

WOODSTOCK, VIRGINIA.

Wednesday, March 13 1878.

Another Message.

Governor Holliday has learned in the first quarter of this term that there is but a step from the "Capital to the Tar-paulin Rock." He has rushed in a paper which he dignifies with the name of message, explaining his attack upon the public school system to mean only that "the people should pay for them out of their own money" - the first intimation that the people of Virginia had that they were paying their taxes with money that belonged to somebody else.

Next, the Governor would extricate himself from the dilemma of running a government without money by recommending a tax on all church property, a stamp tax, and then an increase of the general rate beyond fifty cents to make up the balance. Poor Fred! When he declared that the constitutional provision of 1869 for a system of public free schools should be treated as a nullity by legislators sworn to support that instrument, in favor of a bribed funding bill of 1871, he did about as much as his friends, personal and political, could carry for him; but when he comes in with the three column explanation and tries to prise himself out with a tax on church property to pay 16 millions of fraudulently compounded war and reconstruction interest, he lays on the last leather and the spinal column suspends its functions.

It is not necessary or proper that we should comment further upon this last executive paper. Holliday is a Valley grower, and we should bear with him presently. It was the Valley that loaded him upon the State in this crisis, and we must grin and bear him. The wretched composition and bad English of the document are not responsible for any more than for his perjury. These things we may discuss, and for the rest trust ourselves upon the charity of the other sections, promising never to do the like again.

Goodness, Governor Fred! Call off your dogs with you. It is now you and yours who are the communists after the manner of the National Assembly that rushed upon the Church Estate and uttered their interest-bearing assignments to restore a bankrupt exchequer. If you should be overtaken in your retreat from public indignation, remember the example of the patriot Nero and die reproaching the horsemen of Galba with a solemn want of fidelity to their ruler. Not even your pliancy can to reverse the church and religion can excuse or palliate; for it was Robespierre, you know, who displaced paganism with the worship of the Supreme Being during his brief reign over the Commune. Better that a millstone had been about your neck, than that you should have made a government to assail the free schools in one message and attack the church in another.

The Richmond Dispatch thinks Judge Allen was unfortunate in his allusion to the Washington equestrian column. Judge Allen's constituents do not think so. The indignation borrowed by this State out of the federal Indian fund can be replaced with that million and a half which the United States borrowed of Virginia in 1792 and 1812 when Yankee treachery was trading with Britons, and only Virginia money and blood could save the country. Judge Allen properly represents his people whenever he holds in view the knaves who never pay their own debts, but are constantly talking of honor and integrity to Virginia.

The proposition to delegate the legislative authority to the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General and Speaker of the House is about on a par with the coupon feature of the funding bill. What book for a general assembly nearly two to one in representation on a particular question to divide even in a commission? "Poor foolish things; at last, up jumped the cunning spider, and bereft held them fast."

The Senate passed the appropriation of $25,000 to the Virginia Military Institute to educate sons of men who are also to send to college. We shall now expect Gov. Holliday to veto this on the ground that these "people should pay out of their own money." It is so generous from a man who received his education from a State-supported University.

Our two delegates are entitled to and will receive the plaudits of well-to-do and faithful servants at the hands of their constituents for the brave and honorable course they have pursued during the session of the general assembly. And to our Senator we extend warmest congratulations and approval.

When it comes to a question of general war in Europe, the fighting strength of Italy is entitled to consideration. She can bring into the field three hundred and forty thousand men, and can mobilize one hundred thousand militia for a second line. Besides, she has three hundred thousand men in the reserves. The country, though poor, manages to pay forty million dollars per year to keep up this military organization.

The Virginia House of Delegates last night ordered to engrossment a bill offering to creditors to refund their bonds in registered bonds bearing three per cent. interest for eighteen years and four per cent. for fifty-two years. They are to be non-taxable.

The Senate on Monday postponed indefinitely the bill providing for calling a convention, which had been passed by the House.

MEETING OF THE TWO FINANCE COMMITTEES-IMPORTANT ACTION.

The Finance Committees of the two Houses met in the Auditor's office at half past 4 o'clock yesterday evening, for conference on the present financial condition of the State; and after hearing a statement of the Auditor, with reference to the pressing need of the Government, determined that it was necessary either to raise the taxes on property, or require the license taxes to be paid in money, in order to prevent the Government from coming to a standstill. The majority of each committee, regarding the increase of taxation impracticable, directed that two bills should be reported, in conformity with the following resolutions, offered by Mr. C. T. Smith, of Nelson:

1. That in the opinion of this General Assembly, in order to carry on the Government, and to relieve it from the necessity, from time to time of borrowing money from the banks to meet casual deficits in the State treasury, the payment of the license tax for the privilege of selling liquors, and the tax collected under the operation of the Modest-liquor law, shall be required in lawful money of the United States; and that a bill containing these distinct propositions shall be speedily pressed to its passage.

2. That another bill, requiring all other license tax to be paid also in such lawful money, shall be reported as soon as possible, with a view to its speedy passage.

These measures are regarded by the two Committees as the only means within the power of the Legislature by which the Government can be maintained, in view of the veto of the Governor.

ANDERSON'S CASE.-The Louisiana Legislature having been reconvened in extra session for fifteen days for certain purposes, the question comes up again whether Gov. Nicholls will avail of it to pardon Anderson, of the returning board, convicted of uttering false election returns. The pardon is of no effect unless approved by the State Senate, and hence the speculation on the subject. As the Governor in his call specifies certain subjects, as revenue and appropriations for consideration, it is questionable whether the pardon business will be in order. It is assumed, however, in some quarters, that it will. The New York Nation therefor says: "We believe there is no doubt that Anderson is to be pardoned, but we trust Gov. Nicholls will not pardon him to go back to the custom-house. He ought to agree to quit public life before being released." The Governor, however, will hardly be found of opinion with one of the two colored jurors who joined in the verdict of guilty against Anderson, and now declares that had he and his colored colleague known that a verdict of guilty would send Anderson to the penitentiary, in spite of the recommendation to mercy, they would never have found it. In other words, though deemed him guilty, they didn't desire to have him punished.

The House Committee on Finance reported a bill amending certain sections of the revenue laws. Some of the changes are as follows: Receivers in suits are required to retain the tax out of the funds in their hands or become personally responsible for the same. Section 8 is so amended as to construe that the fifty per centum imposed upon parties for failure to list notes, bonds, &c., is upon the tax which should have been assessed on the same, and not upon the amount of the note or bond. The income tax is increased from one to two per cent. The provision prohibiting taxing sample-merchants is stricken out. The provision placing vendors of lightning-rods on the same footing as peddlers is stricken out, and they are taxed twenty-five dollars on the footing of agents for the sale of manufactured articles of other States. Fortune-tellers and gypsies are taxed fifty dollars. The tax is taken out of boarding-schools and boarding-houses exclusively for boarding any of the students or teachers of such schools or public free schools.

The British government holds that not merely a part but the whole of the treaty between Russia and Turkey which was submitted to a congress. England does not object to Berlin as the place of meeting. Lord Lyons will probably be the British plenipotentiary. Persia had no understanding with Russia as to the cession of the Caspian in exchange for the district of Mayajid. Austro-Hungarian sentiment is against the proposed occupation of Bosnia. The Cretan insurgents have accepted an armistice. After Turkish police may enter the houses of foreigners in Turkey without the permission of the consuls. A dispatch from Turin, Italy, announces the death of Count Sclopia, president of the Geneva board of arbitration in 1872. It is now said that Signor Crispien was forced out of the Italian cabinet because it was discovered that he was a bigamist. A colliery explosion near Glasgow, Scotland, caused the death of probably seventeen persons. Pope Leo has written to the Czar relative to the Church in Poland. The Archduke Francis, father of the Emperor of Austria, is dead. Gen. Grant is at Athens. Bismarck said in the Reichstag that he did not abandon the hope of eventually forming an independent provincial representation for Alsace and Lorraine.

Counterfeit Trade Dollars have been discovered in circulation at New York, as they have been in Baltimore. Their appearance is said to be good, and it is hard to detect them. The bad pieces are nearly twenty grains lighter than the genuine, and a very little smaller in size. They have been so far chiefly distributed among the German grocery stores.

Richmond, Va., March 11.-The Senate to-day passed a bill establishing agricultural and mining bureaus by which each manufacturer of fertilizers within the State selling in this State is taxed $500 for such privilege.

Richmond, Va., March 8.-The Senate to-night passed a joint resolution appointing a commission, consisting of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General and the Speaker of the House, and three business men to be by them selected, if deemed expedient, to confer with the creditors of the State and report at the next meeting of the General Assembly any proposition that may be submitted by the creditors looking to settlement of the debt question without an increase of taxation.

New York, March 8.-While Henry Schmidt, aged 32, his wife Barbara, aged 32, her mother, Elizabeth Schmidt, aged 60, and their daughter Catherine, aged 18, were sitting at dinner, at 97 1/2 street, they were all taken up with violent sickness, with the exception of Schmidt himself, who under pretense of going to a doctor, went out and did not return. His wife immediately thought he had poisoned them, and succeeded in reaching the street and giving the alarm. Schmidt was afterwards captured in the alleys, but denied the poisoning. He has been out of work for some time past, has repeatedly quarreled with his wife and threatened to put them all out of the way. When searched at the station-house a razor was found on him and also a bottle of arsenic. On the stove of the house in Pitt street was found a pot of milk containing a large quantity of arsenic, and the milk was used in the coffee which the members of the family drank. Physicians state that the girl is out of danger, but that it is hardly probable that the wife or her mother will recover.

A SATISFACTORY VERDICT.-The public generally will be glad to learn that on Saturday last, after being out for twenty-one hours, the jury of the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia brought in a verdict of guilty in the case of Edward Ray, alias E. H. Curtis, indicted for a violent criminal assault at the National Hotel, Washington, in March of last year, upon the person of the young orphan girl, Ella Tydings, of Baltimore. The offense was greatly aggravated by the fact that the girl was taken from Baltimore by Curtis on the false pretense that she was to enter the service of his sister as nurse to her children, and that an orphan was preferred. The maximum penalty for the crime of which Curtis has been convicted, under the District law, is imprisonment for thirty years in the penitentiary, and it is understood that Judge Wylie, before whom Curtis was tried, is disposed to punish him to the full extent of the law.

Richmond, Va., March 7.-Gov. Holliday, in response to a resolution from the Senate, states that he can find no excuse for denial of the State debt. The award and its fruits have nothing to do with and cannot affect that obligation. He opposes the idea of a constitutional convention, as in no way leading to settle the question, and suggests that it would be better to save the creditors the hundreds of thousands the convention would cost. We are shut up to the conclusion that we are bound in honor, and really to pay the debt. It is hardly necessary to spend time in tracing bills to the legislative State treasury. The debt is a moral one, and it is our duty to pay it. It is our duty to pay it in lawful money. It is the only course we can pursue and preserve the credit of the Commonwealth. The resolution of the Committee on the subject of the putting the debt upon the people, as they were contracted for, a constitutional convention to alter and amend the law, is a course which the Commonwealth is now rejecting and without which it would be little better than a wilderness. This bill means to pay interest, not to discharge the debt. In the only way in which it is proposed to pay the debt, the interest is to be paid by the State. The recommendations of my retirement and resignation, when this is done to the utmost, if there is still a deficiency to meet the obligations, then the law must be used to tax, a special stamp tax for many subjects, and even the taxing of church property. Inability, he says, is an excuse that does not affect the obligation. It is not settled by a judicial act, because that is entitled to no standing credit, either of morals or law, but it is a fair and equitable adjustment. He does not think it necessary to establish free schools, nor does he assent to them. If the people want them they must pay for them out of their own means. After all measures have been exhausted and still there is a deficiency, then comes the time for settlement with the creditors. Makes for exhibit all assets and liabilities to those who have a right to know them, and terms will soon be reached.

Richmond, Va., March 10.-A violent snow storm on Friday night and Saturday morning, breaking up all the Pacific railroads; 1, some of the snow drifting fifteen feet. The western divisions of the Union Pacific are now beyond Laramie, but nothing has passed that point eastward. The eastern division is open west to Shiloh. Nothing has passed Antelope creek, where No. 3 passing under the bridge, still remains awaiting repair. Several hundred men together with a number of plows have been engaged to-day between Shiloh and Laramie in endeavor to lift the blockade. The heaviest snow on the road last night was in the mountains, but stuck at the stage. The snow in the cuts is packed very hard, and plows which have been used at 7 A. M. have not made much progress here at 7 P. M.

The Colorado Central train is a Taylor's station, eighteen miles south with plow in the ditch, with the Denver Pacific is in the ditch, with the Denver and Pacific. According to the Richmond Dispatch, the financial straits of Virginia are not as desperate as might be inferred from the recent statements of the Auditor. A million of dollars is due at the treasury on the 15th of June, beside $300,000 on license, and about $100,000 from the Modest-liquor-register tax, making the revenue soon available nearly $1,500,000. Of this amount it is estimated that not over $600,000 will be paid in coupons leaving a handsome sum with which to meet the greatly reduced accruing expenditures. The finance committees of the two houses of the Legislature have determined to report a bill providing that all license taxes shall be paid in lawful money of the United States.

Fully a fourth of this has been for four per cent. of the denomination of fifty and one hundred dollars. The daily sales of bonds by one bank now average a million. It is stated that two city capitalists who have been loaning money on stocks at four per cent. have withdrawn their capital, and yesterday invested $1000,000 in Governments.

Mr. Wade is said to have taken much comfort in his belief in spiritualism. He looked upon death as a mere change of scenes, and his last hours were peaceful and happy. One of his peculiarities was a devotion to ceremony; he would of the decline invitations to visit where he would have worn a "starchy" appearance, as he termed it. Then another striking peculiarity was the dread he entertained against sitting for a picture. He used to often say that he had as much respect for a dentist's office as he had for a photograph gallery.
