cemetery, and upon its being removed from the coffin, presented the following appearances: Many portions of the surface of the body presented a dark, bluish color. An incision extending from the middle point between the two clavicular bones, down to the xiphoid process, was made to be seen. This incision was stitched together. Another incision about an inch in length was noticed in the perineal region, to the left of the raphe of the perineum, extending downward and outwardly and inwardly toward the position occupied by the bladder. This kind of an incision is usually made in cutting for stone in the bladder. On exposing the abdominal and pelvic organs some of them were found missing, viz: the bladder and two kidneys. All the other organs of the abdomen, as well as those of the thoracic cavity had evidently been examined at a previous post mortem. They were all found in a healthy and normal condition, excepting the incision made in some of them by the pathologist's knife. About a quart of a brownish red fluid was found in the abdominal and pelvic cavities. At various points of the peritoneum there were evidences of peritonitis having existed. J. C. McCLEHAN, M. D. The case is still in progress.

THE ANSWER. What Auditor Humphreys Says to that Auditor. Auditor Humphreys, through his Attorney, Hon. Yachel Worthington, yesterday filed his rejoinder in the tax levy case, in the Supreme Court. He denies that the ordinances passed by Council, August 20th, 1875, and recited in said writ, were presented to the Mayor and signed by him before the certificate of the Clerk of said city, dated August 26, 1875, was delivered to this defendant. He also denies that Council have power to cause the percentage levied by them to be certified to him after the first Monday in June in that year. He also denies said Auditor has power to place any percentage certified to him by said Common Council on the tax list on Monday in June, upon the tax duplicate for that year. He also denies that the said Common Council have the power to levy in any one year over and above the tax for county and State purposes, and excluding the tax for schools and school-house purposes, a tax which shall exceed the rate of fifteen mills. He also denies said Auditor his power to place upon the tax duplicate any levy exceeding sixteen mills as aforesaid, which may be made by said Common Council. He also denies that there was duly appointed by the said Superior Court of Cincinnati under and by virtue of said act of the General Assembly of Ohio, passed May 4th, 1863, a Board of Trustees as stated in said writ. He also denies that any of the bonds authorized by said act to be issued have been issued and disposed of in accordance with said act to bona fide and innocent purchasers as stated in said writ, under Mr. Daly, whose great forte as stated by said writ to have been issued were issued before the passage by the General Assembly of Ohio of an act entitled "An act limiting the rates of taxation in municipal corporations," passed May 3, 1871.

Further answering, he says he never refused to place upon the duplicate a levy of sixteen mills properly certified to him by said Common Council.

Amusements. THE GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—Augustin Daly's society play, "Divorce," was given last night with Miss Davenport in the leading role, of "Fanny Ten Eyck." This is a character peculiarly adapted to Miss Davenport's style of acting, or rather she has served such an apprenticeship, as one might term it, under Mr. Daly, whose great forte as author and manager is dramas of this school, that she is as near perfection as possible in this character. Miss De Forrest, as "Lu Ten Eyck," was very good, as was most of the support given by the stock. "Divorce" again this evening.

WOOD'S THEATER.—This house was crowded as usual, last evening, the attraction still being J. E. Raymond's "Colonel Mulberry Sellers." The play, like almost all of our modern dramas, is so arranged as to allow very little scope to any one excepting the star; but, notwithstanding the meagerness of the other parts, some of them are extremely well played and have called forth much commendation. Miss Canning, who were well deserved. Miss Canning, Mr. Craven and Mr. Soggs have all succeeded remarkably well, considering that they have been in the shadow of one of our greatest actors and in a play that, robbed of this one character, would be totally devoid of interest. To Miss Canning, especially, Mr. Raymond is under many obligations for the success of the play.

"Colonel Sellers" matinee to-morrow.

THE NATIONAL.—The regular performance, consisting of varieties and the sensational drama, the "Shadow Detective," was given last night at this house to a good audience. Same programme for to-night.

Old Friends Hospitality. I remember a case in which a neighbor of mine, an elderly wealthy gentleman, whose house was always open and always full of guests, dying, left each of his children a plantation. To the eldest son, however, he gave the home estate, worth three or four times as much as any of the other plantations, and with it he gave the young man also a large sum of money. But he charged him with the duty of keeping open house there at all times, and directed that the household affairs should be conducted always precisely as they had been during his own lifetime; and the charge well nigh outweighed the inheritance.

The new master of the place lived in Richmond, where he was engaged in manufacturing, and after the death of the father the old house stood tenantless, but open as before. Its troops of sootily shod servants swept and dusted and polished as of old. Breakfast, dinner and supper were laid out every day at the same hour, under the old butler's supervision, and as the winters grew cold his silent subordinates waited, trays in hand, at the back of the empty chairs, during the full time appointed for each meal.

I have stopped there for dinner, tea, or to spend the night, many a time, in company with one of the younger men, who lived elsewhere, or with some relation of the family, or alone, as the case might be, and I have sometimes met others there. But our coming or not was a matter of indifference. Guests knew themselves always welcome, but whether guests came or not the household affairs suffered no change. The destruction of the house by fire finally lifted this burden from its owner's shoulders, but it did not require him to rebuild. But while it stood its master's large inheritance was of very small worth to him.—George Cary Eggleston: November Atlantic.

The Gold Yield. This year will rank an eventful one in the American mining. Whether in the line of new and rich discoveries, increased yield from old mines, or better method of taking out and reducing ores, it is equally full of great promise. It is estimated also by some geologists that the subject most attention that the yield in actual cash has been greater to the number of men employed, and the average per cent. of profit higher, in mining than in any branch of manufacturing or commerce.

Since the party of 1873 mining seems to have passed entirely from the domain of speculative investment and become a systematized business, in which money is made by the same management and nice attention to details as in manufacturing or commerce.

Prof. E. W. Raymond, Mining Commissioner, sets the yield for four years as follows: 1870.....$61,500,000 | 1871.....69,000,000 1872.....106,000,000 | 1873.....109,000,000

It has been quite uniform since until midsummer, 1874, when a decided increase began, and from the known product of these districts in Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California, from which we have the exact figures, we are fully justified in the conclusion that the yield of 1875 will early reach, if not exceed, one hundred millions.—N. Y. Graphic.

Her Distender. It isn't a good idea to attempt to kill two birds with one stone unless you are sure that everything is perfectly safe. For instance, A young woman was walking down K street yesterday afternoon, carrying a little traveling bag, apparently making for the cars, and dressed stylishly. She had endeavored to kill two birds with one stone, it would appear. Her valise was too small to contain all the articles she carried, and she moved on as gracefully as ever. But when a practical female, who had been walking behind her, picked up the garment, and hastened to return it to her, gratitude or something appeared to have made her entirely speechless.—Sacramento (Cal.) Bee.

Restoration of Life After Freezing. A friend residing in Baltimore had in his possession a small alligator, which had been sent him from Florida. Its tail, which had been cut off and dried with water, kept outdoors. During the winter, he kept the tail in a box, and in the night the water became completely frozen, imprisoning the reptile in the ice, with but a small portion of its body protruding therefrom. To all appearances the animal was as dead as one of the stuffed specimens seen in a museum collection. The want of time precluding an effort for its extrication in the morning, it was allowed to remain frozen, and was soon forgotten in the maze of the cares of the day. For forty-eight hours the reptile thus remained frozen and lifeless, at the end of which time, being thawed out, vitality became visible, and in a short time it was animated as ever with no evidence of having in the least suffered by the prolonged frigorific confinement.

Has, so common now, were first invented in 1421. Algebra was introduced into England by 1585, and the art of printing was introduced into that country by Caxton. As a natural sequence, engraving on wood followed in 1480, and engraving on copper by an Italian in 1480.
