For the Detroit Advertiser.

Bellevue, Ohio, Feb. 17, 1848. GRO. W. WISNER, Esq., DRAR SIR:—The friends of many with the 2d Battalion Michigan Volunteers, may be interested to learn that we reached this place this afternoon after six pleaant days' march from Trenton. The men have borne the march remarkably well—since we left Detroit but one man been left sice, (private Dorris, Co. H, sent back to Detroit,) and four deserted. One man (Jacobs formerly of the army.) died on the Steamer delerium tremens. All the rest have come through, performing two marches of 23 miles each day, in pretty heavy mud without great apparent fatigue.

The deserters are Natham Gage, Co. I, from Plymouth; Barone, of Co. H. from Lenawee Co.; Emory Howe, of Livington Co. and Elisha Harrington, of Monroe, both of Co. K. Their friends should advise them to hang or drown at

To-morrow morning we take the cars for West Liberty and hope to reach Cincinnatti by Sunday evening. A dozen or so of recruits have joned the command while on the march, so that our aggregate is actually greater than when we left Detroit. The officers are all well. Yours truly. In haste,

A CANDID CONFESSION OF RASCALITY .- That it is to the interest of the American People to prolong the present war admits of doubt, after reading the following degrading confession, which we find in a letter dated "Albuqurque, New Mexico," published in the Newburyport Herald. The writer is one of that numerous class of traders who follow our army with the patrictic intention of ministering to the wants of the soldiery.

"Our stock was not intended for the Mexican market, but for the troops, and consisted o a little of everything, chiefly ready made clotha little of everything, chiefly ready made clother true is a clining, ing, groceries and liquors, and such as brandy. I really think this is doing much, very much, towards preventing the bad effects of indiffging too strongly in the "critter" among the people. I hope to be more able to do more good in this way, as we go farther south, by adding more tealer, and charging nine dollars per gallon!"

First Stramboat arrival in 1848 .- The old "States," celebrated for being the "first in and last out," was seen "rounding the point" below the city yesherday morning, and came puffing along up our onjestic river, as freely as the it were the middle of June. The case was one in which a woman, or rath-or a monster in human form, had sold a slave twice-once to the slave himself, who had bought his own freedom at the sacrifice of years of toil on the gart of himself and wife, and who had nearly paid for his freedom, and finally, at an advanced price, to one of those fiends who deal in homan flesh. The case is one which excited hardly less indignation among the humane and intelligent gentlemen of the South, than among Northern men. One of these, Doff whose names deserves to be mentioned promised that the slave who had been torn from

Whateve melioration there has been elsewhere, in all this time even with the Representatives of all the people and all the States, as the proper guardi ans of the District, and the only legislative pow er over it, no light has penetrated here. Be fore the Abolition excitement these laws migh have been amended, but now, and never, I fear, until a more conservative influence finds its way into Congress. There was a time when the best citizens of the District petitioned Congress for the abolition of slavery here, and it would have been less difficult to have been less difficult to have obtained a hearing of Congress for such a prayer than that now. But in regard to the Domestic Slave Trade, a thing which is re-
