SELF-IMPOSED LEADERS.

The curse of the people's party today is a few fellows who have constituted themselves as the chosen leaders and to get themselves in print away from home, and in some paper with a large circulation, show how little they know about the real situation and also their ignorance of political questions. Last week's Nonconformist contained a three columns of matter from some fellow down at Washington, by the name of Thornton, who gives his personal views and brands them as official, and the generally very sensible editor of the widely circulated paper commends the egotistical writer.

Mr. Thornton in giving his reasons why the people's party should drop everything but the silver question and why the land question should not be made a part of the platform in '96, and in speaking of the followers of the "Single Tax" he says: "We have a few thousand intelligent, enthusiastic single-taxers with no political organization whose single doctrine of "taxing land value" is neither widely known nor well understood. With most able advocacy it has in fifteen years made but small progress among the masses. In the very nature of things its progress must be slow since it comes in direct conflict with one of the deepest-seated instincts of our people, that of individual absolute land ownership. The one class in which this doctrine has not made and cannot at present make much progress is the farming class which constitutes the back-bone of the populist party. Besides, the single-taxers are almost universally free-traders and generally favor the gold standard."

It is very evident that the writer does not understand the doctrine of single tax or he would not have said that it "comes in conflict with one of the deepest-seated instincts of our people, that of individual absolute land ownership." The whole doctrine of the single tax is to strike the shackles from the producers of this country by making all improvements free from taxation or in other words to not fine a person for improving and cultivating his property, and instead of taking away the homes of the people the idea is to make land speculation unprofitable by taxing vacant land as heavily as the occupied. And instead of being a detriment to the "farming class which constitutes the backbone of the people's party" it would turn the thing around. The farmers pay 70 percent of the taxes today. By an application of the land or single tax they would pay less than 10 percent.

Mr. Thornton further charges that they "are almost universally free traders." You bet they are, and so are thousands of democrats and republicans and nine-tenths of the populists. The first demand of the Omaha platform is, "equal rights to all and special privileges to none," and no other construction can be placed on the doctrine of free trade.

The gentleman in finishing up his article and giving his reasons why his ideas should not be thrown aside says,

"I am a populist. I saw the party born. I have given five of the best years of my life to its service." All of which may be true and it may not. The last sentence is to be taken with a great deal of salt. The gentleman may have given the best years of his life, but as we have gotten along so far very well for a new party and have so far acted without the advice of the Washington gentleman, Kansas populists and especially those of Reno county will stand by the Omaha platform until a better one can be framed, and it will not be a one-gallop-it-one either.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN.

The apparent hopelessness of their cause and the doubt attending the success of their county ticket this fall will make desperate the court house ring, and there is nothing mean, low or devilish that they won't resort to for success. They will burn a court house or starve a pauper on the poor farm if it will make them votes for the republican ticket. Two years ago the democrats in Sumner township nominated a ticket by petition heading the petition democratic ticket. The republicans had no ticket in that township for township officers. The petition sent up to the court house was mutilated. The names of the township candidates were printed on the republican ticket to insure votes for the republican county ticket. This was a deliberate fraud concocted by the court house ring. They will avail themselves of every opportunity to mislead and deceive the people. Every honest voter in Reno county should constitute himself a committee to watch the operations of the bandits and thieves known as the court house ring, and spot them at once and keep your eyes open.

LABOR DAY.

Last Monday was Labor Day and it was so recognized by every man who had a job in the city; that is, he labored all day. At Topeka J. R. Barton and John J. Ingalls talked to about 1,500, and told how little they knew of labor questions. This is especially true of Burton's speech, who in making a comparison of man and other animals said: "Labor marks the line which separates man from the lower order of animals." This is the kind of talk he uses hoping to land himself into the U. S. senate. Ingalls speech was the same as usual. He denied that the working men were doomed to perpetual toil, and to prove it he held up Vanderbilt, Edison and John D. Rockefeller, as examples, and as a means to break away from perpetual toil he told them to invent something which would make them rich. At Kansas City, Hon. Jerry Simpson spoke to an immense crowd of 15,000 working men and taught the doctrine of truth and righteousness according to the new dispensation as laid down to the children of men at Omaha, July 4, 1892.
