It is only a question of time as to the complete acquisition of the Dayton Street Railroad, judging by the way things go now. What enterprise will the energetic (?) and wideawake (?) stockholders engage in when the old rails, which now look like ribbons, are entirely gone; when the mud cars have fallen to pieces; when the road bed has disappeared, and the last poor mule has been wallowed to death? What then? The owners will be at the end of their tether when the goose is killed that laid the golden egg. It would be in accordance with the eternal fitness of things for some of them to want to go to Congress.

OLD MAIDS' PARADISE.—It appears, writes a tourist, that in Shetland the greater number of marriages are between youths of nineteen and maids of thirty-two. Whenever a young man can get his manning of a boat, he comes to the harbor, and the maids, and therefore there is no wonder at his marrying early; but why he pitches on an old maid instead of a young girl is not so easily accounted for, unless it be that young men have a peculiar affection for old maids, as old men have for young girls.

How can a country be a lover so faithful to his mistress as in Shetland? I never heard of a Shetland sailor who was guilty of a breach of promise, although he should be absent for ten years. Not only does he not break his engagement, but he never fails to write to his beloved one in effusions of the most endearing nature, always beginning his epistles with "My dear Mary," "My Jewel," "My Watson," or "My Diamond." Years before the celebration of the marriage, the woman is by no means slack in telling all her neighbors of the particulars of the engagement, and of the year, and of the month, and of the day, and of the hour it is to be celebrated. It is no uncommon thing for a neighbor who has not been invited to the marriage, to peep in disguise and participate in the festivities of the evening. The usual way they disguise themselves is by rolling the body up in a straw rope and blackening the face. These maskers usually pass at the privileges of hidden guests, and are treated with great civility. At the end of every dance, every man must kiss his female partner. Sometimes the men dance by themselves, as the women can not hold out to such long and furious exercise, and when they finish their dance, they do not kiss, but they hug each other to such a degree as to create disgust in those who have been unaccustomed to such a habit.

How TO BUY MEATS.—To the housekeeper the question how to select meats, when she is purchasing for table use, is a puzzling one. Good meat should be neither of a pale rosy or pink color, nor of a deep purple. The first denotes the diseased condition, the last proves the animal died a natural death. Good meat has more of a marble look, in consequence of the branching of the fat, especially of the inner organs, is always firm and juicy, and never moist, while in general the fat from diseased cattle is flabby and watery, and more often resembling jelly or boiled parment. Wholesome meat will always show its grain, and is tight to the touch, and exhibit no dampness, while bad meat will appear soft and moist, so that the liquid substance runs out of the blood when pressed hard. Good meat has very little smell, while the unsound meat has a disagreeable, cadaverous smell, and diffuses a certain medicinal odor. Lastly, bad meat has the peculiar quality that it strikes considerably in the boiling; wholesome meat rather swells, and does not lose an ounce in weight.

THE LATEST CHINESE TRICK.—A Chinese laundryman took a novel method of securing payment of his bill yesterday afternoon, says the San Francisco Post of February 2, but in not a superior ingenuity his little game was not a success. He took the week's washing home, to a house on Minnie street, between Fifth and Sixth, and demanded immediate payment. The woman of the house looked over the bundle and discovered that some of the articles were missing. She told the Celestial clothesman that she would pay him when he brought back all her property. John glanced around, looked the door on the inside, and taking up a little candle, proceeded deliberately to strip garments off. He then unlocked the door and padded off with his booty, the woman following him until she met two gentlemen, to whom she related the affair. The started after John, caught him in a short chase, and bulldozed him into realizing sense of the situation. A Returning Board was immediately organized, and the woman recovered the clothes, while the intimidated Chinaman went off to get patched up.

THE OBSERVATORY AT VIENNA.—Note has already been made of the construction of the Observatory at Vilna in Western Russia. From the Athenaeum we culled the few particulars of the history of the institution which follow: "Founded by the Emperor Alexander the First, at the beginning of the present century, its greatest activity commenced under the Directorship of V. Slavyansky, who succeeded Siniadecky in 1839; ten years after which the Observatory was enriched by a fine equatorial of Merz, six inches in aperture. After Slavyansky's resignation in 1844, it was presided over successively by M. Houssovetich, P. Sabier, G. Gusew, and Smyslin, the present Director. During the last twenty years its energy has been principally devoted to solar photography, though Gusew, who commenced this in 1857, complained that the locality was not well adapted to it. Several fine series, however, have been recently obtained, and some beautiful specimens of the sun's surface have been secured at South Kensington. It is matter of great regret that both the great equatorial and photo-heliograph, as well as the results of a large number of observations, were destroyed by the unaccountable fire, notwithstanding the exertions made to save them."
