SPRING WORK.

I was cutting papers to-day, mother,
(I hope to cover a shelf),
And saying to bits for my scrap book;
But unlike my former self,
While the thoughts that are grand and noble,
And the lines that the poet sings,
I am saving some very sample
And decidedly childlike things.

For throne in her chair beside me,
Sits the wee one dainty and sweet,
And I trust in the days that are coming
She will care these lines to repeat.
I think that in planning her life work,
The same fair future I see
Which you saw in the long ago, mother,
When you planned and prayed about me.

I long to come home at the twilight,
And sitting down by your feet,
Listen again to the Bible tales
You used long ago to repeat—
Of Adam, and Eve, and Able;
Of Noah, who heard and obeyed;
Of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob,
With the faith and love they displayed.

Then there was the wonderful story
Of the child in a manger bed,
Who marked the pathway to glory
With tears and blood that he shed;
Dear mother, that "old, old story"
Is the life of my life to me,
And I want to train up my children
To be all he would have them be.

Oh, a mother's mission is holy,
And she must be holy, too,
Or sadly fail in performing
The work God gives her to do.
So while I am sweeping and scrubbing,
And cleaning dust from the parlor,
In my heart I am earnestly praying
To be clean of sin and its taint.

While the farmer goes to his plowing,
The mother, by look and tone,
Is sowing in soil just as certain
To yield of the seed she has sown.
The work that she does may be lowly,
But the angels are watching her life;
The love of the Savior sustains
Each faithful mother and wife.

Thirty Years as a Lightkeeper

Mr. A. J. Slyfield of Point Aux-Becs lighthouse, has resigned, and his son Edward has been appointed his successor. Mr. S. is a veteran in the lighthouse employ, having been constantly at it for thirty years. He first took the old South Manitou Island light in 1852. It was a very rickety, poor concern, and it is mainly through his efforts and under his supervision that the new tower was built in 1858. While on the island light he, in several instances, assisted in saving lives from wrecks, among them the crews of the brig J. W. Scammon and the schr. Wm. Aldrich, in early years. He took charge of Point Aux-Becs (Betsy) light twenty-one years ago last September, and has faithfully kept a "light in the window" for our storm-tossed craft, and it seems to be appreciated by some. The propeller Fountain City, Captain Gibson, never fails to salute "Point Betsy". She has done so for the past twenty years on her trip up and down from Buffalo to Chicago and return.

Old age and failing health have at last induced him to resign. We all unite in saying, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

His successor, Ed. Slyfield, was born in, and always lived between the walls of a light station, and no doubt will prove a worthy keeper.

Umbrella Blindness.

Dr. Jeffries, the oculist, has discovered thousands of cases of color-blindness. Should he extend his observations he would find scores of persons afflicted with the singular disease of umbrella blindness. They are so dim-sighted as to select another man's umbrella for their own. The following is a case in point:

A Boston man on a recent rainy day saw a gentleman ahead of him with a handsome silk umbrella. Recognizing him as a friend he rushed up, clapped a hand on his shoulder and shouted, by way of a joke:

"I'll take that umbrella, if you please." The individual addressed looked around and disclosed an entire stranger but before the other could apologize he said hurriedly, "Oh, it's yours is it? I didn't know that. Here, you can have it," and broke away leaving the umbrella in his hand.

A Woman's Experience.

Mothers and daughter should feel alarmed when weariness constantly oppresses them. "If I am fretful from exhaustion of vital powers and the color is falling from my face, Parker's Ginger Tonic, gives quick relief. It builds me up and drives away pain with wonderful certainty."—Buffalo lady.

The timely application of the Sherwin-Williams paint on our dwellings will save money and no telling how much domestic unpleasantness. Sold by Post and Ansdale.

A reliable remedy for destroying worms, so common with young children will be found in Peerless Worm Specific which is pleasant to the taste, and no child will refuse to take it. Try a bottle. No cure, no pay. Only 25 and 50 cents. Sold by Kenburg & Cooper.
