Other Foreign News.

Great Britain.

National Associated Press to the Star. London, March 24.—James Simms, a sailor, aged forty-three years, convicted of the murder of Mary Graham, was executed at Newgate this morning.

At the time of the assault the murderer was in the hotel, about fifty feet distant, while John Drew, another member of the company, and brother-in-law of Barrymore, was standing on the steps outside the restaurant.

Simms kissed the woman twice, and then immediately cut her throat with a razor. At the usual hour this morning the execution took place, only the Sheriff, officers of the prison, chaplain and a few members of the press being present.

THE DEADLY COLT.

A Newport Man Shoots Himself Through the Head. Newport is becoming notorious for sensations of late. One has scarcely died away before another breaks right out, in order that the cap may be filled.

This morning shortly after 10 o'clock the residents in the neighborhood of German and Ringgold streets were aroused by the loud reports of two pistol shots fired in succession.

A crowd soon collected around the house from whence the report came, which is a two-story frame building on the east side of German street between McArthur and Ringgold streets, and occupied by a family named Obermeyer.

It was learned that the husband and father, Jacob Obermeyer, had shot himself through the head with a revolver of his own life. The ball, which was of enormous size, came from a Colt's thirty-two-caliber revolver.

The victim placed the weapon close to his right temple, about an inch from the eye and at a right angle with that member, and fired, the ball coming out on the opposite side and lodging in the bureau about ten feet away.

From all we could learn the man was of very industrious habits, but was occasionally drunk, and when under his influence would quarrel with his wife.

Yesterday he took one of those spells and abused his wife considerably, during his right temper, about an inch from the eye and at a right angle with that member, and fired, the ball coming out on the opposite side and lodging in the bureau about ten feet away.

THE BALDWIN MURDER.

As Much a Mystery As Ever.

Reopening of the Coroner's Inquest To-day. Over a week has now passed away since Harry Baldwin was found on Elm street with a bullet hole in his head, and still the person who fired the shot that caused his death is unknown.

The woman-in-the-case theory having been exploded suspicion is gradually centering back upon the party who was first arrested on the supposition of having fired the fatal shot accidentally.

As will be remembered, when Schaller was arrested a pistol of thirty-two caliber was found upon him, and it was supposed from this that he could not have done the shooting, because the ball found in the brain of the victim was only a twenty-two. But now there are witnesses coming in to testify that Schaller is or was the owner of a small four-barreled weapon, which corresponded exactly with the one found in the alley the morning after the shooting.

The Dalgo district Coroner Corrick Mr. J. McLean, the vault cleaner, made a thorough examination of the vaults in the rear of Mrs. Brown's and Madame Warner's last Saturday night, but no pistol or other weapons were found.

The vault of Kitz Bennett's house is located in the cellar and is walled up tight. The water-closets in the upper stories are connected with the vaults by pipes. These pipes will be cut and examined by a plumber to-day.
