ESTABLISHED 1886.

GOODLAND, KANSAS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1901.

NO. 10.

HE COULDN'T LOSE THEM.

The College Professor Told the Lost Italians to Stay with Him and They Did So.

There were 20 Italians in the party, and not one of them spoke English. They were going somewhere near Boston to work on a truck farm, and while they had their tickets, they did not know how to get to their train, and the gateman could not make them understand that they were too early. Through some oversight they had been sent up from Mulberry street without the usual guardian, an Italian who speaks English. They were anxious and jabbered excitedly in their native tongue. A Columbia university professor, who was going to Boston and who spoke Italian, took pity on them, says the New York Tribune.

"You stay with me," he said in Italian, "and I'll get you on the train. I'm going your direction."

The swarthy Italian faces beamed. One of the younger men, who had been badly frightened and thought himself lost, threatened to kiss the professor's hand. All of them spoke their thanks profusely. The professor sat down on one of the benches and began to read. The Italians grouped themselves as near as possible and watched him.

Ten minutes later the professor saw some women whom he knew enter the station. He went across the room to speak with them, forgetting all about having told the Italians to "stay with me." They had not forgotten, however, and started after him like a pack of sheep. The professor's friends did not know what to make of the picturesque and dirty bodyguard.

"Are these some of your students?" asked one.

"No, not exactly," stammered the professor, waving his Italian friends back to their seats; a vain effort, by the way, for the Italians were determined to stay with him.

"They look like tramps," began the other women. "O, professor, are you going to write one of those labor books like Mr. Wyckoff's?"

At last the train was announced, and the professor guided his herd through the gate. He thought he had washed his hands of them when he put them into the smoker. They noticed that he did not follow, however, and speedily got out again. The leader saw him enter the chair car at the rear of the train, and every Italian followed him on the run. They did not understand the porter, who told them to keep off, and pushed their way into the car. The professor finally got them seated in the proper car and spent half the journey wishing he had never learned Italian.

British Degenerating.

According to Arnold White, an English critic, the inhabitants of the British Isles are degenerating physically. He bases his conclusions on the results of recruiting for the Boer war. In the Manchester district alone 8,000 out of 11,000 men who offered themselves for military service were certified unfit to endure a soldier's life.—Chicago Chronicle.

Ten New Commandments.

I. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading, nor thy son nor thy daughter.

II. Thou shalt patronize thy home merchants and thy home printer, for yes, verily, doth thy home printer spread over the glad tidings of thy goodness and greatness and they shall patronize thee.

III. Thou shalt employ thy own mechanics, that they may not be driven from their homes to find bread for their little ones. Thou shalt also consider him thy neighbor, above all, that dwelleth in a strange town.

IV. Thou shalt not ask for credit as goods cost much money and the merchant's brain is burdened with bills. His children clamor daily for bread, and his wife abideth at home for lack of such raiment as adorneth her sister. Blessed ye, thrice blessed, is the man that pays cash.

V. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices for thine "influence," for guile is in thine heart, and the merchant readeth it like a book. He laugheth thee to scorn, and shouteth to his clerks, "Ha, ha!"

VI. Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote the welfare of thine own town and thine own people.

VII. Thou shalt not suffer the voice of pride to overcome thee, and if other towns entice thee, consent thou not, for thou mayest be deceived.

VIII. Thou shalt spend thine earnings at home, that they may return from whence they came, and give nourishment to such as may come after thee.

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town wherein thou dwellest, but speak well of it to all men.

X. Thou shalt keep these commandments and teach them to thy children even unto the third and fourth generations, that they be made to flourish and grow in plenty when thou art laid to rest with thy fathers.—Muscatel Record.

BUYING LAND IN THIS COUNTY.

Investors From Illinois and Iowa Secure 25 Quarter Sections—Other Big Deals Pending.

Four men from Iowa and four from Illinois came to Sherman county last week with J. A. Nye. They were J. W. Lowe, of Atlantic, Ia., John Liken, of Geneseo, Ill., who has large property interests not only at Geneseo but also at Atlantic. A. Carter and A. O. Castle came with Messrs. Lowe and Liken. They are from Geneseo, Ill., also.

Mr. Carter purchased 25 quarter sections of land in the south part of the county through E. F. Murphy. Only four of these quarter sections were railroad lands, and the balance were lands listed with Mr. Murphy for sale.

Messrs. Lowe and Liken were surprised to find such fine cattle here and they bought 150 head of feeders to ship to Iowa. Fifty head were bought of Frank Kunz, 40 of William Walker, Sr., and others were picked up in different places.

Mr. Murphy has another large land deal pending involving about a township each in Sherman and Wallace counties. These things are significant and shows what other men think of Sherman county.

These gentlemen were greatly pleased with the country, and said it was the best stock country, all things considered, that they had ever visited. They showed their faith by their works in the shape of large investments in lands in the county.

IT WAS AN ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Swarts Entertain Last Friday Night—Guests Were Not Aware of It Being Their Wedding Anniversary.

Early last week invitations were out announcing that Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Swarts would entertain at their home Friday evening. Mrs. J. Richardson, of Pueblo, was in the city for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Swarts, and the recipients of the invitations supposed the gathering was to be in her honor.

The guests began to arrive at the Swarts residence about eight o'clock and Mrs. Richardson assisted Mr. and Mrs. Swarts in receiving.

The parlor ceiling was decorated with hangings of white and silver, together with wreaths of smilax and over the double door leading to the sitting room was a festoon with "1876-1901" at either end and an oval wreath in the center surrounding the photographs of Mr. and Mrs. Swarts, the wedding couple of 25 years ago. So it was a silver wedding with the silver left out.

About 25 couples were present and the evening was pleasantly passed in conversation, games and music. At 10:30 o'clock an elegant lunch was served in the rooms of the Round Table club in the Exchange bank building. The tables were decorated with cut flowers, and Mrs. E. J. Jones and Mrs. Hoyt Andrews assisted Mr. and Mrs. Swarts with the courses. The guests were surprised to find that the reception was an anniversary, and later presented Mr. and Mrs. Swarts with a beautiful silver punch bowl, appropriately inscribed.

Two Crops a Year.

R. L. Peters, who lives 15 miles north of Goodland, brought a bundle of barley to The Republic office last Saturday. The tallest stalks were 35 inches long and it was all headed out and filled and the leaves were broad and green. He reported that this was a volunteer second crop on the same piece of ground this season. He said that he had 13 acres of barley that stood four feet high. When the dry weather came on it was well headed out, but the drought and grasshoppers came and fearing that he might lose the crop he cut it early for hay. Before getting around to put it up it got very dry and shelled badly, completely seeding the ground. The rains came on and the field was soon green with growing grain and the sheaf brought in was a fair sample of the field. Mr. Peters thinks if the warm weather continues a week or ten days longer he will harvest a fine second crop.

Other farmers in the county have reported raising the second crop on the same piece of ground this year. Mr. Fox says that he raised two crops of both millet and cane and J. E. Moore reports that he raised a second crop of millet.

Grant.

Mr. Welch, who lives in the southeast part of the county, was in this neighborhood last week looking for a school.

Ed Ross, who has been working at Goodland, has moved back to his farm. Asa Keifer has moved to Goodland.

Ira Stevens is sowing wheat for Bill Smith.

William Richardson returned last week from his hunting trip to the mountains.

J. W. McCall and Ed Ross have rented Joe Boothroy's farm for the coming year.

John Phillips bought a new drill of the Walker Implement company Monday.

Art Ingram broke his buggy. We sorry for his girl.

Miss Esther Phillips spent Sunday with Miss Anna Smith.

W. A. Saxon has taken his cattle home from J. J. Phillips' ranch.

TOLD IN A LINE.

Kansas leads. According to the census figures the population and enrollment in all the elementary and secondary common schools in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma last year were as follows: Missouri—Population, 3,106,665; pupils enrolled, 719,517; percentage of population, 23.17. Kansas—Population, 1,470,495; pupils enrolled, 389,583; percentage of population, 26.49. Oklahoma—Population, 398,245; pupils enrolled, 99,692; percentage of population, 25.02.

The total acreage of prairie dog town in this state, according to the returns to the state agricultural college, is about 2,000,000. The college assumes that there is a population of 50 dogs to the acre and that the prairie dog population is at least 100,000,000. The United States government is beginning experiments along the same lines and will co-operate with Kansas in the efforts to rid the state of the animals. Chemical liquids that can be poured down the holes is probably the way out of the difficulty.

The editor of the Clyde Republican publishes a vegetable poem. It is said to have been inspired by a consignment of garden seed from the member of congress from that district. Here is the first stanza, the others are worse:

A potato went on a mash,
And sought an onion bed,
"That's pie for me," observed the squash,
And all the beets turned red.
"Go away," the onion, weeping, cried,
"Your love I cannot bear."
The pumpkin in your lawful bride,
You cantaloupe with me."

The ballots to be voted this fall will have pictures on them. They will be in the nature of an illustrated edition. The pictures will be the official emblems of the parties. The republican emblem is an eagle with wings outspread. The populists have a cottage, two stories and basement, light airy rooms and suitable for light or heavy housekeeping. No dog is in sight nor is any smoke rising from the chimney. The prohibition emblem is a marine scene, done in black and white. There is a stretch of water in the foreground and at one side, close down, is the sun. The lettering underneath states that the sun is rising. The democratic emblem has not been officially selected.—Ottawa Herald.

Last Monday afternoon John Allen, the oldest man in the Horton shops in both years and service, fell dead instantly. Mr. Allen had been apparently in his usual health, although he complained some in the forenoon. He had been in charge of the tool room for 13 years and was in the act of waiting on one of the machinists when he fell over. Several went to his assistance, but he expired without uttering a word or regaining consciousness, in about three minutes. He was the father of W. I. Allen, formerly general manager of the Rock Island, but now holding a similar position with the Cincinnati, Richmond & Muncie railway.

The Rock Island has under construction at Horton a smokestack, of which the Headlight has this to say: "The new smokestack being erected for the Rock Island shops of this city is a giant in every sense of the word. When completed it will be over 150 feet high. At the base it is about 16 feet in diameter, and at 16 feet in height tapers down to nine feet in diameter. From that on up it gradually tapers to six feet in diameter. This massive structure is topped with a giant cap, probably 12 feet in diameter and four feet high. The outside of the chimney is of steel one-fourth inch thick. Inside this shell it will be lined with fire brick. When completed it will be one of the finest chimneys in the west, the best and largest in Kansas."

The magistrate looked incredulous.

"I don't believe you ever saw a ship," he said.

"Didn't Oi thin?" said the prisoner.

"An' phwat do yez t'ink Oi come over in—a hack?"

The Philadelphia Record says that it went hard with Michael O'Halloran after that.

CAUGHT BETWEEN BUMPERS.

Albert Ford, a Tramp, Has His Feet Mashed While Stealing a Ride on No. 6 Wednesday Night.

Albert Ford, a tramp, had both feet badly crushed Wednesday night at Peyton, Col., while riding on the blind baggage of passenger train No. 6. Ford was between the engine and the baggage car, and when the train stopped at Peyton and backed up a short distance his feet were crushed between the bumpers.

The train crew brought the injured man to Goodland where he was treated by Dr. Arthur Gulick, county physician, yesterday morning. His feet were not so badly mashed that amputation was necessary. Ford says he is 19 years old and a shoemaker by trade, and that his home is in Jamestown, N. Y.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

Petrovitch Bissing, Violinist, and Anna Beatrice Harts, Vocalist, Come to Goodland for a Concert Next Wednesday.

Petrovitch Bissing, the great Russian violinist, assisted by Anna Beatrice Harts, vocalist, will give a concert at the opera house Wednesday evening, October 30. This means a great deal to lovers of good music, and is an opportunity that is seldom presented to the people of Goodland.

Prof. Bissing is warmly recommended as a soloist by Francois Baucher, the renowned French violinist, with whom Bissing has studied. The Salina Daily Republican says of Prof. Bissing, who recently gave a concert there: "When he made his appearance before a Salina audience they thought him an ordinary violinist, but it was only for a few moments that this opinion existed, for as soon as he touched his bow to the strings and brought forth a few strains, the audience beheld Prof. Bissing no more, for they were absorbed by his magic touches and beheld only the artist before them."

Anna Beatrice Harts divides honors with Prof. Bissing wherever they appear. Miss Harts has studied with Prof. N. A. Krantz, graduate in singing from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Stockholm, Sweden, who says: "Miss Harts is an accomplished singer; is the possessor of a sweet soprano voice, having studied with me the method of the old Italian school of singing."

The programme speaks well as to the ability of both Prof. Bissing and Miss Harts, and is suited to the tastes of those that appreciate the higher class of music as well as those that prefer selections that are not too deep. General admission will be 25 cents, and reserved seats 35 cents. Tickets are on sale at The Republic office.

Late Method in Duck Hunting.

Fireman C. H. Albrecht was down to the Smoky last week and returned with 15 fine ducks. The query was how he succeeded so well. One of the best shots in the country investigated the method employed by Albrecht. He found that he took a shotgun and plenty of ammunition; and that besides this equipment he took a fishing pole and line and a quantity of shelled corn.

The theory developed from these investigations was that Albrecht baited the hook with corn, caught the ducks foul and then shot them. Others, however, believe the process was the reverse; that he shot the ducks first and with the piscatory tackle hauled them ashore. But this does not account for the corn.

Teachers' to Meet.

The Sherman County Teachers' association will hold a meeting in Goodland Saturday afternoon, November 2, commencing at 1:30 o'clock. The programme will be: Song; paper, "Relation of the Teacher to the School Board." O. A. Edwards, discussion, Thomas Batts; paper, "Neglected Branches," Charles Bowers, discussion, Charles McCormick, Grace Barnett; recitation, Zora Hall; paper, "The Purpose of a District School," Ezra Vanwinkle, discussion, Mary Funke, L. D. Gillespie; paper, "The Use of Text-Books in Recitation," Miss Holmes, discussion, John Carden, J. F. Kimmel.

Death of Arthur Tagtmeyer.

Arthur Tagtmeyer, aged eight years, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Tagtmeyer, of Voltaire township, died Wednesday morning of diabetes. The funeral was held from the home yesterday morning at ten o'clock, Rev. F. W. Miller, of the Lutheran church, conducting the services. Interment was made in the Goodland cemetery.
