

NORTHERN TRIBUNE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1884.

MARINE.

—The Dahlia, the United States light-house steamer was in port Monday forenoon.

—The Atlantic arrived up yesterday morning, having been delayed by the storm.

—The schooner Pensaukee is loading lumber from the Cheboygan Lumber Co. for Chicago.

—The tug Duncan City went over to St. Mary's river Saturday night after a tow of logs.

—The papers report a foot of snow in Owen Sound and vessels going into winter quarters.

—The Flora arrived up Friday night and passed on to St. Ignace and did not call in going down.

—The tug Chas. E. Pendell was hauled out at Bunker's ship yard Monday having her rudder fixed.

—The steambarge J. E. Potts was in port this forenoon bound from Lake Superior to Cleveland with lumber.

—The Champlain arrived Sunday morning and left about noon the same day on her return trip to Chicago.

—W. S. Smith's tug in addition to her new boiler and enlarged engine is to be housed in from bow to aft of engine room.

—The City of Mackinac did not arrive up Monday until about noon. Being so late she did not call in when bound down.

—The barge banner, loaded with lumber, has been at anchor at the mouth of the river three weeks, waiting chances to tow down.

—The Leviathan delivered the schooner White Star safe in Chicago last week. The tug left Milwaukee Monday night for this port.

—The Ste. Marie arrived down from the Sault Sunday morning, and started back just as soon as she could discharge and take on her freight.

—Captain Pollock, formerly of the schooner Parana, we understand will command Thompson Smith's tug Major Dana the rest of the season.

—The tug Champion had to leave the schooner Gerritt Smith and run to Cheboygan on account of the blow. The schooner is in bad shape and likely to prove a total loss.

—The Van Ralfe arrived down from the Sault Sunday evening with a broken crank pin. She was over three hours coming from Dingman's dock to Cheboygan. She remains in port until repaired.

—The Messenger arrived last night, having had a rough trip down. Captain Bouchard reports the Lawrence having left Manitowish fifteen hours in advance of the Messenger. The Lawrence has not yet arrived.

—The schooner Millard Fillmore was released Saturday by the tug Andrew J. Smith. Seven hours after they got the steam pump at work she was afloat. The Smith towed her to Port Huron, where she will go into the dry dock for repairs. Quin the diver examined her bottom Sunday, and found her considerably the worse for her accident.

THAT FRAUDULENT TICKET.

"The Mountain Labored and Brought Forth a Mouse."

Our Democratic and Greenback friends professed to be wonderfully disturbed over the appearance of a ticket that was more or less circulated Monday. In the afternoon "dodgers" were issued calling a meeting of "honest men" at the Town Hall that evening to take steps to circumvent Charles F. Gibson's efforts to circulate fraudulent tickets. Their whole cry seemed to be aimed at Mr. Gibson the Republican candidate for Congress from this district. How little foundation there was for their hue and cry can best be explained by the following letter from S. B. McCracken which has reference to the ticket in question. The representatives of the same party in this district endorsed Mr. Gibson for Congress and his name was put on the ticket for that position. This is all there was to the "fraud"

AN APPEAL TO THE PEOPLES PARTY
To the Editor of the Evening Journal.

DETROIT, Nov. 3.—The act of political adultery sought to be perpetrated by the Democrats and a portion of those representing the former Greenback party, so awakened the just indignation of thousands of independent voters in Michigan that a conference was held at Lansing, Sept. 30 at which a straight Butler electoral ticket was nominated, as follows:

Moses W. Field John D. Cotharin
William Mills Johnathan P. Hinchaw
John J. Watkins Charles H. Williams
Aaron S. Dyckman Benjamin Fox
Frederick D. Caruahan Chas. H. Stone
Andrew Harshaw Charles Benton
Herman Goeschel

The Detroit Free Press of Sunday published a list of the electors on the Democratic ticket, and says they are the same as those on the "Peoples ticket," except the name of Johnathan W. Flanders, which heads the list. It is not so. The People's party are in no way identified with that monstrosity. The Greenback Convention made itself a party to the unnatural pact, but it did not represent the people's party.

The Detroit Free Press also says that spurious tickets will be put afloat containing the names of some Republicans instead of the Democratic electors. If there is danger of this the Free Press does right in cautioning the people against it, and I am glad to join it in doing so. For this reason the names of the electors on the People's ticket are given above, and there is not a Republican among them—nor a Democrat either. All who wish to vote the People's ticket should see that their ticket contains the names above, and those only. These tickets may be found at nearly every poll in the state, printed with the portrait of Gen. Butler, on gummed papers, so that they will not only be convenient for use, but easy of identification.

The fusion outrage is claimed by the guilty parties to it as a contract, binding on the part of the Democrats who were represented by their state convention, and on the part of the Greenbackers who were nominally represented by the convention held in Detroit, Aug. 19, and 20. If the parties had a right to thus contract and to bind their constituency, this alleged contract is void, because—

No contract is binding that is founded in fraud.

No contract is binding that is founded in immorality.

No contract is binding that is monstrous in its terms.

The alleged fusion contract is void, being founded in fraud, because Gen. Butler was misled into recommending it by the representations of persons in Michigan in whom he had confidence.

It is void because founded in the most flagrant political immorality.

It is void, being monstrous in its terms because it is an attempted alliance between forces having no elements of sympathy or affinity.

But the parties assuming to contract had no authority to make such a contract. They exceeded their functions and were false to their trust in doing so. Whatever semblance of contract there may be is void because of a want of power to contract.

The fusion, therefore has in it no park of authority to bind the individual voter—none whatever.

The voter can express his individual preference for Gen. Butler only by voting the straight People's ticket, given foregoing.

S. B. MCCracken,
Chairman State Central Committee, People's Party.

FAMOUS SONGS.

Who Their Authors Were, and What They Got for Them.

New York Graphic: Foster got $15,000 for writing "Old Folks at Home."

Charles Dibdin netted several weeks board for writing "Poor Jack" while his publishers made $25,000 out of it.

Robert Treat Paine wrote "Ye Son's of Columbia" early in 1800, under the title of "Adams and Liberty," and he was paid $750 for it.

"America" was written by the Rev. Samuel Francis Smith in 1832, and it was first sung in Boston on the Fourth of July of that year.

"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," was written by Thomas A. Becket, an English actor, who in 1879 was a teacher of music at Philadelphia.

The tune of "John Brown's Body" is of Methodist Camp meeting origin. It was adapted to its present use by an organist in Haryard church in 1861.

Crouch, the writer of "Kathleen Mavourneen," received $25 for the production, and afterwards became a begging tramp, while his publisher could have built a brown stone front out of its sale.

"The Star Spangled Banner" was written by Francis Scott Key while watching the bombardment of Fort Mchenry in 1814. The song was printed in the Baltimore American eight days after the battle under the title of "The defense of Fort Mchenry."

George P. Morris wrote "Woodman, Spare That Tree," because the purchaser of a friend's estate wanted to cut down a tree which his grandfather had planted. His friend paid the purchaser $10 to spare it. Morris was so touched by the story that he wrote the song.

John Howard Payne's "Home, Sweet Home" was written for an opera. It was first sung in the Convent Garden theater at London and made a big hit. One hundred thousand copies were sold the first year, and by the end of the second its publishers had cleared $10,000 from it.

The author of "Maryland, My Maryland" lives at Washington. He writes gossip letters to the Augusta Chronicle. His name is James R. Randall, and he is a modest looking dark complexioned man of 40. He was very young when he wrote that beautiful poem. His ideas are broader now.

"Hail Columbia" was written by Jos. Hopkinson in the summer of 1798, and it was first called the "President's March." It was always sung when Washington came into the theater, and one of the objects of its writing was the cultivation of a patriotic spirit among the people of the new republic.

Team Work.

Sealed proposals will be received until noon Nov. 6th, by the Board of Water Commissioners for drawing from the Cheboygan Lumber company's mill, and piling under the shed at the pump house, 500 cords of slab wood. The slabs are to be piled 8 feet high, and where directed by the Board. It may be necessary to have some of the slabs drawn before sleighing, the balance to be drawn during the ensuing winter, and in any event must be delivered as early and as fast as required. Make proposals at certain prices per cord—for sleighing, also for wheeling. Address
BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS,
J. P. Utton, Sec.
Cheboygan, Oct. 22nd, 1884.
