

WOODSTOCK, VIRGINIA.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1910.

Senator Swanson.

Former Gov. Swanson's appointment to the Senate will be generally and warmly approved. He should serve as well in that body as he did in the House. He will be no stranger, either, to the proceedings or to his associates. National lawmaking is familiar ground to him, and many of the men now so engaged are old acquaintances. He will simply hang up his hat and go to work.

Mr. Swanson belongs to the younger school of southern politicians—that is to say, to the school composed of men who have come on the scene as actors in public affairs since the civil war. Maj. Daniel, whom Mr. Swanson succeeds, served in that war, and something of his early prestige in politics rested upon his fine record as a soldier. Mr. Swanson, on the other hand, was an infant in arms instead of a soldier in arms at that time, and owes his success in politics entirely to the war in which he had mastered the issues of his time.

The new senator from Louisiana is of this same school. Younger than the Virginian, he was not born until after the civil war had ended. He is new even in the politics of his state, having achieved his influence within the past few years. And he, too, succeeds a man who fought for the Confederacy, and by his fine conduct in the field first endeared himself to his people. Mr. McEnery, like Maj. Daniel, profited in his first appeals for office by the record he had made in the war.

But, although with no war records of their own, these men stand, of course, by the war records made by their people. They cherish the history of their states in all details.

What we are all engaged in now is shaping and executing policies for the benefit of the reunited country. By their own experience, the younger men of the south know the country only in that condition. What they think of it and how far are willing to go in support of it, was attested at the time of the Spanish war, when they offered themselves freely to President McKinley for service in the fields. The south would do well, therefore, in choosing her representatives in the national council, to hold the standard of these two men. They have proved their quality, and are young in years. Should they make good in their new places their services can be commended for a long time. Maj. Daniel at Mr. Swanson's age was just beginning his notable career, while Mr. McEnery at Senator-elect Sanders' age was wholly unknown to national life.—Washington Star.

The Governor To Be Sued.

Suit for $10,000 damages will be instituted this week in Richmond against Governor Mann by J. H. Farmer. The charges in this case are the same as those brought out during Judge Mann's campaign, preceding the primary of August 5, 1909. Farmer holds the governor responsible for his financial ruin.

It will be remembered that Farmer who is a resident of Burkeville, claimed that Judge Mann had, in 1907, promised him that he would act as his attorney in some expected litigation. Later Judge Mann was engaged to represent the other side, for which he prepared an injunction.

The governor does not deny employment by Farmer, but says he forgot it at the time of his retention by Akers Lumber Company and that he would accept no fee from Farmer.

Riots in Texas.

Palestine, Tex., Aug. 1.—With the State Rangers, one company of the Capital City cavalry from Austin and armed citizens doing police duty at Slocum and Elkhart, the little villages are quiet today after two days of the bloodiest rioting between white and blacks in the history of Texas. The bodies of eighteen negroes were buried in a long trench just outside of Slocum yesterday and a house-to-house investigation is being conducted in hope that the state officials may learn the exact number of blacks killed during the fighting. The estimate runs from eighteen to forty, and although but eighteen bodies were found yesterday, one of the deputy sheriffs insists there are five bodies unaccounted for, which would bring the known dead up to 23.

It has been definitely ascertained that no white men were killed. The full extent of the casualties among the negroes may never be known.

Today few negroes could be found who were seriously wounded. It is believed certain that at least a score were fatally shot. This leads to the conclusion that the relatives and friends of the blacks have shielded the injured, in fear of arrest, or have taken them to secluded spots where they died.

A report that four more negroes were killed yesterday in a woods near Elkhart has not been confirmed.

Acute Or Chronic—Which? No matter if your kidney trouble is acute or chronic Foley's Kidney Remedy will reach your case. Mr. Claude Brown, Reynoldsville, Ill., writes us that he suffered many months with kidney complaint which baffled all treatment. At last he tried Foley's Kidney Remedy and a few large bottles did effect a complete cure. He says, "It has been of incalculable value to me." Schmidt's Drug Store.

LEE STATUE WILL REMAIN.

Beverly, Mass., July 31.—President Taft has approved, without comment, an opinion by Attorney-General Wickersham to the effect that there is no provision of law by which the statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee, in Confederate uniform, can be removed from Statuary Hall, in the Capitol at Washington.

In addition to deciding the question on a purely legal basis, Mr. Wickersham argues the matter from an ethical point of view, declaring that Lee has come to be regarded as typifying all that was best in the cause to which he gave his services and the most loyal and unflinching obedience of the complete overthrow of that cause. That the State of Virginia should designate him for a place in Statuary Hall as one of its illustrious and distinguished military service, the Attorney-General says, is but natural and warranted under the reading of the law.

Mr. Wickersham's opinion was called forth by protests to the President from the Department of New York, Grand Army of the Republic. In his opinion, addressed to and approved by the President, the Attorney-General says:

"I have read the resolutions adopted by the Department of New York, Grand Army of the Republic, at Syracuse on June 23, and the communications of Hon. James Tanner with respect to them. The act of July 2, 1864, referred to, provides for the creation of suitable structures and railings in the old hall of the House of Representatives for the reception and protection of statuary, which is to be under the supervision and direction of the chief of engineers in charge of public buildings and grounds, and the statute authorizes the President to invite each and all the States to provide and furnish statues in marble or bronze, not exceeding two in number for each State, of deceased persons who have been citizens thereof, and illustrious for their historic renown or from distinguished civil or military services, such as each State shall deem to be worthy of this national commemoration; and when so furnished the same shall be placed in the old hall of the House of Representatives in the Capitol of the United States, which is apart, or so much thereof as may be necessary, as a national statuary hall for the purposes herein indicated."

NO LIMITATION IN THE ACT. "It is probably true," continues the Attorney-General, "that when this act was passed Congress did not contemplate that any State would designate one or more of its citizens who were then engaged in warlike rebellion against the Government of the United States as persons illustrious for their historic renown or for distinguished civil or military services, whose statues should be placed in this hall. Nevertheless, perhaps in the hope that what Mr. Lincoln so fittingly described as 'this scourge of war' might soon pass away and that a reunited country might be realized, Congress placed no limitation in the act upon the exercise of the discretion of any State in selecting these persons whom it may deem to be worthy of this national commemoration. It is now 45 years since the Civil War closed. Robert E. Lee has come to be generally regarded as typifying not only all that was best in the cause to which, at the behest of his native State, he gave his services, but also the most loyal and unflinching acceptance of the complete overthrow of that cause. That the State of Virginia should designate him as one illustrious for distinguished military service is therefore natural; that his statue should be clothed in the Confederate uniform, thus eloquently testifying to the fact that a magnanimous country has completely forgiven an unsuccessful effort to destroy the Union, and that that statue should be accepted in the national Statuary Hall as the symbol of the acceptance without misgivings, of a complete surrender and a renewed loyalty, should surely provoke no opposition. But at all events, independently of the question of taste, the act of Congress places no restriction upon the designation by the States of those whom they may desire to honor in this way, nor does it vest in any official any censorship concerning the designation of the costume in which a statue shall be depicted under the existing law. I am of the opinion that no objection can be lawfully made to the placing in Statuary Hall of the National Capital of a statue of Robert E. Lee clothed in the Confederate uniform."

They Have A Definite Purpose. Foley Kidney Pills give quick relief in cases of kidney and bladder ailments. Mrs. Rose Glaser Terra Haute, Ind., tells the result in her case.

"After suffering for many years from a serious case of kidney trouble and spending much money for so called cures, I found Foley Kidney Pills the only medicine that gave me a permanent cure. I am again able to be up and about to do my work. I shall never hesitate to recommend them." Walton & Smoot.

As the result of a fire which is supposed to have originated from a spark emitted by a merry-go-round engine, and which is believed to have ignited the hay in a stable, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, 22 buildings in the center of Cambridge, Md., are in ashes, with a possible loss of $250,000.

To keep your health sound; to avoid the ill of advancing years; to conserve your physical forces for a ripe and healthful old age, guard your kidneys by taking Foley's Kidney Remedy at Schmitt's Drug Store.

Jessie and Luin Metz, sisters, were arrested at Parkersburg, W. Va., Sunday charged with poisoning Ex-Judge James A. Watson, whose body was found on the porch at his home, with $2,000, which he was known to have had, missing. The police are searching for men accused of being accomplices.

SENATOR CLAUDE A. SWANSON.

Richmond, Va., August 1.—Gov. Mann, at the stroke of noon today, signed a commission appointing former Gov. Claude A. Swanson of Chatham to succeed the late John W. Daniel in the United States Senate. The appointment is for the unexpired term which will end March 3 next.

Formal notice of Mr. Swanson's appointment will be given to him tomorrow at Surry county courthouse when he rises to deliver a speech at the unveiling of a Confederate monument. The former Government's friends are planning to attend in force and make of the occasion a ceremony of note. There was practically no opposition to the selection of Mr. Swanson for the senatorship. He was serving as a member of Congress when he was elected governor by the democrats a few years ago. He will be a candidate for the full term to succeed himself.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Swanson are prominent socially in Richmond and Washington.

BORN IN PITTSBURGH COUNTY. Claude Augustus Swanson was born March 31, 1862 in the town of Swansville, Pittsylvania county. His parents were John Muse Swanson and Catherine Pritchett. Young Swanson was early put to school, but at the age of fourteen, owing to financial difficulties overtook his father, he was forced to abandon his studies and go to work on the farm. He saved enough money later as a teacher to pay his way for two sessions at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, but was then forced to go to work. He went to Danville near his old home, and secured employment as a clerk in a grocery store and then attended Randolph Macon College for three years, taking the degree of A. B.

In 1886 he entered the University of Virginia and took the degree of bachelor of law, completing in one year the two-year course. Immediately after graduating from the university he located at Chatham and began the practice of law and was successful from the start. In 1896 he was nominated for Congress, and served in the House of Representatives for six terms.

Swanson for ten years was a member of the post office and roads committee, and for eight years a member of the ways and means committee. While a member of the post office committee Representative Swanson interested himself especially in the establishment of a rural free delivery service. When this bill came up for consideration one of the bitterest fights that ever took place in the House was waged against it. Mr. Swanson, with but one other member of the post office committee stood out in a two-week debate against the other members of the committee and won a great victory.

Mr. Swanson was elected Governor of Virginia in 1905 over Judge Lewis (Republican) by the largest majority of any governor since the civil war.

The public school system, extending from the primary school to the college and university, was greatly stimulated during his term. He vigorously recommended and advocated large appropriations for the school system, and under his administration the high schools in the state alone increased from 74 to about 350, and many new schoolhouses were erected.

The Quality Music House is preparing to build a new ware-room as they will have to vacate their present room as it is the intention to convert it into living rooms. This is now the time to get the best grade of pianos and organs at the lowest prices, such pianos as the Hallett and Davis, Henderson and other good pianos, as regards the tone of the Henderson pianos they are noted for a wonderfully long vibration and singing quality in the center, and exceptionally bright, clear, musical and refined tone, with a satisfactory amount of brilliancy, and a broad, full, even smooth bass. The fine tone does not disappear with age, but retains its original fullness and richness to a remarkable degree. Call or write for prices.

Harry Ritener our blacksmith has a black Plymouth Rock here that lays two eggs every other day she has been doing this for the past two months, she has her nest in the blacksmith shop and has been closely watched. She drops the first egg about 9 a. m. and in the course of 30 minutes returns to the nest and in short while the second egg in the nest. Our town has remarkable chickens, both as to sitting roosters and laying hens.

Dr. Shaver's Lambert Automobile arrived here on Monday and he is much pleased with it. He can now visit his patients in quick time.

MT. JACKSON.

The bridge that spans the Shenandoah River leading from Bridge street after being closed to the public for the past few weeks and which caused great inconvenience to residents on both sides of the river is again open to the public. The extensive repairs being finished travel is again resumed.

The flood which devastated the bottom land all along the valley in May dislodged the center support of the bridge which left it in a tottering and unsafe condition which necessitated immediate action of the board of supervisors. The contract for its repair was awarded to the Roanoke Bridge Co. and very fortunately they sent Mr. W. W. Rust one of the most practical and high grade bridge builders in the country to carry out the contract.

Mr. Rust is an experienced bridge builder having built some of the largest and finest bridges that spans the streams of the continent.

The quality of the work done here speaks for itself and shows Mr. Rust to be a master bridge builder and repairer. The bridge as it stands to day is vastly more secure than ever before and is fully able to withstand the ravages of the elements for all time to come.

Mr. Rust with his assistants made many warm friends during their stay in our town.

BIG FIRE AT QUICKSBURG.

A fire of unknown origin, broke out in the store room of C. A. Pence at an early hour Monday morning, and before the flames were subdued, his dwelling house, a blacksmith shop owned by H. H. Moyer, and an adjoining stable, the property of C. L. Zirkle, were burned to the ground.

Notwithstanding the early discovery of the fire, the inadequate fire-fighting facilities of the little town were powerless to cope with the flames, and only by hard work were some of the household effects of Mr. Pence saved.

The store room was comparatively new and well filled with a stock of general merchandise. These were a total loss.

When the flames were discovered it took some time to arouse the citizens, and before their arrival the fire had gained such headway that all efforts to save any of the stock of merchandise were futile.

The store, building, stock, dwelling house and contents were insured in the W. L. Deebert Insurance Agency, of Harrisonburg, for $3,000, which will partially cover the loss.

Mr. Pence did a splendid mercantile business, and it is said that he will rebuild as soon as necessary plans can be made.

LANTZ'S MILL.

The dry weather is telling on the corn and gardens.

The Following Ordinances Were Passed by Council of Town of Woodstock, Va., on Aug. 2, 1910.

Be it ordained by the Council of the town of Woodstock, Va., that section 6 of Article 3, of the Water Ordinances of the Town be amended so as to read as follows: Sec. 6. Fifteen days before the water rent shall be payable, as provided by sec. 1 of this article and ordinance, the Supt. shall furnish the Treasurer of the Town with a correct list of all persons to whom water is supplied, and the sum payable by each, for water rent, and he shall file with the Recorder of the Council a receipt from the Treasurer, showing the aggregate of such rents. The Treasurer shall keep an account thereof in his office, and shall have bills made out for the same, showing the amount due, and the amount which will be due, and on the first day of Jan. and July of each year, shall mail a notice to each consumer on his list, setting forth the amount due, that it is payable on or before the 10th of Jan. or July, respectively, at the office of the Treasurer, and that if the same is not paid by that date, a penalty of 5 per cent. will be added.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Town of Woodstock, Va., that section 7 of article 3, of the water ordinances of said town, be amended so as to read as follows: Sec. 7. If a bill for water shall remain unpaid for 20 days after it becomes due, it shall be returned to the Treasurer by the Collector, and the Treasurer shall at once notify the Water Supt., who shall immediately cause the water to be stopped from the premises or tenement in regard to which the fault exists, and the Water Supt. shall have no authority to do any thing else but turn off said water. When water has been cut off for non-payment, it shall not be turned on again except upon the payment of the full amount of water rent due, with 5 per cent. penalty, and a fee of $1, and when this payment has been made, the Treasurer shall direct the Water Supt. to turn said water on again.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Town of Woodstock, Va., that sec. 9 of Article 3, of water ordinances of said town be amended to read, as follows: Sec. 9. The Treasurer shall add 5 per cent to all bills remaining unpaid 10 days after they are due, and the same over to the Collector, who shall immediately proceed to collect the same, subject to provisions of sec. 6 and 7 of the article.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Town of Woodstock, Va., that the rate of speed by automobiles, through this town, shall be no greater than 12 miles an hour, and that the fine for the violation of this ordinance shall be not less than $5 nor more than $50. All former ordinances fixing rate of speed for automobiles through this town, are hereby repealed.

Buggy Hit By Automobile. Last Friday morning about eight o'clock an automobile belonging to and driven by Mr. Frank Holt of Staunton, collided with a buggy in the Mt. Crawford bridge, throwing the occupant, Miss Jennie Fleming, of near Mt. Crawford, out and painfully cutting her face and breast. Miss Fleming was on her way to attend the U. B. convention in Harrisonburg, and was about two thirds the way through the long covered bridge just south of Mt. Crawford, when suddenly without a moment's warning the Holt automobile darted in at the other end, crashing into the buggy and throwing Miss Fleming forward over the wheel. A physician pronounced the wounds not serious, although they bled profusely. The car, a Pierce-Arrow, had as its occupants, Frank Holt, Dr. Callit, L. L. Bowman, the man who was injured Friday night, in the automobile accident, and the latter's brother, Neal, and was on his way to Staunton.
