HARRY CATLIN, a saloonist of Race street, below Fifth, had a barkeeper named Littleton. The latter has gotten into trouble in reference to the custody of a diamond pin, stolen from a Covington gentleman a few days ago, which the diamond thief asserted he sold to Littleton. Littleton was arrested, but not producing the property his case was continued and he went to jail. Now for his employer, Catlin. Officer Bourke visited Littleton in his cell, and by a good deal of coaxing, succeeded in getting some startling information relative to the dark ways of Catlin, who, Littleton says, took the pin from him and promised to stand by him if any trouble ensued. This Mr. Catlin has failed to do, and, to get even with him, Littleton has made affidavit charging his late employer with grand larceny, receiving stolen goods, and passing counterfeit money. Littleton says that he knows of two robberies committed by Catlin in his (Catlin's) shop. One was a young printer named McLean, whose pockets he filled of $200 while McLean was heavily drunk. He further charges him with being an accomplice of the robbers who burglarized the store of Judge Seelye & Co. some months ago. Officer Bourke, on the strength of the affidavit sworn out by Littleton, arrested Catlin, and he now is an inmate of the Ninth-street Station-house. At his appearance this morning in the Police Court the Judge held him to bail on each charge, petit and grand larceny, in the sum of $250 in each case, and his examination set for Monday, the 14th.

The Longworth Street Abortion. Coroner Maloy this morning held an inquest in the abortion case of Miss Fannie Saunders. Whom it will be found in a low house of prostitution, No. 126 Longworth, kept by Emma Gibson, among a filthy heap of saw and bed-clothes, in a dying condition, suffering from the effects of an abortion produced by some quack, whose name the girl refused to reveal. A four-months' fetus was discovered in a coal bucket, hid away among a lot of rubbish in the attic. The Coroner was unable to find any witnesses who could give such information as would lead to the arrest of the parties, and the jury, after a patient hearing of the case, returned the following verdict: "We, the jury, find that the deceased came to its death by cause of an abortion performed by parties unknown to the jury."

THE RACE STREET MURDER.

A Man Killed with a Buggy Spoke.

At No. 183 Race street, up stairs, there is one of those gambling dens that are so frequently the scenes of horrible murders, such as the one we are now called upon to relate.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon, while a game of faro was running at full blast, Jas. H. Cole, a young, rather good looking and genteelly dressed man, a horse dealer and trainer, from Ripley county, Indiana, entered the house, accompanied by a friend, O. T. Pearce. Cole, it is said, was drunk, and not wishing to play, Norton and Con Leary, the dealers, ordered him to be taken down stairs. Pearce started with Cole, and on the way out met Dee Duncan, a young mulatto boy, about 20 years of age, who has been employed for some time past as door-keeper of the establishment. Some words ensued, and Duncan attempted to eject Cole from the saloon. Cole broke away from his friend Pearce and started at Duncan, as the latter says, with a knife drawn. Duncan ran back into the room, when Leary called to him to take the stick from under the "look-out" and strike him. Duncan obeyed the order, grabbed the stick, a small buggy-spoke, and struck Cole a fearful blow, felling him to the floor, where he lay in an unconscious state, the blood gushing from a terrible wound in the back of his head. Dr. Davie was sent for, but found the man on his arrival in a dying condition. His wounds were dressed, but death had done its work, and in less than half an hour he was lifeless. Coroner Maloy was notified, and arrived shortly after; and, after impelling a jury, ordered the body to be removed to Habig's undertaking establishment, where a post mortem examination was held by Dr. Davis, and the inquest postponed until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Duncan appeared for examination in the Police Court this morning, but the case was continued until to-morrow, and the prisoner remanded to jail.

Inquest on the Body of Michael Dairn.

The Coroner held an inquest this morning on the body of the little boy, Michael Dairn, who was found dead between the boxes in an unconcealed state, with a large cut over his right temple. No one seemed to know how the child was hurt.

John Burns being sworn, testified as follows: Am 9 years old, was in the building about 5 o'clock yesterday, on my way home from school. I met the deceased at the corner of Laurel and Linn streets on the sidewalk dancing on a board; I saw a man in the third story of a new building they are putting up on the corner; this man threw a brick to a man on the ground, and it struck the deceased on the right temple; the man told me to look out; myself and another boy ran across the street, and deceased looked up and the brick struck him. He fell, and a man picked him up and took him in the drug store. I think he was dead when they carried him in.

After hearing the above testimony the jury returned the following verdict:

"We the jury do find that the deceased came to his death from injuries caused by being struck on the head with a brick, the same being thrown out of the new building corner of Laurel and Linn streets by some person unknown to the jury."

UNSHAKEN.

While other articles of their kind are largely adulterated, Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder and True Flavoring Extracts, Vanilla, Lemon, Nectarine, etc., hold their unshaken position in the estimation of thousands as the purest, best, most reliable, and cheapest. In all particulars that constitute perfect results they cannot be approached by the various known Baking Powders and Flavoring Extracts made in imitation. One trial will satisfy that for purity and strength Dr. Price's are alone in the market.
