TUESDAY JANUARY 13, 1880.

Seasonable Poetry.

Maud Muller, on a Winter's day, Went out upon the ice to play.

Beneath her Dearly gleaned her locks Of red banded hair, and her crimson socks.

She straddled about from ten to two, And then a hole, in the ice fell through.

On the bottom of the pond she sat, As wet and mad as a half-drowned rat.

A man with a hickory pole went there, And fished her out by her Auburn hair;

And her mother is said to have thumped her well, Though just how hard Miss Maud won't tell.

And hung her over a stovepipe to dry, With a thumb in her mouth and a fist in her eye.

Alas! for the maiden; alas! for the hole, And 'rah! for the man with the hickory pole;

For the truest words of tongue or pen Are, "a skating girl's like a headless hen."

Sleep.

John G. Saxe has written a good many funny poems in his day, but nothing, for genuine wit and humor, to surpass "Sleep."

"God bless the man who first invented Sleep!"

So Sanchez Panza said, and so say I; And bless him also that he didn't keep His great discovery to himself; or try To make it—as the lucky fellow might—A close monopoly by "patent right!"

Yes, bless the man who first invented sleep!

(I really can't avoid the iteration!) But blast the man with curses loud and deep, What'er the rascal's name, or age, or station, Who first invented, and went round advising, That artificial cut-off—"early rising!"

"Rise with lark, and with the lark to bed,"

Observes some solemn, sentimental owl—

Maxims like these are very cheaply said; But ere you make yourself a fool or fowl,

Pray just inquire about their rise or fall, And whether larks have any beds at all!

The "time for honest folks to be a-bed!"

Is in the morning, if I reason right; And he who cannot keep his precious head

Upon his pillow till it's fairly light, And so enjoy his forty morning winks, Is up—to knavery; or else—he drinks!

Thompson, who sung about the "seasons," said

It was a glorious thing to rise in season;

But then he said it—lying—in his bed—

At ten o'clock A. M.—the very reason He wrote so charmingly. The simple fact is

His preaching was sanctioned by his practice!

"Tis doubtless well to be sometimes awake—

Awake to duty and awake to truth—

But when, alas! a nice reverie we take

Of our best beds and days, we find, In sooth,

The hours that leave the slightest cause to weep,

Are those we passed in childhood, or—in sleep!

'Tis beautiful to leave the world awhile

For the soft visions of the gentle night!

And free at last from mortal care and guile,

To live as only in the Angels' sight;

In sleep's sweet realms cozily shut in,

Where, at the worst, we only DREAM of sin!

So let us sleep and give the Maker praise,

Like the lad who, when his father thought

To clip his morning nap by hackneyed phrase

Of vagrant worm by early songster caught,

Cried, "Served him right! It's not an ill surprise,

The worm was punished, sir, for early rising."

St. Nicholas for December, of which three editions have already been sold, is again out of print, and a fourth edition is being prepared. The supply of the bound volume of St. Nicholas for 1879, also gave out before Christmas, and this will be printed. The regular monthly issue of St. Nicholas has reached 70,000. In the February number, which will be delayed until about the 24th of January, will appear two poems by Alfred Tennyson, one of them set to music, and both written for St. Nicholas. The frontispiece of this number will be a reproduction, by permission, of the mezzotint engraving of Millais' splendid painting of "The Princess in the Tower," for which the artist was paid £3,000 and the engraver, Mr. Cousins, 1,000 guineas.

Noyes missed a great opportunity when he suffered himself to be rescued from drowning in the Dead Sea which holds all the salt of Lot's wife in solution. That was his last hope of salvation. No other body of water on earth holds salt enough in concentrated solution to save him.—Nashville American.

JOB WORK of all kinds neatly executed at the News Office

After the Nashville Cows.

The following, if it does nothing else, will serve to illustrate the humor in which the Editor of that first-class paper, the Nashville American, is left after his Christmas indulgence:

From a notice posted on the gate of the capitol we infer that, added to her other file, Tennessee is troubled by cows.

Persons who own cows around the capitol are warned that if they are found, levanted and couchant, damage feared, on those grounds, they will be duly impounded. It is a sad state of affairs that this proud old State which fit into the revolution, followed the stars and stripes in the Indian war and did service at New Orleans, shed brave blood in Mexico, and furnished good men to two sides in the late difference of opinion, should be browed on by repudiators, trodden upon by jackasses, nibbled to death by gossings, and then have her capitol pastured over by vagrant cows.

The old story of the woman who mourned over her husband that he'd scalped Indians in the Mississippi, bled at New Orleans and fit at Choptepec only to come home and be butted to death by a darned billy goat. And that is not the worst of it. It cows now, but before we get through with it, if there is not some change in affairs, the owls and the bats will be in possession. The praiseworthy efforts of our worthy Capitol Superintendent to preserve the grounds in his care are commendable; but even the dumb beasts have somehow arrived at the conclusion that Tennessee is fair game.
