CHAS. M. KEEZELL LOSES HARRISONBURG POSTOFFICE.

Harrisonburg, Va., Dec. 12.—Chas. M. Kezell was removed from his office as postmaster of Harrisonburg and the name of Wilmer L. Dechert, a widely known insurance man and a wealthy citizen of the town, is already before the authorities in Washington as the successor.

It is regarded as an assured fact that Mr. Dechert will be the next postmaster. It is reported that Randolph Heeneberger will succeed Paul D. Woot as assistant postmaster.

Postmaster Kezell has been under fire for several years, under charge of pernicious political activity. During the recent campaign for congress in this district a number of postoffice inspectors were hovering over various portions of the district, and now it is reported Kezell's head is not the only one slated to come off.

It appears now that the John Paul's faction, backed by the national administration, is getting into the saddle after a tiresome wait of fourteen years. It is an open secret that Commissioner of Revenue Roy Cabell, together with Postmaster-General Hitchcock and the department, have backed up Paul in his effort to wrench the district from the old Acker-Kezell regime.

After the district convention Charlottesville split and nominated John Paul and H. S. Lupton for congress, the state committee met in Roanoke, and allowed both candidates to stay in the field.

Then it was understood that the dispute should be decided at the polls, while the administration kept "hands off," but in the midst of the campaign, John Paul was appointed Federal referee and a letter from Postmaster-General Hitchcock was published in a local paper wishing Paul success at the polls.

It is reported that postmasters and their friends throughout the district then fell over themselves in the rush to get on the John Paul band wagon. On election day John Paul got nearly a thousand votes more than Euphon, his factional opponent, although Jas. Hay, Democrat, carried the district by a safe majority.

LYNCHBURG "WETS" WIN BY 85 VOTES.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 9.—After having been no-license territory since March, 1909, Lynchburg to-day voted to return to the open saloon, the majority being eighty-five votes in a total vote counted of 2,653. The result came as a surprise to the leaders of the Anti-Saloon League, who were confident of victory until they failed to secure half the majority they expected in the First Precinct of the First Ward.

The "wets" generally entered the fight with a feeling of doubt, but their hopes began to rise early in the afternoon, and by the time the polls closed at 5 o'clock they were sanguine of victory.

The result hinged on the Second Precinct of the Second Ward, for all of the precincts were returned an hour unofficially before this one came. Up to that the "drys" had a majority of twenty-three. No one expected to see such a vote as the "wets" had in the hardest fought battle seen in Lynchburg for many a year.

The vote was the largest here for years, and it is now apparent that the "wets" won their victory months ago for victory came to them in the payment of the capitation taxes last June and the registration in October. Here, the canvass by the "drys" during the campaign showed, was the Waterloo of the no-license advocates, for they found they had failed to qualify more than 400 men who could have voted had they been as alert as the "wets" were in the premises.

A statement was given out at the Anti-Saloon League headquarters when defeat seemed certain, that the result will be contested, a notice of which will be filed within the required ten days. The principal ground for such a contest, it is said, will be in the failure of all but one of the registrars to require a written application for registration, as seems to be provided for by statute. This contest will probably operate to prevent the opening of the saloons for some time. The result came as a surprise and a distinct shock to the "drys," and few of the "wets" were prepared for the reversal. Two years ago, in a total vote of 1,051, the city voted "dry" by a majority of 191. This was contested by the "wets" but was decided against them, and the saloons closed March 6, 1909.

It cannot be stated, of course, when the saloons will reopen. The election was orderly, and a good spirit was seen at the polls among the workers. The only incident of note during the day was the issuance of a warrant for the arrest of a negro, who is alleged to be a resident of Campbell county and who voted in the First Ward.

Ends Winter's Troubles.
To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost bitten toes and fingers, chapped hands and lips, chills, colds, sore throats and rough skins, prove this. GENERAL INFORMATION.
The County School Board makes it obligatory for teachers in the County to attend the Institute. The teachers will be paid for these two days by the District School Boards. Let every teacher be present promptly at the opening and remain to the close of the Institute.

All persons wishing the committee to engage boarding for them, and parties desiring to be located at the same place, will notify the chairman or the committee, Prof. W. G. D. Wine, Woodstock, Va. All meetings will be held in Court House, Woodstock.

THE CHRISTMAS VACATION.
The teachers will close their respective schools on Tuesday evening, December 20, 1910, at 4 p. m., to remain closed until Tuesday, January 3, 1911 a. m. The following days Wednesday and Thursday, December 21 and 22, will be the time of the Institute. The roll of teachers will be called twice each day, and only those attending the Institute will be paid for these two days. No schools must be opened under any circumstances during this Institute and Christmas period. Teachers opening their schools at any time from Dec. 21st until January 3rd will not be paid for the time teaching during the period. Supplies of all kinds will be at the Superintendent's office, Woodstock, and he will be glad to see teachers during the Institute at said place.

The monthly reports for December should be returned to the Division Superintendent on the opening morning of the Institute. If this is done promptly by all teachers, the superintendent will arrange to have the December salary of teachers paid by the county treasurer at the close of the Institute.

MAJ. RERTOWN.

Mr. Lee Sager received four hundred rabbits for shipment last Tuesday.

Mr. Ed. Rutz, while butchering, made a mis-cut, his knife striking his wrist severing the tendons and a blood vessel. The blade of the knife struck the bone. Mr. Rutz, who lives about 4 miles northwest of this place, lost considerable blood and is relieved of work for some time.

Mrs. Lutholtz who broke her hip a few days past is doing well.

Many of our people were in Woodstock Monday keeping up the old custom of monthly gathering, court or no court.

Martin Conner has gone to Washington on a business trip for a few days.

Services at Brethren church in this place Sunday morning, and evening.

Mr. John W. Hockman is suffering from a severe attack of sciatic.

We are anticipating the coming of Mrs. Meredith who will be a welcome visitor to this place and Edinburg where she has many friends.

Miss Zola Gochenour will soon be among us and take charge of the school adjacent to our village.

So say those who seem to know.

Mr. Roy Armstrong of Arkton, has moved to Mr. J. M. Gochenour's home where he will live. Mr. Armstrong is a first class carpenter, and will work with Mr. Sidney Newman during the coming season.

Jeris Stark who has purchased the merchandise stock from Z. Dean, is making a number of friends and it looks to us that he is an up-to-date merchant.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Meridith, of Parkersburg, W. Va., arrived here on Monday evening. Mr. Meridith has been auditor on the B. & O. R. for the past four years. He is now here visiting his brother-in-law's family W. E. Shaver. He has a vacation until January 1st, 1911.

Mrs. Emma Lamberson, of Friends, Pa., who was called here by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Samatha Robinson returned to her home Tuesday.

Mack Wetzel purchased the home of W. O. Keller and will take possession March 1st, 1911.

The Maurertown Mills have more orders for flour than they can fill, they are receiving daily orders from as far south as Florida. These mills manufacture the best of flour.

Miss Mary Fetzner returned from her visit with her brother Conductor L. C. Fetzner, of Strasburg on Monday.

Mrs. R. L. Newland and son Joe, returned home last week.

We are again promised a graded school building to be ready for occupancy next fall school term. We have been promised this for the past two years. Hope they will not have us to live and digest on their promises again. If any town needs a school building it is ours.

Congress is now in session and the country will know at an early date what to expect in the amount of legislation that is to be ground out before March 4th. Going at its usual speed he body will get through possibly with the appropriation bills and a few ordinary measures before adjournment, under the circumstances, however, it is not wise to expect unusual activity with favorable or unfavorable efforts. On business the prospect being largely a matter of promise according to the views held by the observer.

HARRISVILLE.

James Palmer, 57 years old, died at his home near Mt. Olive Saturday night at 12 o'clock. He had been in failing health for some years but his condition was not serious until he took pneumonia a week ago. He leaves a wife and a large family of children. The funeral services were conducted from Hebron church by his pastor, Rev. Dike, of Toms Brook, and of the United Brethren church.

M. L. Conner, of this place, sold his home to Jake Keller of Mt. Olive. It contained 13 acres of land, together with buildings. The price paid was $1,450. Possession is to be given in March.

On Saturday night Lafayette Rosenberg, 53 years old, who was known as Fred, died at his home two miles east of Toms Brook. He was afflicted with tuberculosis and for the last two years had been confined to his home. He was the son of William and Mary Rosenberg and had never married. He lived at home with two of his sisters. Funeral services were conducted from St. Johns Reformed Church at Harrisville by Rev. J. M. Souder, of Edinburg. Interment was made in St. Johns cemetery.

Wrecks and Cats and Dogs.
There is an old proverb in the English law on wrecks. It used to be that wrecks, like pretty nearly everything else, belonged to the king. Sometimes, if a vessel were only partly wrecked and it could be raised, an owner was averse to surrendering it, but it was generally seized for the king in accordance with the law until the question came up as to just what was a wreck. It was generally admitted that when all hands were lost that was a wreck, but as they wanted to get as narrow a definition as they could they got parliament to establish a law that in future nothing shall be considered a wreck out of which a cat or a dog escapes alive, and from that time until the present day no vessel coasts about England without carrying a cat or dog.

Canvas Currency.
Banknotes appear in much the same form throughout the world and have always done so except in China, where the earliest note was made of canvas, some six centuries before the Christian era. It was made like a tablecloth than a banknote. Its length being about two meters, or six feet six inches. This form of note was not very convenient when large sums were concerned, so later the note was printed on parchment, and all other forms of money were suppressed. One emperor, named notes representing more than three thousand millions. But the money was never popular, and gradually the notes were outlawed.

Charlotte Cushman's Warning.
One icy night Charlotte Cushman and Lawrence Barrett came out of the theater together. The steps were dangerously slippery, and it was with difficulty that they kept their feet at all. As they tottering descended the great actress said to her companion quite in her Lady Macbeth manner: "Take a good grip on my arm, Lawrence, or if I slip hold on like grim death. But if you slip in the name of heaven I go!"

William Bauserman.

Mr. William Bauserman, died at the Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia on Thursday. He had been operated on at the hospital a few days ago. Pneumonia followed the operation. He was a well known farmer of the Jadvyn neighborhood.

He is survived by his widow, four brothers, Messrs. M. L. and A. E., of Woodstock, David, of Strasburg, and Angus, of Toms Brook and two sisters, Mrs. Aaron Bushong and Miss Leah Bauserman. His body will be brought to his home today.

Nicholas Spittler.
After an illness of several months of dropsy, Nicholas Spittler died at the residence of his son with whom he made his home, three miles north of Liberty Furnace in this county, last Wednesday; aged about 82 years.

Meeting at his late home at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, his funeral was held from St. Paul's Lutheran church, of which he was a member, his pastor Rev. A. R. Beck, officiating.

Hundreds of rabbits are being caught in the snow. It is more than probable that many birds are meeting a like fate.

There have been many good hogs butchered about here this fall notwithstanding the high price and scarcity of feed of all kinds. Some very odd points develop sometimes in connection with butchering where several veteran butchers cross knives, for instance one old butcher could not shoot a hog and the other could not stick it, and still another has a way of making pudding that is making him famous. Ask Pete.

Incapacitated.
"The fussy individual who always has a run in with the waiter never fares any better than the rest of us who are satisfied to take things as they come," said the houseless back elor. "I took breakfast with one of these fussers the other morning in a little cafe up town that was new to both of us."

"All he wanted was a cup of coffee and a couple of boiled eggs. But you might have thought the universe depended upon those eggs. After having given the waiter minute instructions as to their preparation, he sat with his watch in his hands."

"Finally the eggs came, and there was a lot more powwow. As he cracked the shell of one he turned to the waiter and said, 'Are you sure these eggs are positively fresh?'"

"And the waiter, who had watery eyes and a very red nose, replied with all seriousness: 'I really can't say, sir. I have a frightful cold in my head.'"

A Queer Freak.
Milrean, who was said to have been connected with some of the best families in France and to have possessed considerable means until ruined by the Panama canal disaster, was one of the best friends the beggars of Paris ever had, and to obtain funds for helping them he became a systematic thief. He used to frequent the fashionable street during the day and pick pockets, and by night, dressed in ragged clothes, he dispensed the spoils to the first beggars he met. For years he continued the practice without being suspected and it was by pure chance that he eventually fell into the hands of the police. When his lodgings were searched sufficiently empty purses were found to fill a large packing case, and it was made clear that he had stolen hundreds of watches and scarfpins, while he had been pinching and con- triving to live a respectable man on a few francs a week saved from the ruin of his fortune.

The Literary Man.
When I get home where I live at I will remove my wife's new hat from my desk and my daughter's socks and my wee baby's building blocks, three spoons of thread, some taffing frames, a box or two of cut out games, some scissors and my wife's new waists, a box of tacks and some tooth paste, a cookbook and a sewing kit, some letters that my wife has writ, some apple cores the kids put there, one or two wads of handmade hair, a bottle of shoe polish, too, a hairbrush and a baby shoe, some stockings that are worth a darn, a skein or two of darning yarn, a picture book or two or three, a picture babe has drawn for me, a rubber ball, a piece of gum, some picture postcards and a drum. I'll do all that when I get home and then write an immortal poem that will have Swinburne double crossed—if all my pencils are not lost.—Houston Post.
