

South." Some disposition must be made of the negro votes. This they did not have to look after, for they were not to be kept from their old tactics, intimidation and murder. This is not the case in the new rebellion, but it is all through with it. It has had its effect. Democratic papers of the North are displaying over 80,000 Democratic majorities in a single state obtained in this year. As in 1860, she took the lead in inaugurating the rebellion, so now she is new rebellion South Carolina at the head. So outrageous have the operations of these Southern Democrats become, and so openly have they the authority of the state, that the national government has been called upon to aid in sustaining the laws. That will be promptly forthcoming, for President Grant believes that every citizen of this nation is a subject for protection of his constitutional rights are as sacred as the stars in the firmament. He has issued a proclamation directing the marauding bands to disperse in three days, and if not he will measure to disperse them. The leaders of the North, as well as the leaders of the South, claim that this outrage, as they did in 1861, when they claimed that Lincoln had no constitutional right to coerce a seceding state, new rebellion is the outcropping of the same feeling that inaugurated the old and the Democratic party of the North-day sympathize with it the same as they did the old one in 1860, and the same reason. As a party, they sound soul and body to the dictation of Democrats of the South. If they are power through this means, the Southern Democrats will be to the Southern Democrats as clay in the hands of a potter.

NOTE TO PAY THE SOUTHERN CLAIMS.

There is any one who does not suppose that if the Northern Democrats secure power through the votes influence of the "solid South," that the Northern Democratic leaders will return the compliment by voting to the Southern claims, they are not of political history. That there many Democratic voters in the North do not believe this we will, of course, but they are being deceived by party leaders. The controlling power is Democratic party knows better. Southern Democrats know better. He speaks of Democratic campaign orators in the South the fact is admitted. The number of claims which will have to be paid, if the compromise is made, aggregates as much as entire national debt at present. Here any person in the North, be he Democrat or Republican, who desires to "claim" to be paid? Democratic and Democratic speakers pretend enough at the idea of paying them as posteriors. In answer to this we will ask one question: When in the history of the country, during the period which the Democratic party was in power, did the Northern Democrats ever vote to pay for and carry out any measure, however infamous, that the Southern Democrats demanded. The Democratic leaders of the North, and the Democratic leaders of the South, are the same identical men to-day who controlled the destinies of that party before the war. What can we expect of them to-day, more or different from that which they did when in power together before? The only difference is this: Before the war the objects of the South were to obtain additional guarantees for the perpetuation and extension of the system of slavery. The Northern Democrats voted every measure asked for by the South. To-day slavery is no more, but the Southern demand is, for the payment of their war claims. Will the men who voted to repeal the Missouri Compromise, who voted for the adoption of the Fugitive Slave Act, who approved of the Dred Scott decision, upon the demand of these men, be likely to vote no on a proposition to pay these claims when demanded of them? It does not stand to reason that they will so refuse. Then what does a Democratic secession mean? It means the payment of these Southern war claims to an unlimited amount. It cannot mean anything else, unless history denies itself. Then let every Democratic voter think seriously before he casts his ballot, for a Democratic vote means a vote to pay these claims.

The signs of the times indicate that a terrible war is on the eve of breaking out in Europe. It will be a war of monarchs, and almost for the purpose of aggrandizement. The war cloud at first seemed to be small, a mere speck between Turkey and Serbia, but in spite of protest efforts to stop the contest and arrange a peace between the two countries, it seems now more than probable that one of the most gigantic wars of the century will soon break out in Europe. When once fairly commenced it is extremely difficult to tell where it would end, probably not until the most of the great powers are involved. A division of Turkey amongst the contending powers, would not be an improbable result, but such a change will not be brought about without a severe struggle. Should the war be a severe one, this country could not help but be greatly benefited, for it would make a foreign demand for our breadstuffs, and revive our manufacturing.

A Democratic member of the last House was asked why he persisted in presenting the southern "claims," when such presentation would, no doubt, have a bad effect upon the Democratic party in the coming election. He replied that he would stand no show of being re-elected unless he did so. That the southern people were determined on securing the payment of these claims, and would wait no longer for the commencement of the proceedings which were to end in their progress.

REBEL WAR CLAIMS.

Speech of Mr. Bristow—The Danger to be Feared in Case of a Democratic Success.

In a recent speech, in Oakley, Ohio, Hon. Benjamin H. Bristow spoke thus of the war claims of the south, and the way the "solid South" was made:

No amount of pledges that the Democratic candidates for Congress can give; no amount of promises that they may give declaring that they won't vote for certain southern claims, will relieve them from their obligations to stand by their party; and it thus results that it is in the power of the leaders of the Democratic party of the south to compel the Democratic party from all the states. There is no danger of their making war because they have had a lesson that they will not forget. How have they brought about a solid south? Now, I do not propose to talk about the details of this or that outrage in the south, to show how a solid south was brought about. It is not necessary. You and I know how it was done in 1861, and I know how, by force, by fraud, by intimidation, by violence, many were driven from their loyalty and compelled to submit to the dictation of those southern hot-spurs and southern leaders. I do not now propose to go into the details of the wrongs that were perpetrated throughout the south; but the history of the Democratic party, its record and teachings, and tendencies and traditions, all show that it is a party capable of bringing about just what has been brought about—a solid south—for the purpose of accomplishing by the instrumentality of power in Washington what they failed to accomplish in the war. Do I mean the separation of the Union? I do not mean that, because they know that can not be done. But what I do mean is to put the colored race of the south in a capacity where they must obey the will of these people, whether you call it slavery, peonage, or what. Furthermore, it is intended to extort further treasure of the money that is wrung from you by taxation, and appropriate it as compensation for their losses during the war. That is natural. Is not that what you would do if you were doing it there? If you were in their place you would try to get it too. They are just trying to get that very thing. They are trying to get from the Congress of the United States compensation for their losses during the war. Governor Hendricks says they cannot do it because the fourteenth amendment stands in the way. This was the spirit shown by Governor Hendricks in taking shelter behind the fourteenth amendment, and I think that he has at last been driven to it. He stood up in the Senate and voted against it. But fellow citizens, it is not true. It cuts off all debts incurred in aid of the rebellion, and all payment in the southern states. It does not cover claims for cotton and other products of the south, or for the use, occupation, &c., of lands and houses.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SITTING BULL is almost as impudent as the ex-rebels who are putting forward their claims for property destroyed by the United States government during the war. He has recently sent a request that his warriors be permitted to come into the Fort Peck agency and trade for ammunition.

THE Democratic papers are howling about Grant giving the assistance of the national government to aid the governor of South Carolina. In preserving peace in that state and securing an honest election. They should not find fault. It is in accordance with Scott Lord's resolution which passed the last House, just before adjournment, and Scott Lord is a Democrat.

At the Democratic meeting held some weeks since in their club room, the time when Mr. Fenton, of Mackinaw, distinguished himself, Mr. Brown spoke as a true reformer and an honest man. Will our Democratic friends read in another column what Mr. Bristow says about the payment of the rebel war claims. Mr. Bristow is a southern man and knows whereof he speaks.

THE Democratic party is so far committed to Confederate doctrine, that it has no capacity to resist its demand for the moral redress and moneyed recompense of the South. If the business men of the North think it safe to trust the country to this party, and add to the inevitable confusion of the finances, the disastrous weight of the indemnity that the conquered demand of the conquerors, all they have to do to express themselves to that effect, is to vote the Democratic ticket in November next.

UNION soldiers and patriotic citizens should read and make a note of the following item from Washington:

WASHINGTON, October 15. An examination of the records of the Southern Claims Commission shows that a number of Rebel soldiers, who guarded the prison pens at Andersonville, Salisbury and Libby, have claims pending. In every instance there is an abundance of manufactured evidence to show that they were always bitterly hostile to secession and loyal to the Union.

These impudent Southern claimants are anxiously waiting for a Democratic victory. If Tilden is elected President the Treasury of the United States will be plundered of millions upon millions of dollars, at the expense of the northern tax-payers, to pay southern claims. This is why the "solid South" is so anxious to have the Democratic party to succeed. A Democratic success will mean the payment of an ocean of money to the "solid South" from the pockets of the loyal North.

It is a significant fact that in every northern state that has held elections this fall the Republicans have gained largely over the last preceding vote. Thus:

	Rep. maj. in 1876.	Rep. maj. in 1880.
Mass., Republican majority in 1876.	3,217	11,128
Vermont, Republican majority in 1876.	29,414	3,267
Connecticut, Republican majority in 1876.	2,163	4,163
Ohio, Republican majority in 1876.	5,444	9,400
Indiana, Republican majority in 1876.	17,252	11,828
Total Republican gain in five states.		33,773

The same ratio of gains in the other states will insure every northern state to flay and Wheeler, as the same action continuing in Indiana will give the Republicans that state in November. The same ratio of gains will give the Republicans, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, by decisive majorities. And the same ratio of gains will insure the Republicans the control of the next Congress.

The Salaries of Circuit Judges.

The following appeal is in accordance with the most intelligent sentiment of both parties:

To the People of the State of Michigan: Believing that the best interests of this state and true economy demand a better paid judiciary, and that the present salaries of Circuit Judges are not only disgracefully small as compared with the pay of the judiciary of equal dignity and importance in other states, but grossly inadequate, we do most earnestly urge upon you that in the coming election you will, irrespective of party, vote "yes," on the constitutional amendment increasing the pay of Circuit Judges.

Particular attention is called to the large tracts of the best and finest pine timber along the line of the road, and upon the An Sabre, Cheboygan, Mackinaw and Muskegon rivers, the most important logging streams in the state.

The Farming Lands of the company include some of the most fertile and well watered land in the state. The lands are high and are called "the farming lands in Crawfordsburg and Cheboygan counties, which are high and rolling; timbered mainly with the first hard maple, red, black sandy loam, and abounding in the variety of the purest water. These counties are being rapidly settled, and the lumbering business in the vicinity will afford to farmers a first rate market for produce for many years.

For fine lands, one-fourth down, and remainder in three equal annual payments, with interest at seven per cent. For farming lands to settlers, longer time will be given if desired.
