W. L. Ticknor and family, the Iles boys and others went fishing Friday night and caught a fine lot of fish. They also got wet and narrowly escaped disaster in the high water.

The heavy rain last Friday night and Saturday morning was the heaviest for this year. Elk creek was higher than it has been since 1885, and considerable damage to crops and farm land on the bottoms was the result. The approach to the wagon bridge north of town was washed out and many culverts and small bridges in the vicinity were also washed out. There was some damage done to the railroad bridge just north of town that was repaired in time for the train to pass on time. On the Jacob Greve farm the water was three feet deep in the house. Mr. Blau lost 21 stand of bees on the same farm and sustained other losses.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from colera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio. Sold by all druggists.

Henry Brown seems to be spending much of his leisure time at croquet at Mr. Atchison's. Be careful Henry, people are becoming suspicious.

Geo. Bickel who has been working at fishing for some time is coming back soon. Three months is a long time for a fellow to stay away from his best girl. Isn't it, George.

We saw a handsome young lady the other day while driving by Capt. Gibson's, stop and give Andrew West a letter. We don't want to meddle, Andrew, but it does look a little suspicious.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form. For sale by all druggists."

A grain of sand in the eye can cause excruciating agony. A grain of pepper in place of the grain of sand intensifies the torment. The pain is not confined to the organs affected. The whole body feels the shock of that little irritating particle. It is so when there is any derangement or disorder of the delicate womanly organs. The disorder may seem trivial but the whole body feels it. The nervous system is disordered. There are fretfulness, irritability, silliness and depression of spirits. The general health of women depends on the local health of the organs peculiarly feminine. Remove the drains, ulcerations, bearing down pains, and other afflictions of women and the whole body feels the benefit. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a specific for the diseases that undermine the strength of women. It is free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics, poisons which enter into many other preparations for women's use. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Estimate of His Opponent.

It appears that the estimate which the public has formed of Congressman J. P. Dolliver and Champ Clark, who will discuss "Imperialism" at the Ottawa Chautauqua assembly July 17 is also entertained by the statesmen themselves for each other. A Washington letter says: "Dolliver of Iowa is 'seeing himself as others see him.' The things said of him as a vice presidential possibility might turn the head of one less gifted with a sense of humor. A friend asked the lowan the other day if he had seen General Grosvenor's highly complimentary endorsement of his availability for second place. 'Yes' said Dolliver, 'I saw it. And do you know that after reading all that Grosvenor said about me, I wondered why he didn't advocate the withdrawal of McKinley and the nomination of me for first place.' During the past winter Champ Clark and Dolliver gave several joint discussions on political issues under the auspices of lecture bureaus. They went far enough in the new field of entertainment to discover there was more money in it than in statesmanship. Clark, from close association, acquired rather a remarkable opinion of Dolliver. 'If I were the political or legal adviser of the Republican party,' he says, 'I would unhesitatingly urge it to nominate Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver for vice-president. In my judgement he is the greatest living political orator, using that much abused term in its proper sense. A physical athlete with a marvelous gift of speech, in the flower of his years, in the prime of his splendid powers, with a commanding presence, he would make a stumping campaign and arouse intense enthusiasm and live in history.'"

You assume no risk when you buy Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All druggists will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using it. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant, safe and reliable. 7-1-4m

Cyclone Story.

The fellows down east think such stories as the following, clipped from the Inter-Ocean, describe the actions of the cyclone about as they are and that we have one such about every fifteen minutes in this country.

WICHITA, Kan., June 26.—Martin Bengé and family, who reside on a farm near Laraed, had a most peculiar ride a few nights ago. Shut up in a cyclone cave, they sped across the prairies of western Kansas on the wings of a full-fledged tornado. Bengé says it beats an automobile all to pieces, although he has never tried an auto. But riders of horseless carriages cannot well dispute him because few of them ever mounted a Kansas tornado and came out without a scratch.

When Bengé came to Kansas from the East a couple of years ago he deecided that cyclones were just a little too frequent for him, so he set to work building a first-class cave. He built it out of brick and stone and plastered it all over with cement. Then he covered the cave with dirt, leaving only a small entrance. This has served as a place of refuge in times of storm for the last two years. But there has never been a real tornado in that section until last week.

The clouds lowered and darkened early in the afternoon of Thursday. Bengé came home from the field, and he and his wife and their three children stood in the back yard and watched the swirling mass in the heavens. About 5 o'clock a funnel-shaped cloud came bouncing along at a 2-40 clip. Here and there it would dip down and take up farmhouses, cows, and horses. The Bengés ran for the cellar. They closed the door and defied the tornado to do its worst. What followed can best be described in Mr. Bengé's own words. He said:

"We could hear the storm approaching. Houses and flocks passed over us. We heard the house creak and split. Then it was lifted up and carried away. We sat quiet, thinking it was over, when all of a sudden we felt ourselves rising. My wife clutched at me, and I clutched at the floor. The cave swayed back and forth and we lay flat on the floor. For an hour it seemed—but I guess it was only a few minutes—we experienced such a ride as only few have taken. Then it stopped. We lay perfectly still until all was quiet. I ventured to open the cave door. We were in the middle of a wheat field, and debris was scattered all about. It was fully a mile from our farm. You may not believe it, but, sure as I live, not a stone or brick was torn out of that cave. Our house was torn to pieces. I cannot understand why the cave was undisturbed, but suppose it was picked up by a straight wind current."

In the cyclone that visited the section of country near Larned a dozen homes were wrecked, but no one was killed.
