

NORTHERN TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1881.

The Superior was among the first boats to pass through the Sault canal and locks.

E. Nelson is building a brick barn, 26 by 40 feet on the corner of Nelson and Huron streets.

The dredge has been busy all week on the booming ground of the Cheboygan lumber company.

The Champlain landed a lot of magnificent peaches for H. J. A. Todd. They were raised at Glen Haven.

We understand parties from the southern part of the state are in the village looking around for a site to erect a hotel.

Remember the lecture at the Town Hall next Monday evening and enjoy an intellectual feast, and at the same time contribute to a worthy cause. The lecture is for the benefit of the Episcopal society.

Tuesday night a sailor off of the schooner Cleveland fell into the new lock at the Sault, and was drowned. It is supposed the fall of about 45 feet stunned him so that he was unable to make an effort to save himself. The body was recovered.

The Otsego County Herald of last week, Friday, says the railroad track north of Gaylord is now laid about twelve miles—four miles north of Vanderbilt. At that point the grade is not yet completed, and will require about one month's time to put it in condition for the rail.

A leading witness in the Sherburne-Kitchen case of Presque Isle county which is being tried in the Cheboygan circuit, sent up a proxy from Rogers City to do his swearing and give his testimony in the case. It would not work and a subpoena has been issued for said witness for contempt of court.

The schooner C. Hart left Thursday for the Schenau to pick up a cargo of large stone for the pier at the entrance to the harbor. They are to weigh a 1000 pounds or over each. It will be quite a job to gather them up. Capt. Hart had a pair of large toms made expressly for picking them up out of the water.

The large shaft on Donnelly's dock is out of the side wheel steamer Superior, sunk near Pictured Rocks Lake Superior in 1855. Capt. Snow, of the tug G. W. Wood, says it was first used in the steamer Commonore Perry, built in 1835, at which time there were only two or three forges in the United States that could forge a wrought iron shaft, and nearly all western steamers used cast iron shafts like this.

Little Round island is visited daily by a large drove of cows. They evidently take refuge there during the heat of the day to enjoy the cool breezes off of the straits and avoid the flies, as there is not enough of vegetation on the island to attract them. In order to get there they are compelled to swim some distance. Regularly every forenoon they can be seen making their way to this their summer resort.

We understand that Chas. R. and Wm. S. Smith are thinking of fitting out the Mary with the necessary accommodations and with their families, taking a trip south and spending the coming winter. If they should do so they will go to Chicago by lake, through the Illinois canal to the Mississippi river, and then down that river to New Orleans taking in the several places of interest along the route. The trip would certainly be an enjoyable one.

Several newspaper magnates passed through the village last Sunday, coming down on the inland boat and taking the Mary for Mackinac. Among them were Dr. O. W. Nixon, Chicago Inter-Ocean; R. H. Smith, the good deacon, Cincinnati Gazette, and lady; W. D. Bickham, Dayton (O.) Journal, A. W. Francisco, Columbus O. State Journal, and lady; W. N. Haldeman, Louisville Courier Journal; M. Halstead, Jr., Cincinnati Commercial, and two sisters. They were members of Western Press association which met at Grand Rapids last week.

The TRIBUNE acknowledges the receipt of a press ticket to the great Chicago stock fair, to be held Sept. 12-17. It is designed by the managers to make this the live stock exhibition of the United States. In addition to the exhibition of live stock there will be other attractive features of amusement such as trotting and running races, steeple chases and a twenty mile equestrienne race between Misses Cook of California, Jewett of Minnesota, and Williams of London, England. It is also expected that Maud S. or St. Julien will be present and give an exhibit of speed. The premiums aggregate $50,000.

The new planing mill has been kept buzzing the most of the week, the surfacing machine and matcher turning out considerable work. They have been busy turning pulleys for the shaft in the second story and probably next week will have all in operation. The building is enclosed and roof on. The flowing well, it was found did not afford sufficient water to supply the boiler to keep running steadily and an additional well was sunk this week. For new machinery, everything is working nicely and doing good work.

The ladies of the Catholic church announce a supper at the Town Hall next Thursday evening for the benefit of the church and the parochial school under its charge. It has been a number of years since the ladies of this church have appealed to the public for aid and we feel that our citizens, who are noted for their liberal responses to calls of this character, will, on this occasion, prove their appreciation of the efforts of the ladies of this church by turning out and patronizing this supper. Those who have attended former entertainments by the ladies of this church know that a bountiful supper will be spread and those who attend may be sure of getting their satisfaction of good things. Remember the evening and give them a substantial benefit.

The rain yesterday was a most welcome visitor, the streets had become very dusty and a shower was badly needed.

Last Saturday the Jackson Lansing & Saginaw department sold 3,208 acres of pine land located in Ogemaw county for $81,500 to Mosher & Fisher of West Bay City.

A party from Cheboygan are talking of taking a cruise on the yacht Peachie, next week over in Georgian bay taking guns and fishing tackle along for hunting and fishing.

The Detroit and Chicago base ball clubs played a close game in the latter city last Tuesday. It took twelve innings to decide the game, the Chicago club winning by a score of 8 to 6.

Owners of domestic animals will be interested in the fact that the new law prohibiting horses, cattle, sheep and hogs from running at large in the state of Michigan will take effect Sept. 8. The so-called "iron-clad" whisky law also takes effect in September.

Excavating for laying the mains of the waterworks will be commenced next Monday. Mr. Hess who is to have charge of the work, informs us that he expects to commence at Upper Black river road and lay them down Main street first. Another cargo of pipe is expected next week.

There being no train up Sunday nights on the G. R. & L. railroad, the mail carrier is not compelled to wait Monday mornings at Petoskey as late as other days in the week, and consequently the mail gets in much earlier every Monday evening than during the rest of the week.

It was the tug Martel that rescued the fishing party at the Schenau Friday of last week, and the tug taking that passage seems to have been purely Providential, as Capt. Coates says it was the first time he had been through it in four years, and before entering, it was discussed some time before they decided on going by that way.

Mrs. Skinner who has been visiting her parents at the M. E. Parsonage for some time left for her home near Kalamazoo, last Tuesday morning. Her father, Rev. W. M. Campbell, accompanied her as far as Petoskey, he reports the hotels at Petoskey and Bay View campgrounds full of pleasure and health seekers, and most of the cottages at the latter place still occupied.

At the annual meeting, Wednesday, of last week in Grand Rapids, of the Associated Press, plans were discussed for further improvement of facilities for gathering news and for its supply, both to morning and evening papers, at earlier hours. The following officers were elected; M. Halstead, Cincinnati, President; Joseph Pulitzer, St. Louis, Vice-President; H. E. Baker, Detroit, Secretary; William Henry Smith, Chicago, General Agent.

The business committee of the state agricultural society is vigorously pushing preparations for the annual state fair next month. We regret that the indications are that Cheboygan county will take no part in the exhibit. Had the matter been worked up, there is no reason why our county should not have made a creditable display in the way of grain, and it is to be hoped that something may yet be done to secure some specimens from different sections of the county and have them taken down for exhibition.

We understand that Charles Hentschell sold his brewery last Wednesday to a couple of gentlemen from Detroit, one of whom was formerly foreman for P. Kling & Co. of Detroit, one of the most extensive brewing firms of that city. The consideration received, we are informed, was $5,400. The new firm we understand will make important improvements, and with the completion of the railroads will have a large territory to work up a business in, and we see no reason why they should not build up a good trade.

The Chippewa County News gives an account of a very distressing accident that occurred a short time since, being the sad drowning of four children of Capt. Trinchette, of the tug Antelope. The captain's family lives on the bank of a creek which empties into Hay lake, and it appears that the other day, while the mother and oldest son were absent from home, the four younger children, the oldest of whom was eleven years and the youngest three, harnessed up a dog and hitched him to a little boat in the creek. By some means the boat was upset and the children drowned. The dog made his way ashore and attracted the attention of neighbors by loud howling, but too late to resuscitate the little victims.

Going to Resign.

For some days it has been known that Rev. Charles A. Marsh was going to resign the pastorate of the Congregational church, and that at the morning service to-morrow his resignation would be presented. Among the reasons assigned by Mr. Marsh for deciding upon this course are, first, a lack of hearty co-operation and support on the part of the members of the church and society; second, a desire to pursue theological studies in an advanced course at Andover, Mass., theological seminary.

Mr. Marsh entered upon the pastorate of the church when everything was at its lowest ebb, and found much to discourage him, but he took hold heartily, and no one will question that he has labored faithfully and earnestly. His labors have not been confined to the church services alone but he has been a faithful visitor among the members of the church and society taxing his time to a degree that few are aware of, and he has always taken an active part in anything that tended to improve the church. It was largely to his efforts in behalf of the ladies that the church has been so handsomely adorned. In his efforts he has been ably seconded by his most estimable wife. They both have many warm friends in the village who will regret that Mr. Marsh has thought it necessary to sever his relations with the church and whose best wishes will accompany him and wife wherever they may go.
